

Royal Naval Uniforms
BERNARDS OFFICERS' SHOP
 40 COMMERCIAL ROAD, PORTSMOUTH
 Telephone: 26116
 30 ROYAL PARADE, PLYMOUTH
 Telephone: 66543
 Promotion Orders a speciality, write for special details, etc., and be assured of personal attention to your requirements

Navy News

The Newspaper of The Royal Navy and The Royal Naval Association

Comfort—In Leisure
 Harris Tweed Sports Jacket
 Terylene/worsted Trousers
 Knitwear by Famous Maker
 See them all now—at Bernards Men's Shop
 40 COMMERCIAL ROAD, PORTSMOUTH
 Telephone: 26116
 30 ROYAL PARADE, PLYMOUTH
 Telephone: 66543

No. 89 NOVEMBER, 1961

Published first Thursday of the month

Price Fourpence

LION OFF TO S. AMERICA FLAG TURNED OVER TO TIGER

H.M.S. Lion (Capt. J. E. Scotland, D.S.C., Royal Navy) sailed from Malta on October 16 having completed the Mediterranean leg of her first commission and arrived back at Portsmouth on October 25. Her stay in Portsmouth, however, will be a short one, for the cruiser is due to sail for South America this month.

The first part of the commission has been full of hard work, intensive "work-up" and exercises, but interesting visits have provided adequate compensation.

The Lion's first duty on arrival was to be the flagship of the Royal Naval Escort to H.M. Yacht Britannia for Her Majesty the Queen's state visit to Italy. This was the first occasion Lion wore the flag of Rear-Admiral J. F. D. Bush, D.S.C., Flag Officer Flotillas, Mediterranean. From Naples Lion paid a brief first visit to Malta before returning to Gibraltar for docking. During this period most of the ship's company visited Spain and for many it was their first experience of bull-fights, flamenco dancing and Mediterranean beaches.

Then came the return to Malta and a concentrated "work-up" programme to weld men and ship into an efficient fighting unit of the fleet. On completion the Flag Officer Flotillas inspected the Lion at sea and on return to harbour signalled: "Lion has shown that she has grown claws and teeth. I rehoist my flag with much pleasure."

F.A.A. 'Original' at Taranto Dinner

THE annual Taranto Dinner to celebrate the successful attack on the Italian Fleet in Taranto Harbour on November 11, 1940, will be held at H.M.S. Ariel, Lee-on-Solent, on November 3, and this year it will have a double significance for the opportunity is being taken to mark the golden jubilee of the Fleet Air Arm.

In March, 1911, four naval officers underwent a flying course at Eastchurch and their enthusiastic reports led the Admiralty to form one of the wings of the Royal Flying Corps and subsequently the Royal Naval Air Service.

One of the four, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Longmore, G.C.B., D.S.O., will be one of the speakers at the dinner. Guest of Honour will be Admiral Sir Alexander Bingley, K.C.B., O.B.E., Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth.

THE SPLENDID CATS

Subsequently, Lion has taken part in exercises and visited Trieste, Ancona, Tripoli in Libya, Beirut, Limassol, Rhodes, Leros, and Kavalla. All the visits were much enjoyed by the ship's company. Of particular note were the trips to Venice from Trieste, the hospitality of the British community in Beirut, the memorial liaison established with the British Service garrisons at Tripoli and Limassol and the aquatics olympiad against the Tiger at Leros. H.M.S. Tiger, having completed her work-up at Malta joined Lion at Leros for the latter part of the cruise. This was the first proper meeting of the "Splendid Cats" and a weekend of sailing, swimming, water-polo, tug-of-war and even water-bicycling was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

On October 8 Admiral Bush transferred his flag to H.M.S. Tiger at sea and the Lion returned to Malta.

Lion paid a brief visit to Gibraltar on passage to Portsmouth to buy the inevitable "rabbits" and off Cape Trafalgar held a memorial service and lay a wreath on October 21, the 156th anniversary of Nelson's great victory.

There will only be time for a week's leave to each watch in Portsmouth for on November 23 the Lion sails again, this time for the eagerly awaited visit to South America. H.M.S. Lion will then be the flagship of a special squadron commanded by the Commander-in-Chief, South Atlantic and South America Station (Vice-Admiral Sir Nicholas A. Copeman).

All major ports in the sub-continent are to be visited before return to Plymouth on February 21 to refit and pay off. An opportunity to "show the flag" in this part of the world comes seldom nowadays, if at all, and the cruise is much looked forward to by all on board.

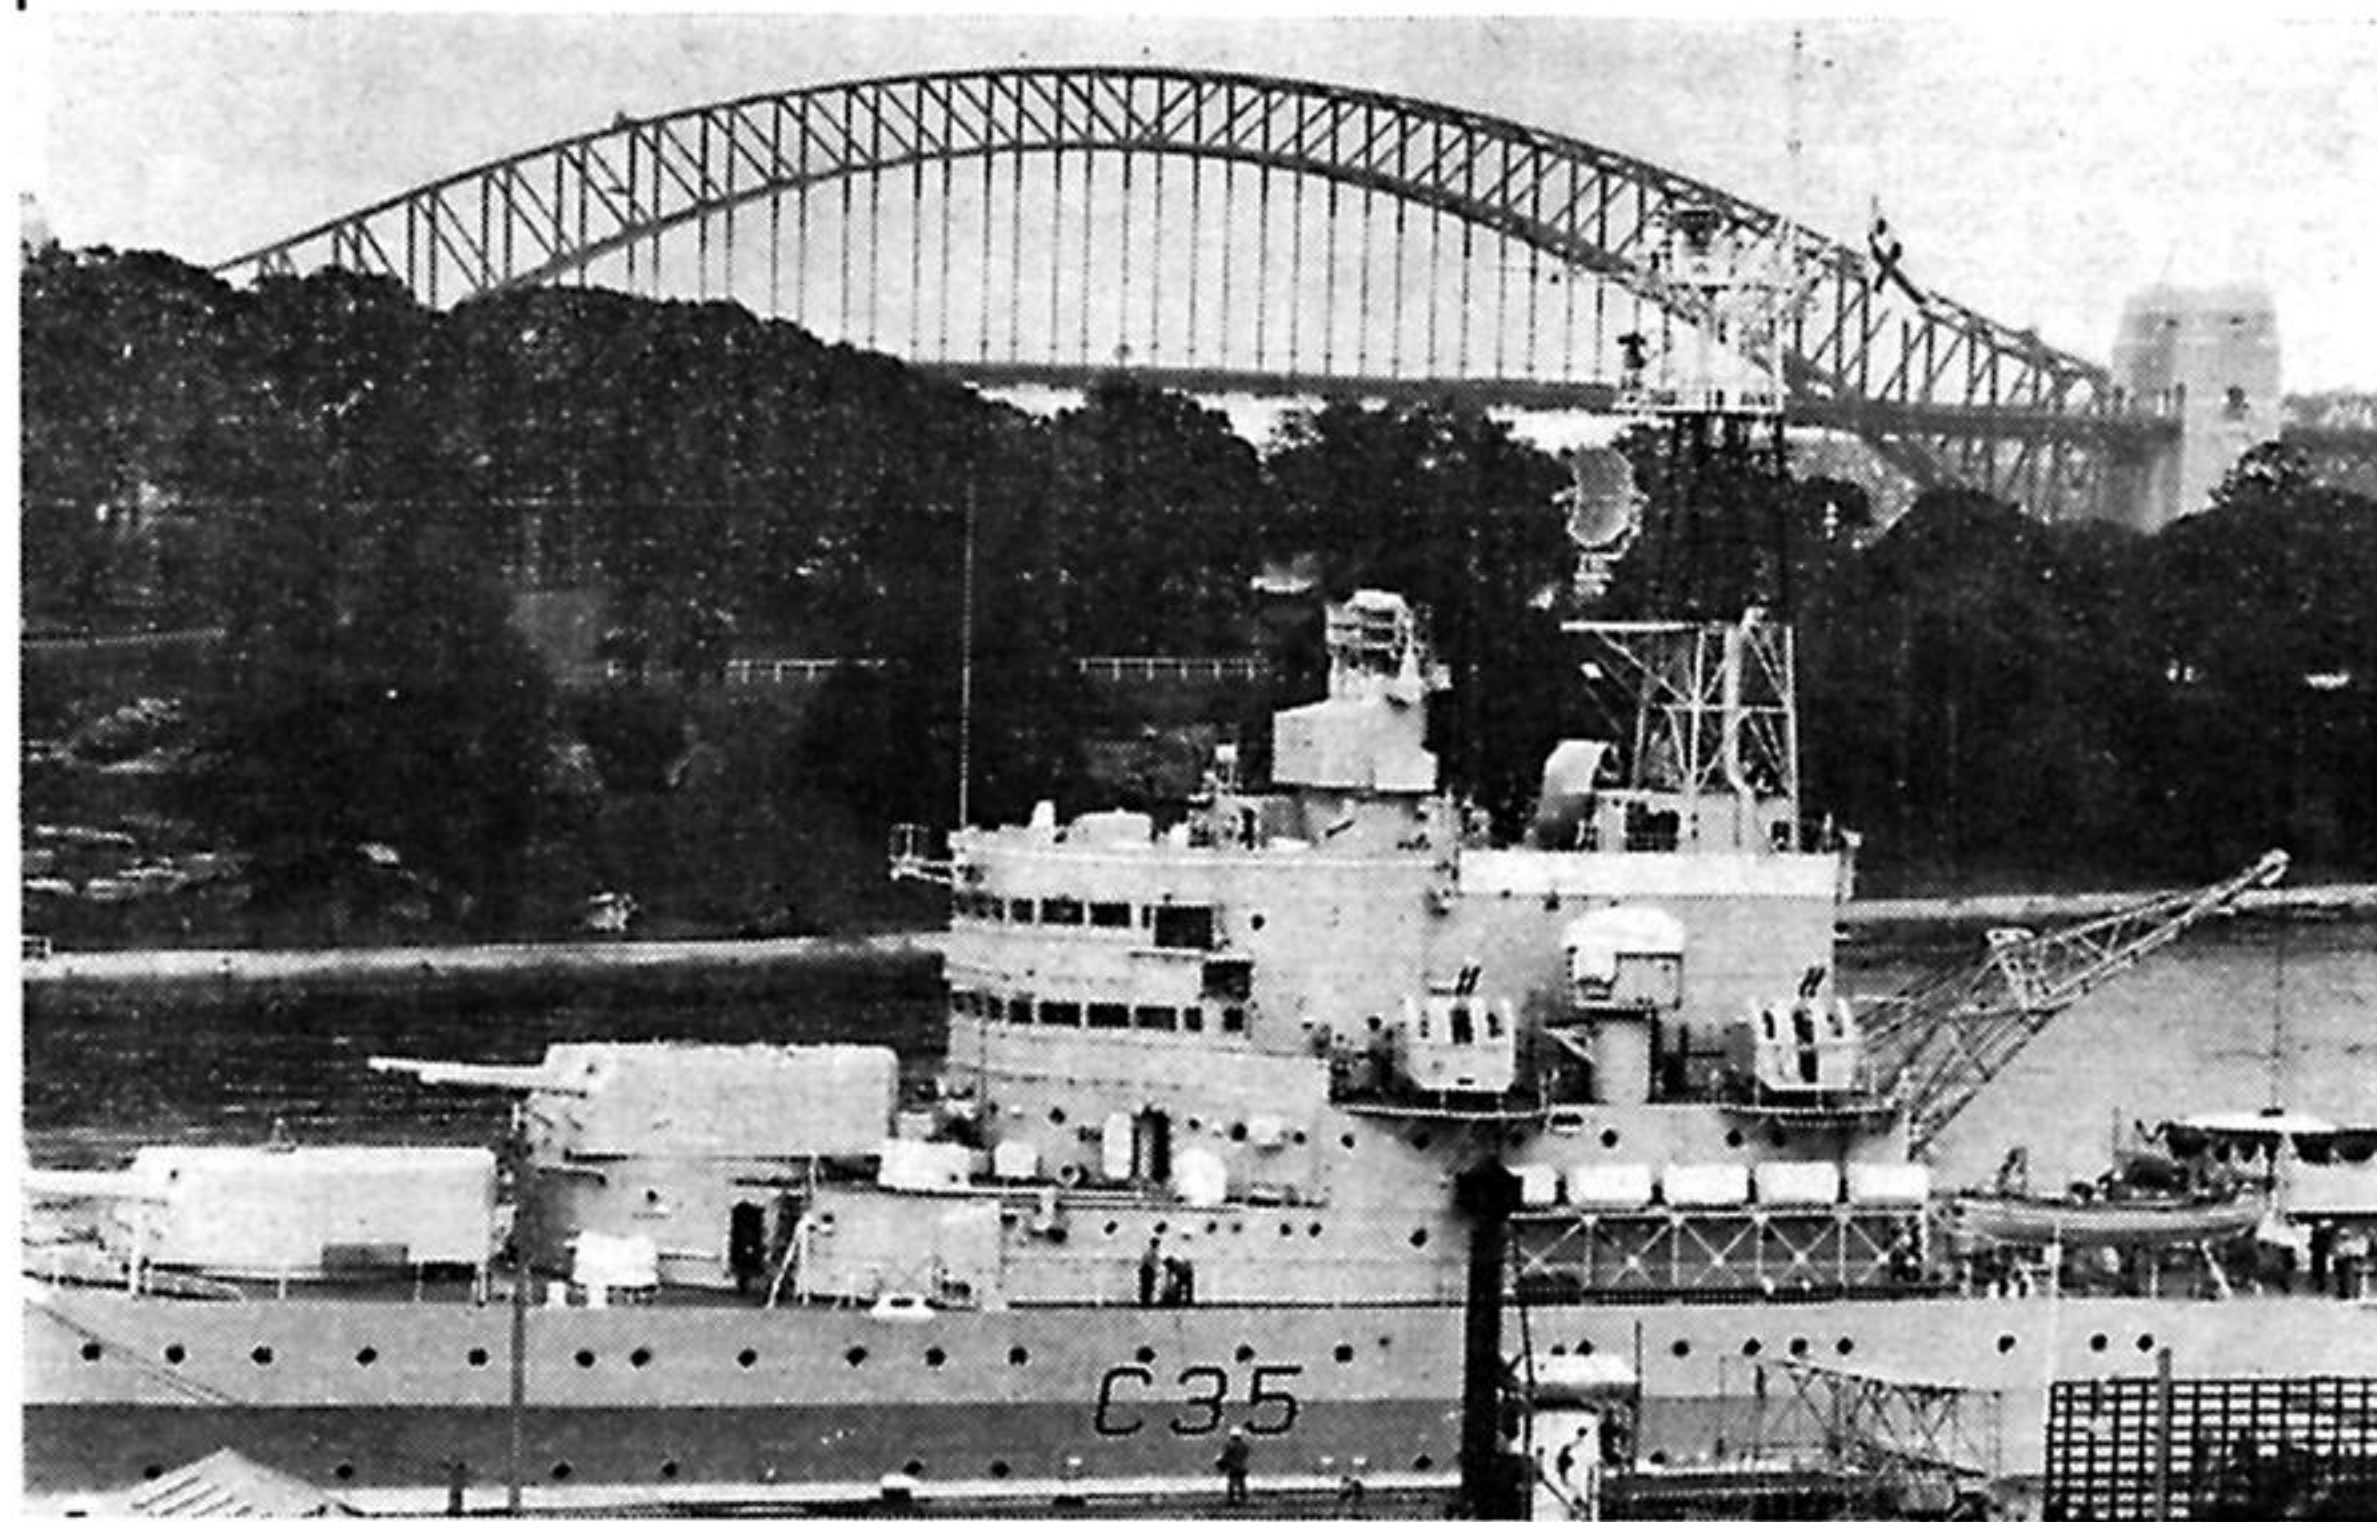

Frigates visit London

FLYING his flag in the frigate H.M.S. Plymouth (Capt. J. C. Cartwright, D.S.C., R.N.), the Commander-in-Chief, Home Fleet, (Admiral Sir Wilfred Woods, K.C.B., D.S.O.) visited the Pool of London from October 3 to 9.

Accompanying him was the frigate H.M.S. Rhyl, (Cmdr. G. J. Dodd, R.N.), the Portsmouth-built ship. Admiral Woods made calls on the Lord Mayor of London and other civic dignitaries, and a special service for the ships' companies of Plymouth and Rhyl was held at the Church of All-Hallows-by-the-Tower on Sunday, October 8, the lesson being read by the Commander-in-Chief.

A Study in Bridges

H.M.S. Belfast at Garden Island, Sydney—See story on page 14

FAR EAST FLEET WILL HEAR VOICES FROM HOME

MORE than 2,500 Royal Navy and Royal Marine officers and men in the Far East Fleet will get a personal message and song from home on Christmas Day if their relatives and friends take part in a countrywide recording session being organised by the Navy's Electrical School, H.M.S. Collingwood, during the next few weeks.

Seven ships and eight landing craft have been selected to receive the taped messages for playing over their broadcast systems, and for the landing craft at least the whole scheme could not be more welcome or appropriate—they are based on Christmas Island.

The other ships are the Commando carrier H.M.S. Bulwark, the destroyer H.M.S. Cassandra, the minesweeper support ship H.M.S. Hartland Point, the frigate H.M.S. Lincoln, the minesweepers H.M.S. Fiskerton and H.M.S. Puncheston, and the submarine H.M.S. Ambush.

Relatives and friends of men serving in any of these ships have only to send a stamped addressed envelope before November 6 to the Christmas Broadcast Officer, H.M.S. Collingwood, Fareham, Hants, saying they want to record a message, and the Navy will do the rest.

Arrangements have been made with a retail firm with local shops in over 350 centres throughout the British Isles to record short messages on tapes. The wives, mums and sweethearts will be told where and when they can record their message and select their favourite recording.

THE FEMININE TOUCH

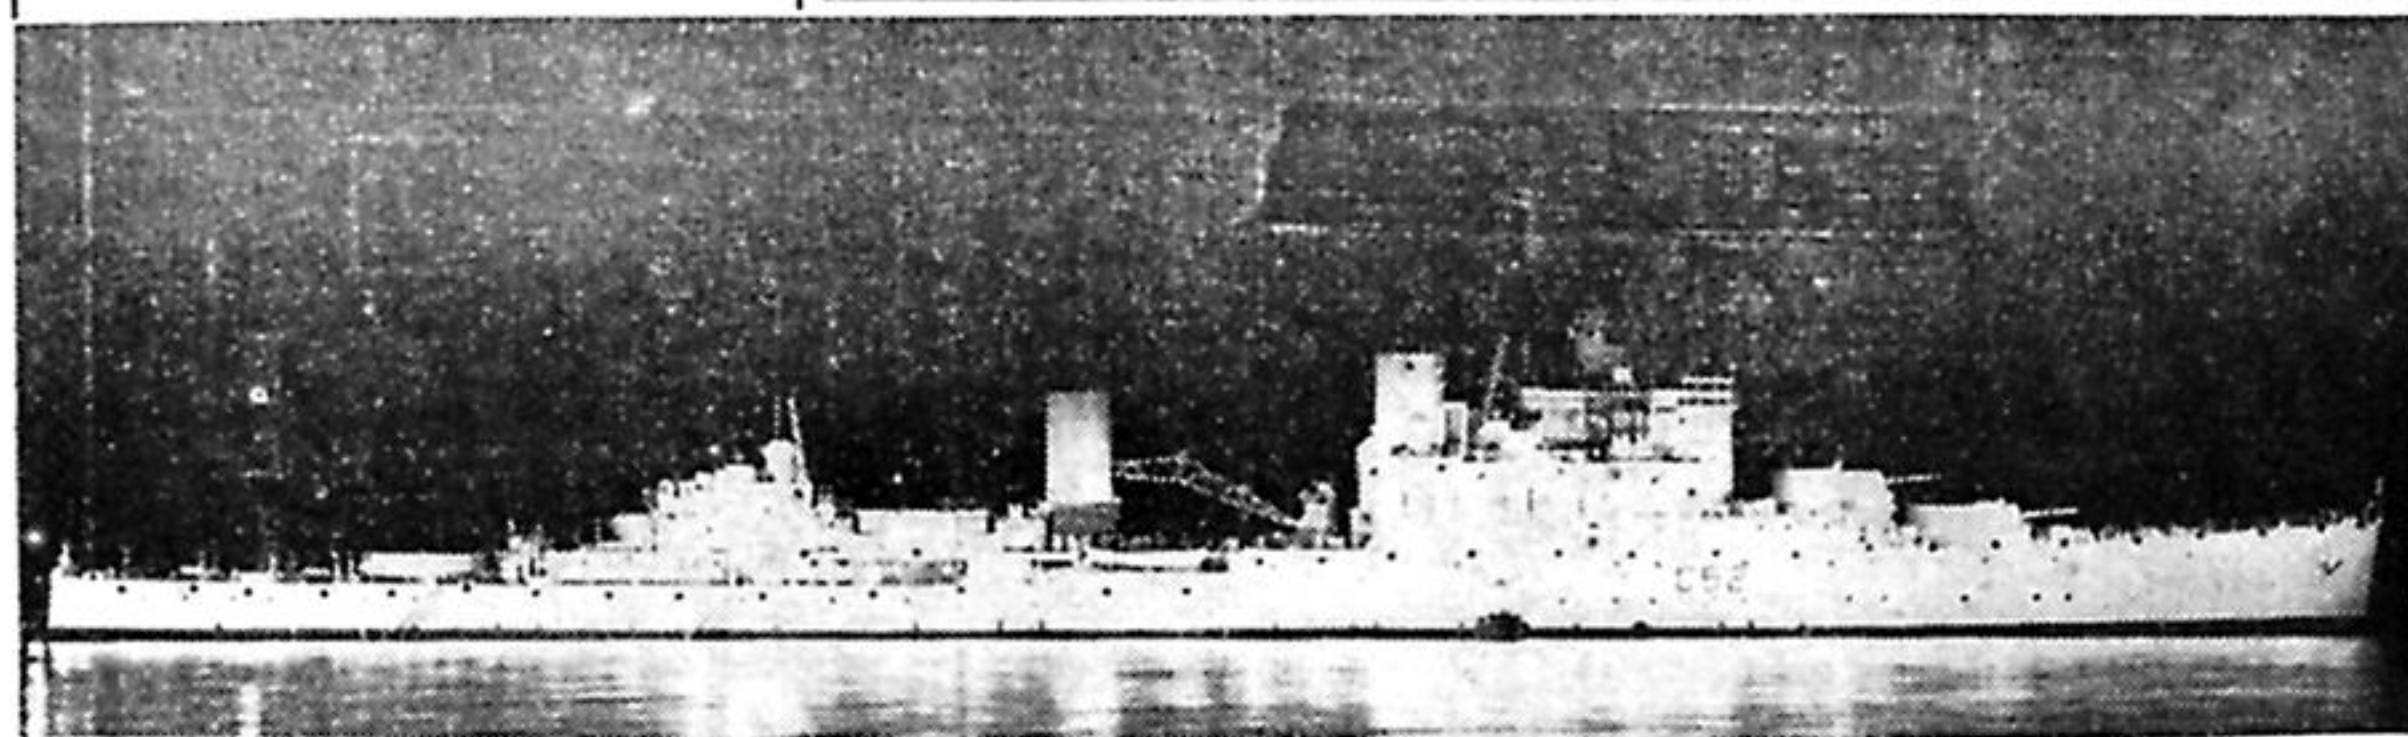

When the hundreds of feet of recording tape start arriving back at

H.M.S. Collingwood, a small team will have the mammoth task of re-recording and editing to produce a Christmas goodwill programme from home for each of the 15 ships.

The voice which will be heard introducing each item will be that of 23-year-old Third Officer April Whitby, W.R.N.S., of The Woodlands, Chessham Bois, Buckinghamshire, who has been chosen to provide the continuity and feminine touch which proved so popular for a similar Naval scheme of Christmas messages in the Far East last year.

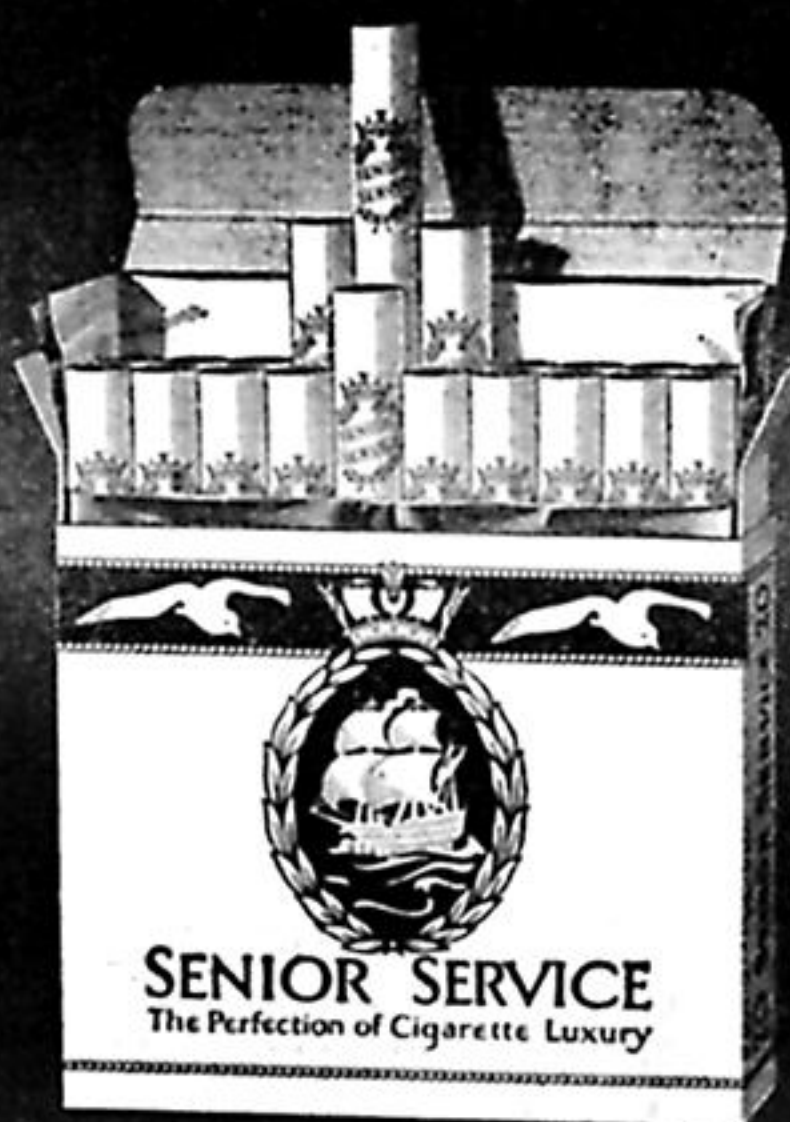

Third Officer Whitby, who has been in the W.R.N.S. since June of last year, is a member of the secretarial staff of H.M.S. Sea Eagle at Londonderry and will shortly go to H.M.S. Collingwood to link home with 2,500 absent sailors.

LIGHTS IN CITY OF DIAMONDS

H.M.S. Bermuda (Capt. M. G. R. Lumby, D.S.O., D.S.C., Royal Navy), floodlit during the recent visit to Amsterdam of a squadron of the Home Fleet under the command of the Flag Officer Flotillas, Home Fleet (Vice-Admiral J. G. Hamilton, C.B., C.B.E.). The other ships were H.M. Ships Trafalgar, Jutland, Broadsword and Scorpion. The officers and men from the Home Fleet Squadron, about 1,700 strong, received a very warm welcome from the people of the city of Amsterdam

THE OUTSTANDING CIGARETTE
OF THE DAY

WELL MADE · WELL PACKED

VIRGINIA TOBACCO AT ITS BEST

Navy News

EDITOR

Lieut. (S) H. R. Berridge, R.N. (Retd.)
Royal Naval Barracks, Portsmouth
Tel.: Portsmouth 22351 (Ext. 72194)

EDITORIAL

"THERE must be a beginning of any great matter, but the continuing unto the end until it be thoroughly finished yields the true glory."

Those words by Sir Francis Drake nearly 400 years ago seem appropriate for the month of November. This month we recall each year, albeit, perhaps, a little perfunctorily, those who died during two World Wars, husbands, fathers, sons and daughters.

It is right that we should honour them, but it is also right and proper that we should remember those who returned to their homes, stricken in body and mind. We talk of the sacrifices made by those who died, those whose last resting place is in Flanders, Gallipoli, Dieppe, the Western Desert, Italy, Malaya or entombed in the ships in which they served throughout the oceans of the world, but let us all spare a thought, and give help too, to those who returned and to those who were left destitute.

Many organisations exist to alleviate the suffering and distress among ex-Service men and their dependants, but it should be a point of pride among those of us who still live in the Free World as the result of the efforts of all who took part in the struggles for freedom that not a single person who suffered through those wars should be left friendless or uncared for.

Cases of distress are reported to these organisations week by week and help is given but more could, and should be done.

Those serving in the Royal Navy today can help in a very practical way. How? By supporting the Navy's own fund—the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust. Present ships' companies can remember the debt they owe to those who died and suffered—and still suffer in many cases—by donating some of their Welfare Funds to the R.N.B.T., on paying off.

The British sailor is of a most generous disposition and, on paying off, the balances of welfare funds are always disposed of to most deserving causes, but it is felt that sometimes the work of the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust for the ex-Service man and his dependants is perhaps not recognised to the extent it should be.

May the Royal Navy find some of the "true glory" referred to by Sir Francis Drake by continuing to support the excellent Trust began by their own folk 40 years ago and which has over the years helped so many deserving cases of hardship.

WEEKEND LEAVE TRIUMPH COACHES

3 Edinburgh Road, Portsmouth
Phone 27351

Operate the following Official Express Service for Service Personnel EVERY WEEKEND

LEEDS	...	47/6
BRADFORD	...	45/6
HUDDERSFIELD	...	43/6
SHEFFIELD	...	39/6
NOTTINGHAM	...	32/6
LEICESTER	...	27/6
NORTHAMPTON	...	22/-
LIVERPOOL	...	44/6
MANCHESTER	...	42/6
NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME	...	36/-
STAFFORD	...	33/-
WOLVERHAMPTON	...	29/-
BIRMINGHAM	...	27/6
COVENTRY	...	25/-
WARWICK	...	22/-
BANBURY	...	19/6
OXFORD	...	16/-
PLYMOUTH	...	30/-
EXETER	...	21/-
BRISTOL	...	17/6
SALISBURY	...	8/3
GLOUCESTER	...	25/-
SWINDON	...	18/-
CIRENCESTER	...	21/-
MARLBOROUGH	...	15/-
READING	...	11/-
PORTLAND	...	16/3
LONDON from PORTSMOUTH	...	13/6
LONDON from GOSPORT	...	15/-
LONDON from H.M.S.

By SOUTHDOWN MOTOR SERVICES Ltd.

All these services will take the following route for the convenience of Service Personnel: R.M. Barracks, Eastney; H.M.S. Vernon; Royal Sailors' Home Club, Queen Street; R.N. Barracks, Unicorn Gate; Stanley Rd. for H.M.S. Excellent; H.M.S. Phoenix; Halsea Lido, Cosham; Hornes Town Quay, Fareham.

N.B.—To all ships visiting Portsmouth: Special facilities to meet your particular travelling requirements can be organised at short notice.

Write, phone or call
TRIUMPH COACHES

3 Edinburgh Road, Portsmouth
Phone 27351

The late Admiral Sir St. John R. J. Tyrwhitt, Bt., C.B., D.S.O., D.S.C. and Bar

Admiral dies a month after leaving office of Second Sea Lord

ADMIRAL Sir St. John R. J. Tyrwhitt, Bt., K.C.B., D.S.O., D.S.C. and Bar, who was promoted to the rank of full Admiral as recently as September 11 last, and who relinquished the office of Second Sea Lord which he had held since December, 1959, in September, died aged only 56 at Millbank Hospital, London, on October 10.

Only son of the late Admiral of the Fleet Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, in charge of the Harwich Naval Forces during the First World War, Admiral Tyrwhitt entered the Royal Navy in 1919 from the R.N. College, Osborne.

He had a long period of service in destroyers and was in command of H.M.S. Juno when the ship was sunk during the Battle of Crete in 1941. A year later he was awarded the D.S.C. for services in the Mediterranean and in 1943 he was awarded the D.S.O. for operations against Rommel's supply lines. He received a bar to his D.S.C. for his part in the Salerno landings.

Service since the war included Captain (D) Training Flotilla, with the British Joint Services Mission in Washington, Naval Assistant to the Second Sea Lord, Flag Officer Flotillas, Indian Navy and Chief of Staff to the Commander-in-Chief, Allied Forces, Mediterranean.

Admiral Tyrwhitt was made a C.B. in 1957 and created a K.C.B. in the New Year Honours, 1961. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. The new baronet, Reginald Tyrwhitt, is 14.

Letters to the Editor

'Cumshaw' travelled the world WEI HAI WEI TO AN ENGLISH GARDEN

SIR,—Your article in October's issue takes me back to Wei Hai Wei and the summer of 1936.

My husband was Captain of the submarine Orpheus, and one day his Chief E.R.A. was at the canteen where he found a Chinese ill-treating a tiny puppy. Kicking the Chinaman in the pants, he took the puppy back on board.

It was soon realised that a submarine was no place for a puppy and so it was put in a Hong Kong basket, brought ashore and presented to me at No. 6 Bungalow.

Cumshaw, from that moment, became a dog of character. Her greatest joy was to chase the sailors and nip their ankles as they passed the Bungalow practising for the Round the Island race.

On the day of the race I was dared by my husband to let her loose, so thought it wisest to take her up to the finishing line. All went well until a cruiser entered harbour firing a salute, the noise of which sent Cumshaw flying with me after her.

Another time my small son and Cumshaw squeezed under the gate and set off to explore the island. They were soon missed and Amahs and Boys sent in search of them.

Cumshaw went down to Hong Kong in Orpheus during which trip the submarine ran into the aftermath of a typhoon. As she insisted on sharing my husband's bunk, and was usually covered with oil, life for my husband wasn't much fun. The Coxswain had the bright idea of making a hammock for her. This had so many ropes and pulleys that there wasn't much room for anything else.

They went ashore in Formosa for much needed exercise and very nearly got locked up by the Japanese.

Cumshaw eventually took passage home in H.M.S. Berwick, and then did six months quarantine, after which she travelled the length and breadth of England, Scotland and Wales with us, during which she had two puppies from a low-down dog she picked up in Barrow.

Finally to New York in the Queen Elizabeth where she found the food too wonderful after war-time rationing in England.

We took the night train to Montreal and she shot under my bunk luckily unseen by the black porter. His face in the morning was well worth seeing.

Ottawa was better than New York and our cottage up the Gatineau just fine. She was one of the first to greet my husband at the airport when he returned from his twelve days "lost" in the Canadian Bush.

Cumshaw finally died aged thirteen and a half and is buried in a lovely country garden complete with head stone.

I don't think that many dogs can have travelled farther from the canteen of Wei Hai Wei. Yours etc. (LADY) E. STIRLING-HAMILTON, Chichester.

Portsmouth Brigs

SIR,—Although I have never been a sailor, my one great interest and hobby is the Royal Navy, particularly the "classic" years of Vice-Admiral Lord Nelson and his "Band of Brothers," and the massive wooden ships of England.

It was therefore with much interest, that I read in the September issue of "Navy News," the letter from Mr. F. L. Evans of Portsmouth regarding the Portsmouth brigs. I am very glad to inform him that I have in front of me as I write a framed photograph of H.M.S. Martin, brig. It is one of my prized possessions. The photograph was taken about 1897-8 on a sunny day with Southsea Pier on Martin's port beam. She is ship rigged, i.e. Main.

(Continued at foot of column)

DRAFTING FORECAST—YOUR NEXT SHIP

Notes (i) The term U.K. Base Port means the port at which a ship may normally be expected to give leave and refit. Portsmouth (C) indicates ships administered by Portsmouth but which will normally refit and/or give leave at Chatham.

(ii) As ratings are normally detailed for overseas service about four months ahead of commissioning date, and for home service about two months ahead of commissioning date, this should be borne in mind when preferring requests to volunteer to serve in a particular ship.

(iii) It is emphasised that the dates and particulars given below are forecasts only and may have to be changed—perhaps at short notice.

SUBMARINE COMMAND

H.M.S. Andrew, December 16 at Singapore for service in Seventh Submarine Division.

H.M.S. Aeneas, January, 1962, at Portsmouth, for service in Second Submarine Squadron.

H.M.S. Tabard, February 2, at Sydney, N.S.W., for service in Fourth Submarine Division.

H.M.S. Artemis, end of February, at Chatham, for service in Second Submarine Squadron.

H.M.S. Thermopylae, March 2, at Chatham, for service in Fifth Submarine Division.

H.M.S. Grampus, April, at Portsmouth, for service in First Submarine Squadron.

H.M.S. Auriga, May 18, at Devonport, for service in Second Submarine Squadron.

GENERAL

H.M.S. Ashanti, October 30, at Glasgow for Home Sea Service, First of class trials, General Service Commission, April (tentative date), Middle East/Home (16 months).

706 Squadron, November, at R.N. Air Station, Culdrose, Wessex helicopters.

H.M.S. Virago, November 8, at Devonport for Home Sea Service, Commissions with crew ex Chaplet, U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

814 Squadron, November 28, at R.N. Air Station, Culdrose, Wessex helicopters, For H.M.S. Hermes.

H.M.S. Pellew, end November at Rosyth.

H.M.S. Ulster, December 14, at Devonport for General Service Commission West Indies/Home (21 months), 8th Frigate Squadron U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

706 Squadron, December, at R.N. Air Station, Culdrose, Wessex helicopters.

814 Squadron, December, at R.N. Air Station, Culdrose, Wessex helicopters.

H.M.S. Cavalier, December 11, at Singapore for Foreign Service (Far East), 8th Destroyer Squadron.

H.M.S. Kirkliston, December, at Devonport for Home Sea Service, 50th M/S Squadron U.K. Base Port, Portland.

1962

H.M.S. Barrosa, January 5, at Devonport for trials, Commissions April 3 for Foreign Service (Far East), 8th Destroyer Squadron.

H.M.S. Loch Fyne, January 18, at Devonport, for General Service Commission, Middle East/Home (18 months), 9th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Hermes, January 30, at Portsmouth, for General Service Commission, Home East of Suez (24 months), U.K. Base Port Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Agincourt, February 13, at Portsmouth for trials, General Service Commission May 1 for 5th Destroyer Squadron, Home/Med (24 months), U.K. Base Port Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Murray, February, at Rosyth 845 Squadron, March 6, at R.N. Air Station, Culdrose, for General Service, Second Commando Carrier Whirlwinds. (Tentative Date).

H.M.S. Caprice, March, at Singapore, for Foreign Service (Far East), 8th Destroyer Squadron.

H.M.S. Rothesay, March, Home Sea Service, Trickle conversion from General Service Commission Captain (F), 20th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Lynx, March, at Chatham.

H.M.S. Rame Head, March, at Chatham for trials.

H.M.S. Cassandra, April at Singapore for Foreign Service (Far East), 8th Destroyer Squadron.

H.M.S. Yarmouth, April, at Devonport, for General Service Commission, East of Suez/Home (18 months), Captain (F), U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Blackpool, April, at Chatham, for General Service Commission East of Suez/Home (15 months), 6th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth (C). (See Note.)

H.M.S. Llandaff, April, at Devonport for General Service Commission East of Suez/Home (20 months) U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Loch Alvie, April 24, at Chatham, for General Service Commission Middle East/Home (18 months), 9th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth (C). (See Note.)

H.M.S. Victorious, April, at Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Whirlwind, April, at Chatham for General Service Commission, Home/W. Indies (24 months), 8th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth (C). (Tentative Date).

H.M.S. Nubian, April, at Portsmouth for trials, Commissions for Home Sea Service September, General Service Commission Home/Middle East November, 1962 (tentative date) (18 months), 9th Frigate Squadron U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Maidstone, May 2, at Portsmouth for Home Sea Service, Trials/Steaming Crew U.K. Base Port, Rosyth.

H.M.S. Whitby, May 24, at Rosyth for trials, General Service Commission, July 26, South Atlantic and South America/Home (24 months), 7th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth (C). (See Note.)

H.M.S. Grenville, May, at Gibraltar for Home Sea Service, Trials crew.

H.M.S. Loch Fada, May 24, at Chatham, for trials and for Foreign Service (Far East), June 26, 3rd Frigate Squadron, (Tentative dates).

H.M.S. Protector, June, at Portsmouth for General Service Commission Falkland Islands and Antarctic F.I.D. (24 months), U.K. Base Port Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Tartar, June, at Devonport for trials, Commissions November, 1962, for General Service Commission, Home/Middle East (18 months), 9th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Torquay, end of June, at Portsmouth for trials, Commissions for Home Sea Service, September 4, 17th Frigate Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Owen, July, at Devonport for General Service Commission Indian Ocean (24 months) U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

H.M.S. Londonderry, July, at Portsmouth for General Service Commission, West Indies/Home (24 months), 8th Frigate Squadron U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Albion, July, at Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Albion, July, at Portsmouth for Home Sea Service/Foreign Service, U.K. Base Port, Portsmouth.

H.M.S. Cavendish, July, at Gibraltar with Trials Crew, Commissions September (tentative date) at Gibraltar for General Service Commission, Home/Med. (24 months), 5th Destroyer Squadron, U.K. Base Port, Rosyth.

809 Squadron, July, at R.N. Air Station, Lossiemouth for General Service Commission, Strike H.Q. Squadron, Buccaneer.

801 Squadron, July, at R.N. Air Station, Lossiemouth, for General Service Commission, For Ark Royal, Buccaneer.

H.M.S. Salisbury, mid-August, at Devonport for Trials, Commissions September at Devonport for Home Sea Service, 4th Frigate Squadron.

Transfers to General Service Commission, April, 1963, Home East of Suez (24 months), U.K. Base Port, Devonport.

and Mizzen, painted possibly black, with white strakes along six "gun post"? lush decked. The sails set are: Sprit, Jib, Main and Mizzen Topsails, Top Gallants and Royals, also "Spanker." The main courses are single reefed.

H.M.S. Martin still retains her bowsprit, with the "dolphin striker" and an ornate "beak." She is making five to seven knots: judging from her bow wave, under a W. by S.W. breeze. I knew that breeze as an old friend, as I spend a week at Southsea in September every year.

J. H. ORME, GLENFIELD, NR. LEICESTER.

LITTLE SHIPS AND THE 'SOB STORIES'

SIR,—My shipmates and I on board H.M.S. Crofton are sick and tired of reading in the last two issues of Navy News of the hardships suffered by ships' companies of the big ships during the Kuwait emergency.

Let's face it, Sir, the majority of ships present in the Persian Gulf were on East of Suez commissions anyway, and so have no cause to complain as to the short time they spent in the Gulf.

If any men had a raw deal they were those of the 108th Minesweeping Squadron, the majority of whose ship's companies were supposed to be in "Married Accompanied" jobs, serving on Local Foreign Service Commissions in the Mediterranean. Altogether we spent a total of nine weeks away from our base in Malta.

MORE LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Despite the intense heat experienced in the Persian Gulf (which made living conditions far more unpleasant aboard our little wooden ships than in the big ships), it was a job that had to be done.

So, please Sir, don't print any more "sob stories" from those hard done by "sailors"—they are breaking our hearts! Yours etc. (NAME AND ADDRESS SUPPLIED TO EDITOR).

[The writer has a point of course, particularly when he says "It was a job that had to be done." It was done and well done, too—big ships and little ships—but it was NEWS and the articles published gave an account of difficulties encountered by the ships which sent in reports. Had reports been received by the Editor from the little ships they too would have been published. Would the "Little Ships" please note for future guidance!—Editor.]

Responsibility

Sir,—It was a great pleasure to read the article "Responsibility is all mine" (by Aycharbee) in the October issue of "Navy News." I earnestly wish that Lord Nelson's understanding of responsibility could be instilled into the minds of all those who pride themselves and (those who aspire to be) leaders of communities, political parties, trade unions and industry. So much depends on the individual interpretation of responsibility, which now in many cases is, I would suggest, accepted in terms of personal cash values.

When promotion occurs, whether in the Royal Navy or any other walk of life, the thought which, perhaps naturally, becomes uppermost in most people's minds, is "How will I benefit?" The honour and joy of promotion, with its added responsibilities, takes second place.

Lord Nelson has always been my conception of a hero, which incidentally led me to join the Royal Navy many years ago. As I climbed the promotion ladder, I accepted the additional responsibility gladly, without a thought of monetary gain (and pay in those early days of mine was very bad), but I felt in my heart a great sense of pride in having been selected for promotion.

Throughout my life, whether afloat or on shore, I have daily offered up this prayer: "O, Lord, help me to keep well and strong, active in mind and body, young in spirit, ever able and ready to accept responsibility, to do good wherever I can, and serve my country in any capacity in time of need."

(Continued in column 3)

Advancements

CONFIRMATION has been received that the following have been advanced to the Chief Petty Officer of Chief Artificer rate:

To Chief Petty Officer

JX581603 K. W. J. Cutting, JX159574 H. R. Parry, JX181920 G. R. Hadden, JX14092 B. A. Bates, JX161753 W. Clegg, JX158882 W. Hearn, JX890942 A. G. Lee, JX607600 J. Mason, JX775401 A. E. McAusland, JX164126 J. Lyons, JX172589 G. R. Phillips, JX801873 S. N. Johnson, JX900853 D. Mace, JX149414 V. A. Porton, JX166670 C. J. Orchard, JX161566 C. J. Hordford, JX172467 N. B. Young, JX159229 W. R. Woods, JX183685 P. W. E. Purfield, JX292587 F. Johnson, JX246255 E. C. Massey, JX661378 K. Ogden, JX44999 R. A. Shilling, JX158547 W. B. Smith, JX660731 P. R. Mann, JX155274 F. J. Colman, JX141606 F. J. Reall, JX909737 E. W. Jones, JX140443 H. Jowett, JX349078 R. B. Derrick, JX161202 T. Wood, JX154867 R. J. Nesbitt, JX135740 W. R. McNicholl, JX160300 M. Dahill, JX158365 L. G. Curtis, JX581095 D. C. Sparkman, JX245582 D. Doherty, JX154620 E. J. Murray, JX166486 F. J. Packer.

To Acting Chief Engine Room Artificer

JX588755 G. S. Nichol, JX585571 L. G. Morris, JX585564 J. A. Hawkins, JX5857320 R. G. Cant, JX5855758 J. G. Lee, JX5855695 K. P. Chivers, JX842999 R. Ainsworth, JX842919 E. R. James, JX857429 G. D. Shaw, JX857401 L. C. Newall, JX842913 A. J. Dorrington, JX587329 J. R. Cole, JX5855865 M. B. Cravos, JX585880 K. M. Fuller.

To Acting Chief Mechanician

JX585934 G. A. Teague, JX884233 C. H. White.

To Acting Chief Ordnance Artificer

JX588532 P. W. Barker, JX588524 D. A. Jones, JX587635 P. Thompson, JX645778 R. T. Herrod, JX581814 J. E. Single.

To Chief Petty Officer Engineering Mechanician

JX789138 K. J. White, JX101539 M. Donovan, JX893630 W. C. Bowcott, JX739706 W. A. Curtis, JX879120 M. J. Wood, JX110364 W. Henderson, JX770236 N. E. Richardson, JX146695 D. G. Reynolds, JX869325 I. D. Anderson, JX788717 A. B. Hendrie, JX775796 C. Binnie, JX803346 K. Beer, JX92915 A. M. Skinner, JX881575 J. F. Coleman, JX71724 A. C. Mornington-West.

To Chief Radio Electrician

JX849601 A. C. Reckie, JX660460 R. S. Hughes, JX867141 P. Clifton, JX843964 D. S. Ward, JX878821 D. W. Moore, JX835097 E. B. Sherratt, JX892614 G. E. Smith, JX586718 G. R. Eaton, JX869685 E. Turner.

To Stores Chief Petty Officer (V)

JX771911 P. J. Shepherd, JX887118 K. H. Glover, JX811201 S. Chester, JX801792 W. H. James.

Association.

The six founder-members are Cdr. G. N. Rolfe, O.B.E., D.S.C. and Bar. R.N., Mr. A. Mann, Mr. H. Knowles, Mr. G. M. Cole, Mr. W. Wesson and Mrs. D. M. Arnott. The chairman is Cdr. Rolfe, the secretary Mr. A. Mann and the treasurer Mr. Knowles. The inaugural meeting took place on October 27 and this was followed by a social.

The Navy League's annual ceremony—Salute to Nelson—at the foot of Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square was broadcast in the Home Service of the B.B.C. on Saturday, October 21. The address was given by Vice-Admiral R. A. Ewing, C.B., D.S.C., and the service was conducted by the Rev. Austen Williams, Vicar of St. Martin-in-the-Fields. The band of the Junior Wing, Royal Marines School of Music, was under the direction of Capt. E. S. Ough, M.B.E.

The members of the Aldershot branch are very grateful to all the branches which supported them. Naturally they are elated with the success of the occasion and as time goes on they hope to show that thanks by appearing, as often as possible, at similar affairs.

TOP STANDARD BEARER

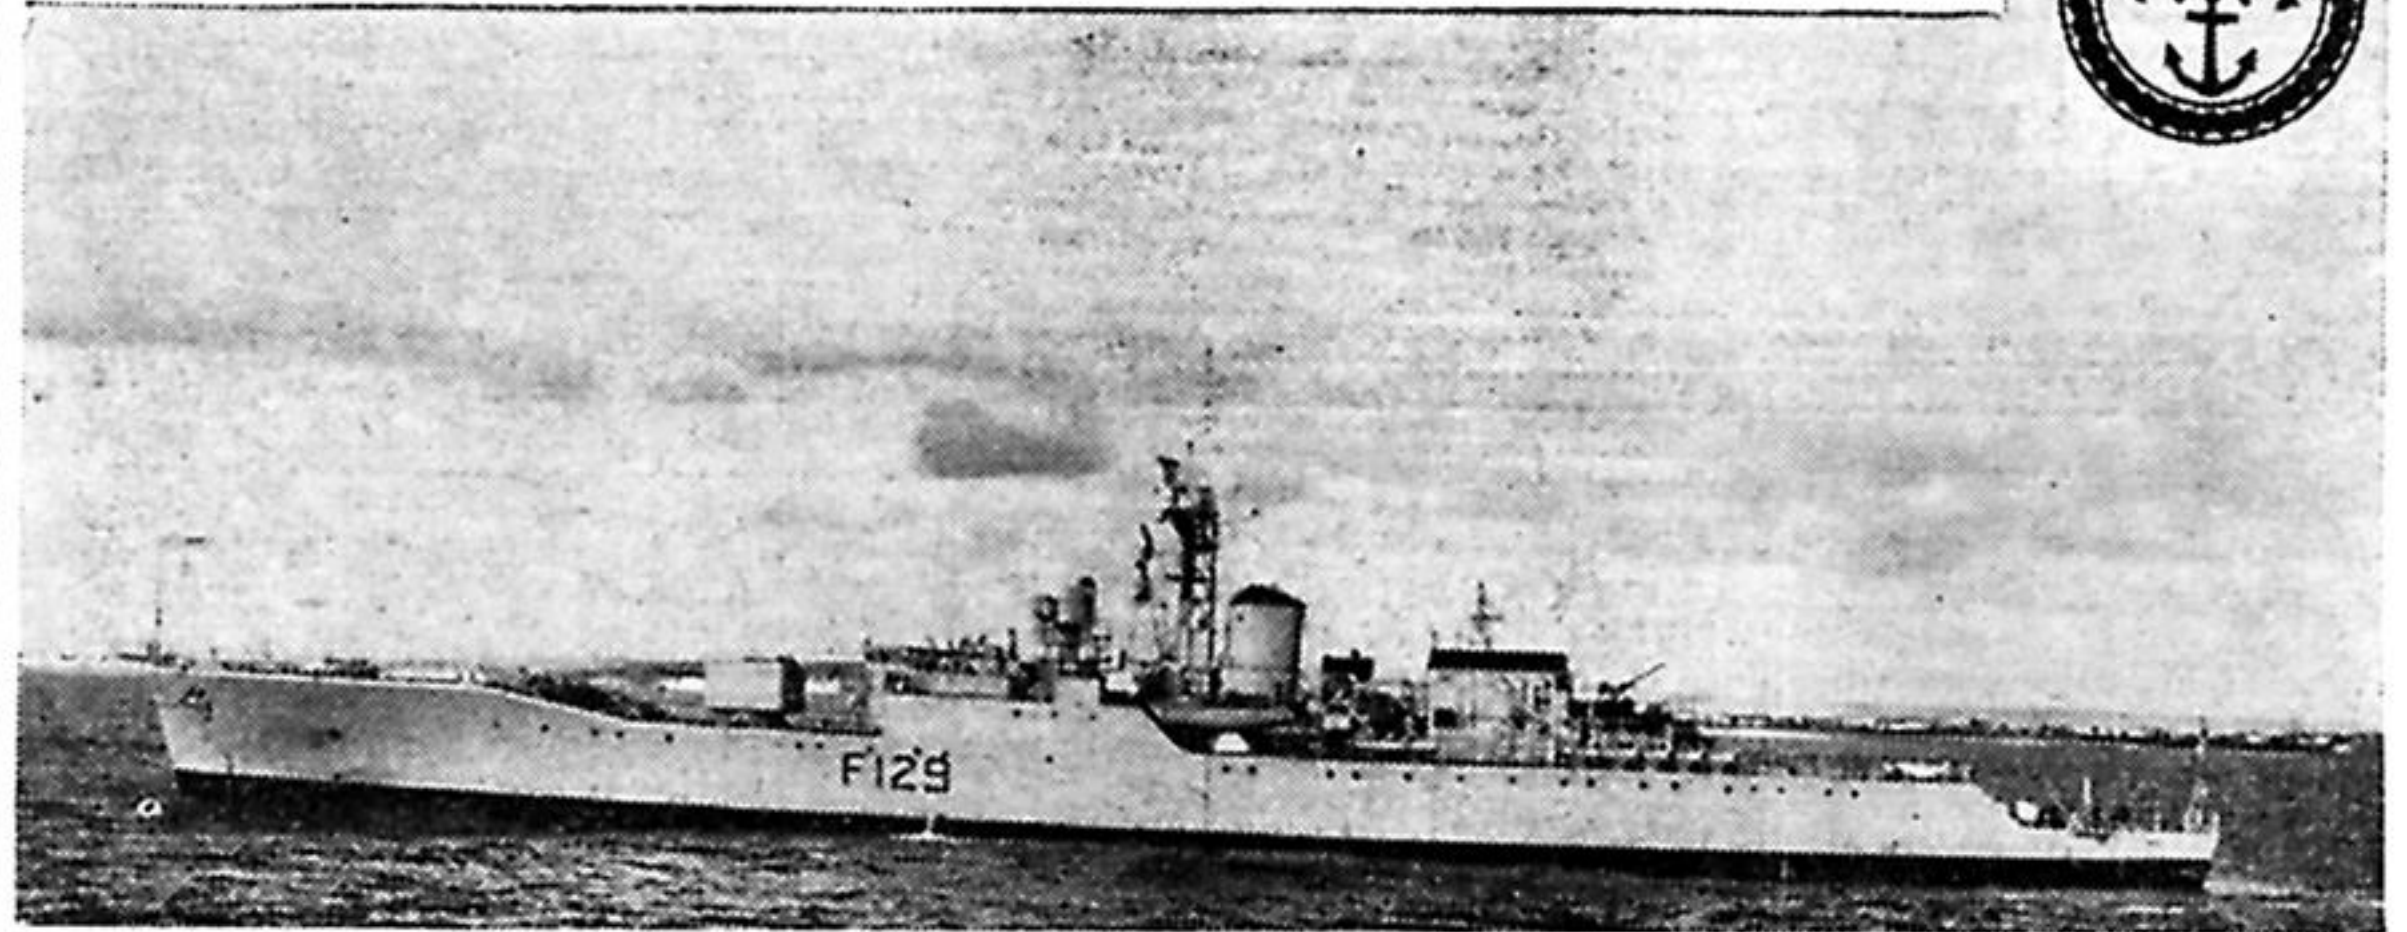

Another feather for their cap came Aldershot's way on Saturday, October 14, when at the Annual Reunion, the branch Standard Bearer, Shipmate R. J. Watts, had the great honour of winning the Standard Bearers' Contest.

The Molesey branch visited Aldershot for the dedication of the Aldershot standard and congratulate the branch on the wonderful show. Molesey shipmates also enjoyed the reunion which, even a foggy journey home could not spoil.

SHIPS OF THE ROYAL NAVY

H.M.S. Rhyl

No. 72

LAUNCHED by Lady Dorothy L Macmillan, the wife of the Prime Minister, on St. George's Day, April 23, 1959, at H.M. Dockyard, Portsmouth and completed on October 19, 1960, H.M.S. Rhyl is a Whitby class Anti-Submarine Frigate of 2,560 tons displacement (full load).

These successful frigates, primarily designed for the location and destruction of the most modern type of submarines, are fitted with the latest underwater detection equipment and anti-submarine weapons of post-war development.

The armament of the Rhyl consists of two 4.5 inch guns in a twin mounting controlled by an electro-mechanical computer system and a single 40 mm. A.A. gun which will eventually be replaced by a Seacat guided missile launcher and director. Two triple-barrelled mortars are fitted for anti-submarine warfare, and also installed are two twin and eight single torpedo tubes.

Rhyl is 370 ft. in length (o.a.) and 41 ft. in beam. Her machinery consists of 2 sets of double reduction geared steam turbines. Two shafts. S.H.P. 30,430—over 30 knots.

The peace-time complement is nine officers and 191 men, of whom about one third are technical ratings.

(Continued from column 2)

Let us hope that those in authority will realise their responsibility for what they say or do, wherever they may be, in this very sick world, particularly those in our own beloved country, which is now harassed by strikes or threats to strike. Let us all retain our dignity and sense of responsibility, remembering that any ill-conceived action on our part may jeopardise the internal unity, and destroy the peace, happiness and prosperity of the nation.

SHIPMATE, R.N.A.
(Name and address supplied to the Editor.)

New aircraft for 'Clipper service'

TRAVELLERS on the Royal Navy's inter-air station "Clipper Service," operated from H.M.S. Ariel, Lee-on-Solent, by 781 Squadron (Lieutenant-Commander R. C. Stock, R.N.), can, in future, expect to travel in the four-engined Heron aircraft, two of which have been recently introduced into service.

These 13-passenger aircraft were purchased from Jersey Airlines and have been refitted for naval requirements by the Naval Air Radio Installation Unit, also based in H.M.S. Ariel.

SHIPS OF THE ROYAL NAVY

POSTCARD photographs of the following H.M. Ships may be obtained from the Editor, "Navy News," R.N. Barracks, Portsmouth, price 6d. each, which includes postage.

Theseus, Bulwark, Ocean, Eagle, Centaur, Glasgow, Kenya, Newcastle, Albion, Ark Royal, Loch Killisport, Diana, Taciturn, Daring, Chevron, Zest, Vanguard, Murray, Cumberland, Scorpion, Liverpool, Apollo, Lynx, Salisbury, Sheffield, Girdle Ness, Maidstone, Newfoundland, Warrior, Britannia, Bermuda, Victorious, Corunna, Alamein, Vigo, Tyne, Jutland, Talent, Palliser, Explorer, Porpoise, Redpole, Gambia, Tiger, Russell, Dainty, Protector, Undine, Defender, Dartington, Carron, Whitby, Eastbourne, Torquay, Mounts Bay, Belfast, Hermes, Armada, Yarmouth, Lion, Hartland Point, Leopard Token, Chichester, Echo, Loch Fada, Tenby, Puma, Blake, Excalibur and Troubridge.

Royal Indian Navy (1612-1947) Club reunion

THE Royal Indian Navy (1612-1947) Club had a most successful Reunion in the R.N.V.R. Club, London, on October 7 and about 50 men lunched together. After the Royal Toast had been drunk, a message of good wishes from H.M. The Queen was read by Captain H. P. Hughes Hallett, R.I.N. (Retd.).

Sir Alexander Symon is an honorary member of the Club and he was called on to speak. Some of his reminiscences of the Indian Army and the Royal Indian Navy caused great amusement. He also told those present some of his experiences whilst he was High Commissioner to Pakistan two years ago.

He went on to mention the good co-operation which existed between the Royal Pakistan Navy and the Indian Navy. There was great cheering when he mentioned that a Royal Pakistan Naval Cadet had won the Sword of Honour at Dartmouth last year.

A message from Rear-Admiral A. R. Khan, Commander-in-Chief, Pakistan Navy, was read and an album of photographs of H.M. The Queen's Review of the Pakistan Navy in February this year was presented to the Club.

Ensigns of three of the Indian Naval Ships were presented to the Club before reports were given on the welfare and other Club activities during the past year.

Vice-Admiral J. W. Jefford was elected a Vice President and Commander E. T. Elliott Hon. Secretary and Treasurer. Captain J. E. N. Coope and Lieutenant-Commander A. T. Bond were elected Members of the Committee.

There were many personal reunions at the At Home after which they transferred to the Indian Club off the Strand where they were Guests at a Cocktail Party given for them and their families by Captain S. Srinivasan.

COMING HOME ON LEAVE? ON YOUR WAY OVERSEAS?

Wherever you're going to be, you'll need a car on arrival. Buy a new Hillman, Humber, Sunbeam now from E.M.A. Ltd., Portsmouth. If yours is an extended posting, take advantage of our special export scheme—you buy at export prices. Let E.M.A. make all the arrangements—export formalities, insurance, shipping, everything. Call at our showroom or write to us today—your car can be on its way tomorrow: or waiting for you when you dock! Or it can be purchased on the home delivery plan for use in this country before you sail.

BUY A HILLMAN MINX
through
ROOTES OVERSEAS DELIVERY PLAN

MAIN DEALERS FOR
HUMBER, HILLMAN
SUNBEAM CARS
E.M.A. LTD.
Grove Road South
Southsea
Tel. PORTSMOUTH
23261

ROOTES WORLD-WIDE OVERSEAS DELIVERY PLAN

WHALE ISLAND WAS 'HOME FROM HOME' IN 1908

- Gladiator in collision
- Reserve fleet mobilised
- I qualify as 'S.G.'

In previous articles "Neptune" has told how he joined the Royal Navy in October, 1904, his early training days and his first commission in H.M.S. King Alfred on the China Station. He now recalls the collision in 1908 of the cruiser Gladiator and his first experiences in Whale Island.

BY NEPTUNE

It was about the middle of April, 1908, that the crew of H.M.S. King Alfred returned to R.N.B. Portsmouth on completion of foreign service leave. For my part, I felt pleased; the novelty of long leave had quickly passed, and I had become bored with long, idle days.

The routine of the Barracks did not appear to have changed. It was inevitable that the drill of "Muster Bag and Hammock" was to be adhered to. "Red Tape" was still very much in evidence, and had to be cut by devious methods.

On this occasion, there was little of my kit that complied with the regulations. Whilst in Hong Kong, Chinese tailors knocked up uniform suits very cheaply from material drawn as slops from the Pusser, but we had no clothing allowance. The cost was debited against our "fabulous" income. No man dressed as a Blue Jacket could feel smart in a Pusser's Regulation rig, so the regulations had been discreetly bypassed during the commission and, providing one did not attempt to be too tiddly, officers of divisions appeared to be quite short-sighted.

Jumpers were cut lower—serge tapes a little longer—trouser legs slightly wider, and no bell bottoms. It was comforting to feel neatly dressed and a credit to the Royal Navy when on shore.

Such breaches of the regulations would not escape the eagle eye of the clothing crusher, but, armed with the knowledge of previous experiences, it was best to come clean, admit one's errors, and contribute to his personal welfare fund. It was the easiest way out of a dilemma.

GLADIATOR IN COLLISION

On Saturday, April 27, 1908, whilst duty division on board, a severe blizzard swept the English Channel during the late afternoon, and it was reported that H.M.S. Gladiator had been in collision with the American steamship St. Paul in the Needles Channel, and required assistance.

The Duty Division in R.N.B. was mustered, and I, with several others, was detailed to join H.M. Tug Seahorse in the Dockyard to replace men on Easter leave. Meanwhile it had become necessary to beach H.M.S. Gladiator, so Seahorse was used to tow out a lighter with salvage equipment, and return with the lighter filled with stores. This rather damped down the spirit of adventure which had arisen within us at the thought of taking part in a rescue and salvage operation.

However, I did get a thrill on one occasion. As we approached the shore off Yarmouth, I. of W., the captain of Seahorse, an excitable little four striper, was anxiously awaiting for a sounding from the leadman; he was bursting with impatience. I happened to be lee helmsman, and he turned to me and ordered: "Get into the chains—I want a sounding." This was rather a my seamanship training in King Alfred had stood me in good stead. Little did I think then that one day I would be Commanding Officer of an H.M. Tug myself.

On return to R.N.B. I was drafted to the Gunnery School, H.M.S. Excellent, on May 9, 1908, to qualify for Seaman Gunner.

WHALE ISLAND

What a revelation the messing, welfare and amenities proved to be. The messes were in four-roomed blocks, two up and two down. Each rating had a bed; the rooms were cosy, with pictures on the wall, and a large double dresser, built into the centre of one of the long walls, on the shelves of which were displayed fancy tea sets and other decorated china. On the stove stood a nice indoor plant.

These homely additions had been purchased from mess funds for the purpose of entertaining friends, sweethearts and wives, of those on duty for the week-ends. For those whose homes were at a distance, Whale Island was a real home from home. A spirit of happiness and contentment prevailed throughout the establishment. How much more happy the lives of those passing through the various naval barracks could have been if this very high standard of welfare had prevailed in all shore establishments.

During instructional hours the tall order, which I accepted as a challenge. Heaving the lead had been a hobby with me. Fortunately I got a sounding with my first heave, and continued to do so until Seahorse anchored.

The ocean tug, H.M.S. Seahorse, 1908

The captain was so pleased that he said he would arrange to have me drafted as Ships Company. My sights, however, were set for the Gunnery School, and when he was informed of this, he let the matter drop.

This incident did illustrate, however, how quickly the path of one's career can be diverted by chance. I felt that strictest discipline was exercised, but officers and instructors took a tremendous interest in the classes under training. After instructional hour, men could go on night leave three nights

6/- PER DOZEN
CHRISTMAS CARDS
in colour

"An East Indian man outward bound," from the painting by W. H. Chambers. Cash with order, or sample card on request.

Sold in aid of SHIPWRECKED FISHERMEN and MARINERS' ROYAL BENEVOLENT SOCIETY which since 1839 has assisted over one million needy seamen and fishermen and their dependants.

(W) 16, Wilfred Street, London, S.W.1

ROYAL SAILORS' HOME CLUB

Queen Street, Portsmouth

Accommodation for ratings, W.R.N.S. and married couples

Restaurant open from 0600 to 2200

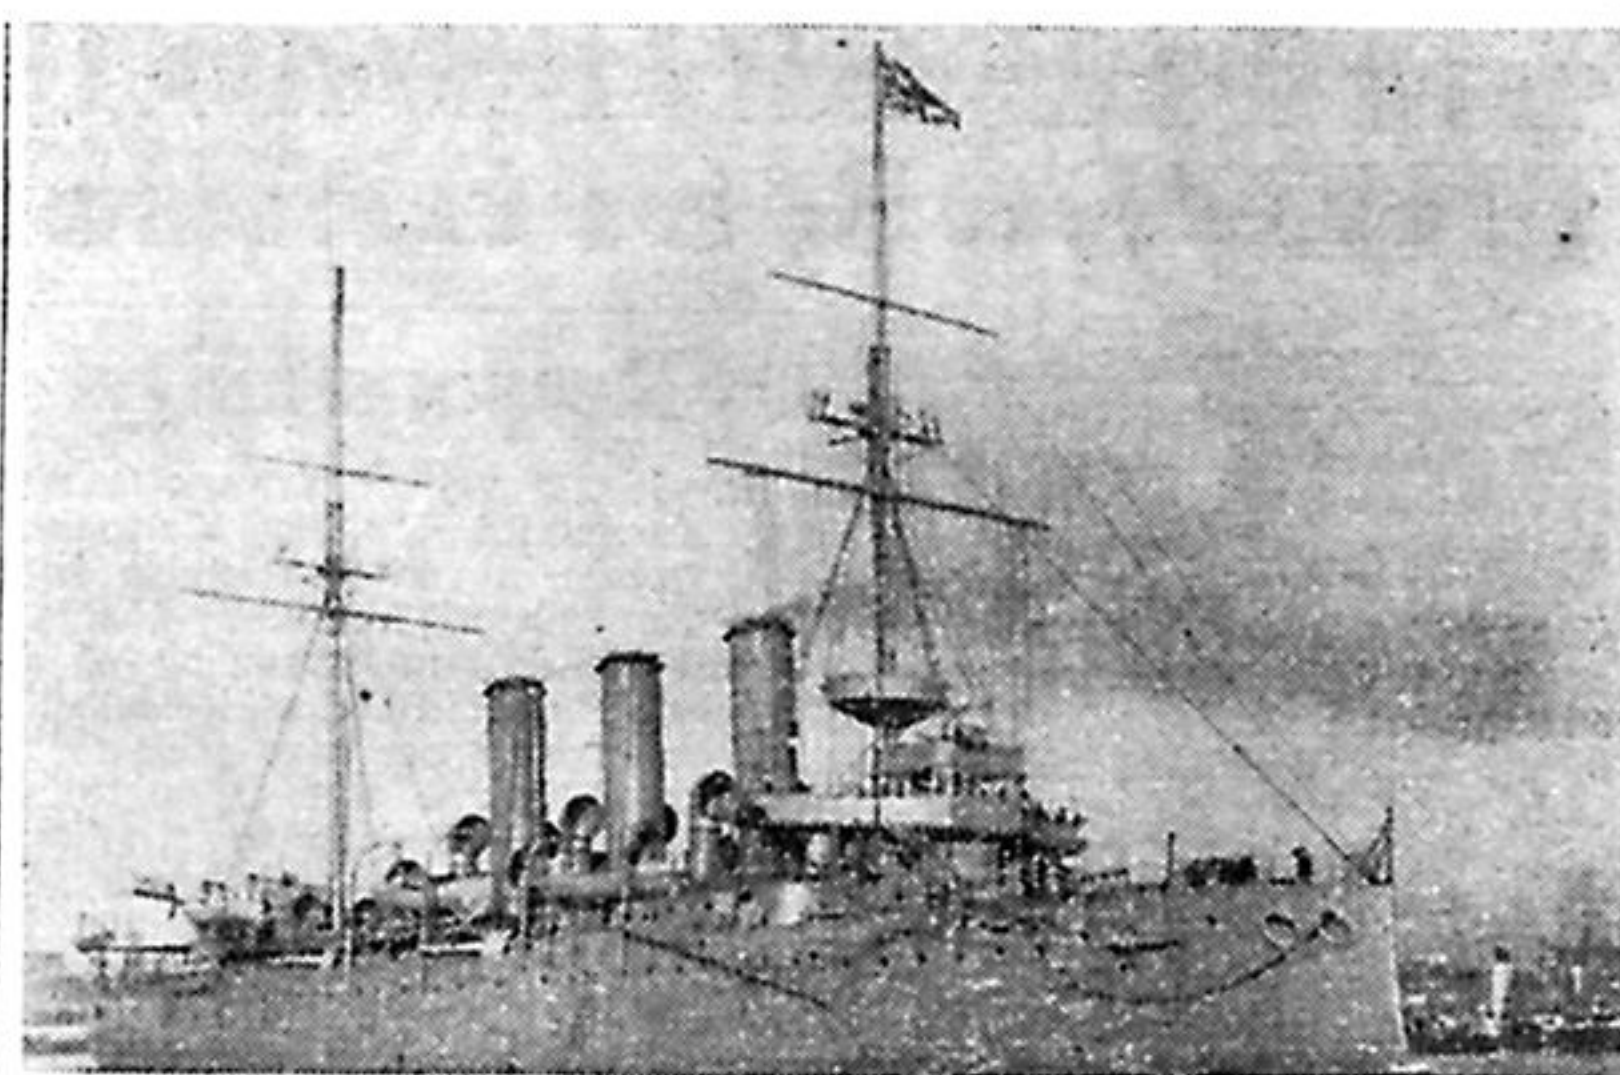

Facilities for holding dances (up to 300)

Small wedding receptions and meetings

BARS BOOKSTALL TV BILLIARDS HAIRDRESSING

Ex-serving personnel can become members for 4/- per annum

Apply Secretary Manager
Tel: Portsmouth 24231/2

H.M.S. Gladiator collided with the SS. St. Paul and was beached at Yarmouth, Isle of Wight out of four. Those on board, other than the duty division, were undisturbed, able to study, read or write in their rooms, or go to the canteen, where a liberal supply of beer was always available.

Liberty men could land at any time between 1600-1830. There were no liberty boats—names were ticked off at the footbridge, and permission to land requested from the Officer of the Day. Whale Island was indeed a home from home.

When "falling in," whether on the quarter deck or parade ground, at routine times, it was remarkable to see how self-discipline was exercised and controlled by the clock. About two minutes before the time of assembly, men would have gathered at a focal point; then suddenly a move would originate and without any orders they would fall in, be mustered, called to "attention" and reported correct to the senior officer responsible as the clock chimed.

OBSTACLE COURSE

The course for Seaman Gunner quickened ones mental and physical activities. The first Gunnery Officer, then Lieut.-Cdr. Backhouse, made sure of our physical fitness. He had devised an obstacle course, between the drill shed and pierhead, running parallel with the shore, about three hundred yards in length. At varying distances were placed hurdles, ropes 30 ft. high, water jumps and ditches, high corrugated obstacles to clamber over. Nobody was excused this exercise, the last man of any class did the course again. The man to do the course in the shortest time for the week, was awarded a prize of 2s. 6d.

Many will remember the hurdles and rope climbing, the parade ground and field gun drill, the West battery for heavy gun drill, the dummy turrets, with the formidable and irresistible class of 12 in. guns, and the North battery for Dotter and Splasher.

RESERVE FLEET MOBILISED

There was much to be learned. The scientific advancement in those days, was as equally intense as today. A high standard of intelligence was needed. The days of clean paintwork, "Gate and Gaiters" had passed for ever. Germany was already challenging our sea power, although the threat was not very great in 1908. It was thought prudent, to close all instructional establishments and mobilise the Reserve Fleet, and I found myself serving as Able Seaman in my first seagoing ship H.M.S. Hawke.

"QUALIFIED S.G."

On return to Whale Island, my course for Seaman Gunner was nearing completion, and I passed the examination without difficulty. But shooting was the true hall mark of gunnery, and a week out in H.M.S. Grafton, the Gunnery School tender, was rather a nerve shattering experience.

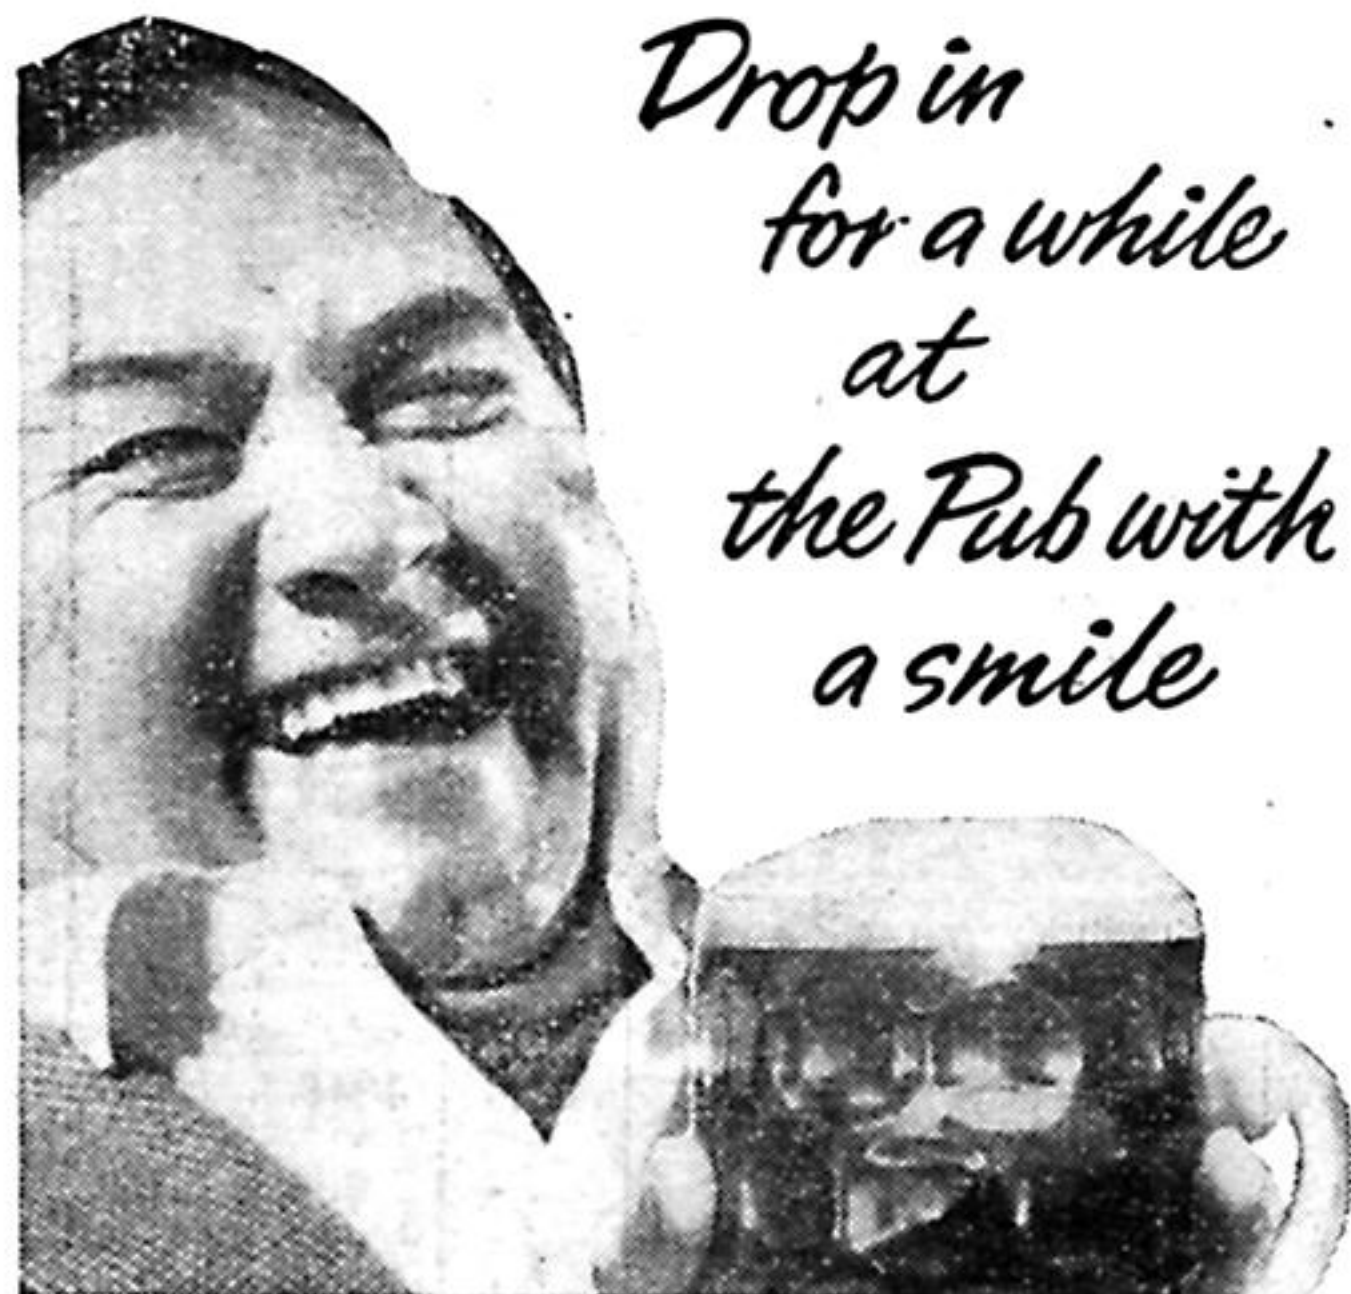

The ship proceeded to Spithead for a week's firing exercise, with some hundreds of ratings to shoot. There was never a second to spare. Target parties rigging trots, classes hoisting up ammunition, others forming gun crews in readiness to shoot. Meals had to be taken when opportunities arose.

I was in poor shape, having caught a chill, and confined to bed in the sick bay. I worried me lest I should miss my shoot so, on the last day, I prevailed upon the Medical Officer to allow me up. My shoot was not a success. Although I got a few hits on the target, I committed the unforgivable sin of knocking down two target masts, and for the time being I had blotted my copybook.

As I stood on that famous stone, outside the Regulating Office at Whale Island, I heard recited: "Qualified Seaman Gunner, available for draft."

During the remaining time at the Gunnery School, I worked with Colonel Cody, whilst he was carrying out kite flying experiments, and during my spare time, working up mathematics, in readiness to take the educational test for Petty Officers, which I successfully passed on December 1, 1908.

On March 27, 1909, I commissioned H.M.S. King Edward VII. Here was a new challenge, what would I make of it?

Drop in for a while at the Pub with a smile

BRICKWOODS

SUNSHINE I.P.A. • LITTLE BRICKY • POMPEY XXXXX DARK ALE
LIGHT BITTER ALE • ADMIRAL STOUT • BROWN BREW

Something to write home about!

Children will find him. Here is a group of happy youngsters at Dhekelia, Cyprus, with Submarine Tiptoe. The rightful owners of the headgear were playing soccer. Army Service Corps team during the visit of Tiptoe to Cyprus

Condor honoured with Freedom of the Burgh

THE year 1961 has been a red letter one for H.M.S. Condor. The Air Station has now been in commission for

HEAD GARDENER RETIRES

ON the occasion of the retirement on October 27 as Head Gardener at Lythe Hill House, Haslemere of Mr. Percy Dimond, of the Bungalow, Shepherds Hill, Haslemere, Commodore R. Hart, D.S.O., D.S.C. and Bar, the Commodore Naval Drafting, made a presentation to him.

Mr. Dimond, who has been at the establishment for over 15 years, has known Lythe Hill House for very many years and well remembers the time when Sir Philip Garton owned the property, employing 15 gardeners.

Peacocks strutted around the lawns and exotic tropical plants abounded. Although this is no longer the case, the grounds are still beautifully maintained with a staff of only three.

It goes to show that, with good planning, the present men can, with hard work, achieve practically the same result. The grounds today are certainly a credit to those who maintain them and Mr. Dimond can look back on a good job well done.

John English

SIR.—In April, 1961, I retired—pensioned after serving only 20 years in the Navy, and I received a form which stated that should I move within a year of leaving the Service, my expenses would be paid.

However, since then I have been told that this information is incorrect and only applies to people who were in married quarters—yet, again, others have told me it is correct.

Now that I have just moved and because there seemed to be so much doubt I have not made a claim. Perhaps you could enlighten me or clarify the position as to whether one can, or cannot, claim.

The following extracts from the Naval Pay Regulations would appear to be relevant—"Men awarded a pension on completion of full time for pension, provided they re-engaged to complete time for pension on or before June 30, 1952, will be entitled to Removal Expenses on discharge." "Move should be made within a period of twelve months from the date of final discharge."

21 years and the birthday celebrations have been threefold: an Air Day, a visit by Her Majesty the Queen Mother, and the granting of the Freedom of Arbroath to H.M.S. Condor.

The Air Day was a great success from all aspects. Thanks to the efforts of R.N. Air Station Lissiemouth, R.N. Air Station Yeovilton, and the Royal Air Force a good flying display was produced, and, together with the local efforts, a lot of people had a lot of fun and a considerable sum was raised for Naval Charities.

On September 26 the Queen Mother visited H.M.S. Condor. Her Majesty made a brief tour of the establishment, meeting many of the officers and ratings, before attending the rededication service at St. Christopher's, the Station Chapel. The Chapel has been extensively enlarged and modernised. Her Majesty unveiled a pair of new stained glass windows to commemorate the occasion. As a link with the past the Queen Mother saw a tree that had been planted in H.M.S. Condor by the late King George VI in 1941.

FREEDOM OF THE BURGH

Condor's long association with the town of Arbroath was recognised by the station being granted the Freedom of the Burgh. This honour was bestowed on October 14 at a ceremonial presentation and parade in the town. The ceremonies were attended by Flag Officer Air Home and the Secretary of State for Scotland as well as other Naval and Civil dignitaries.

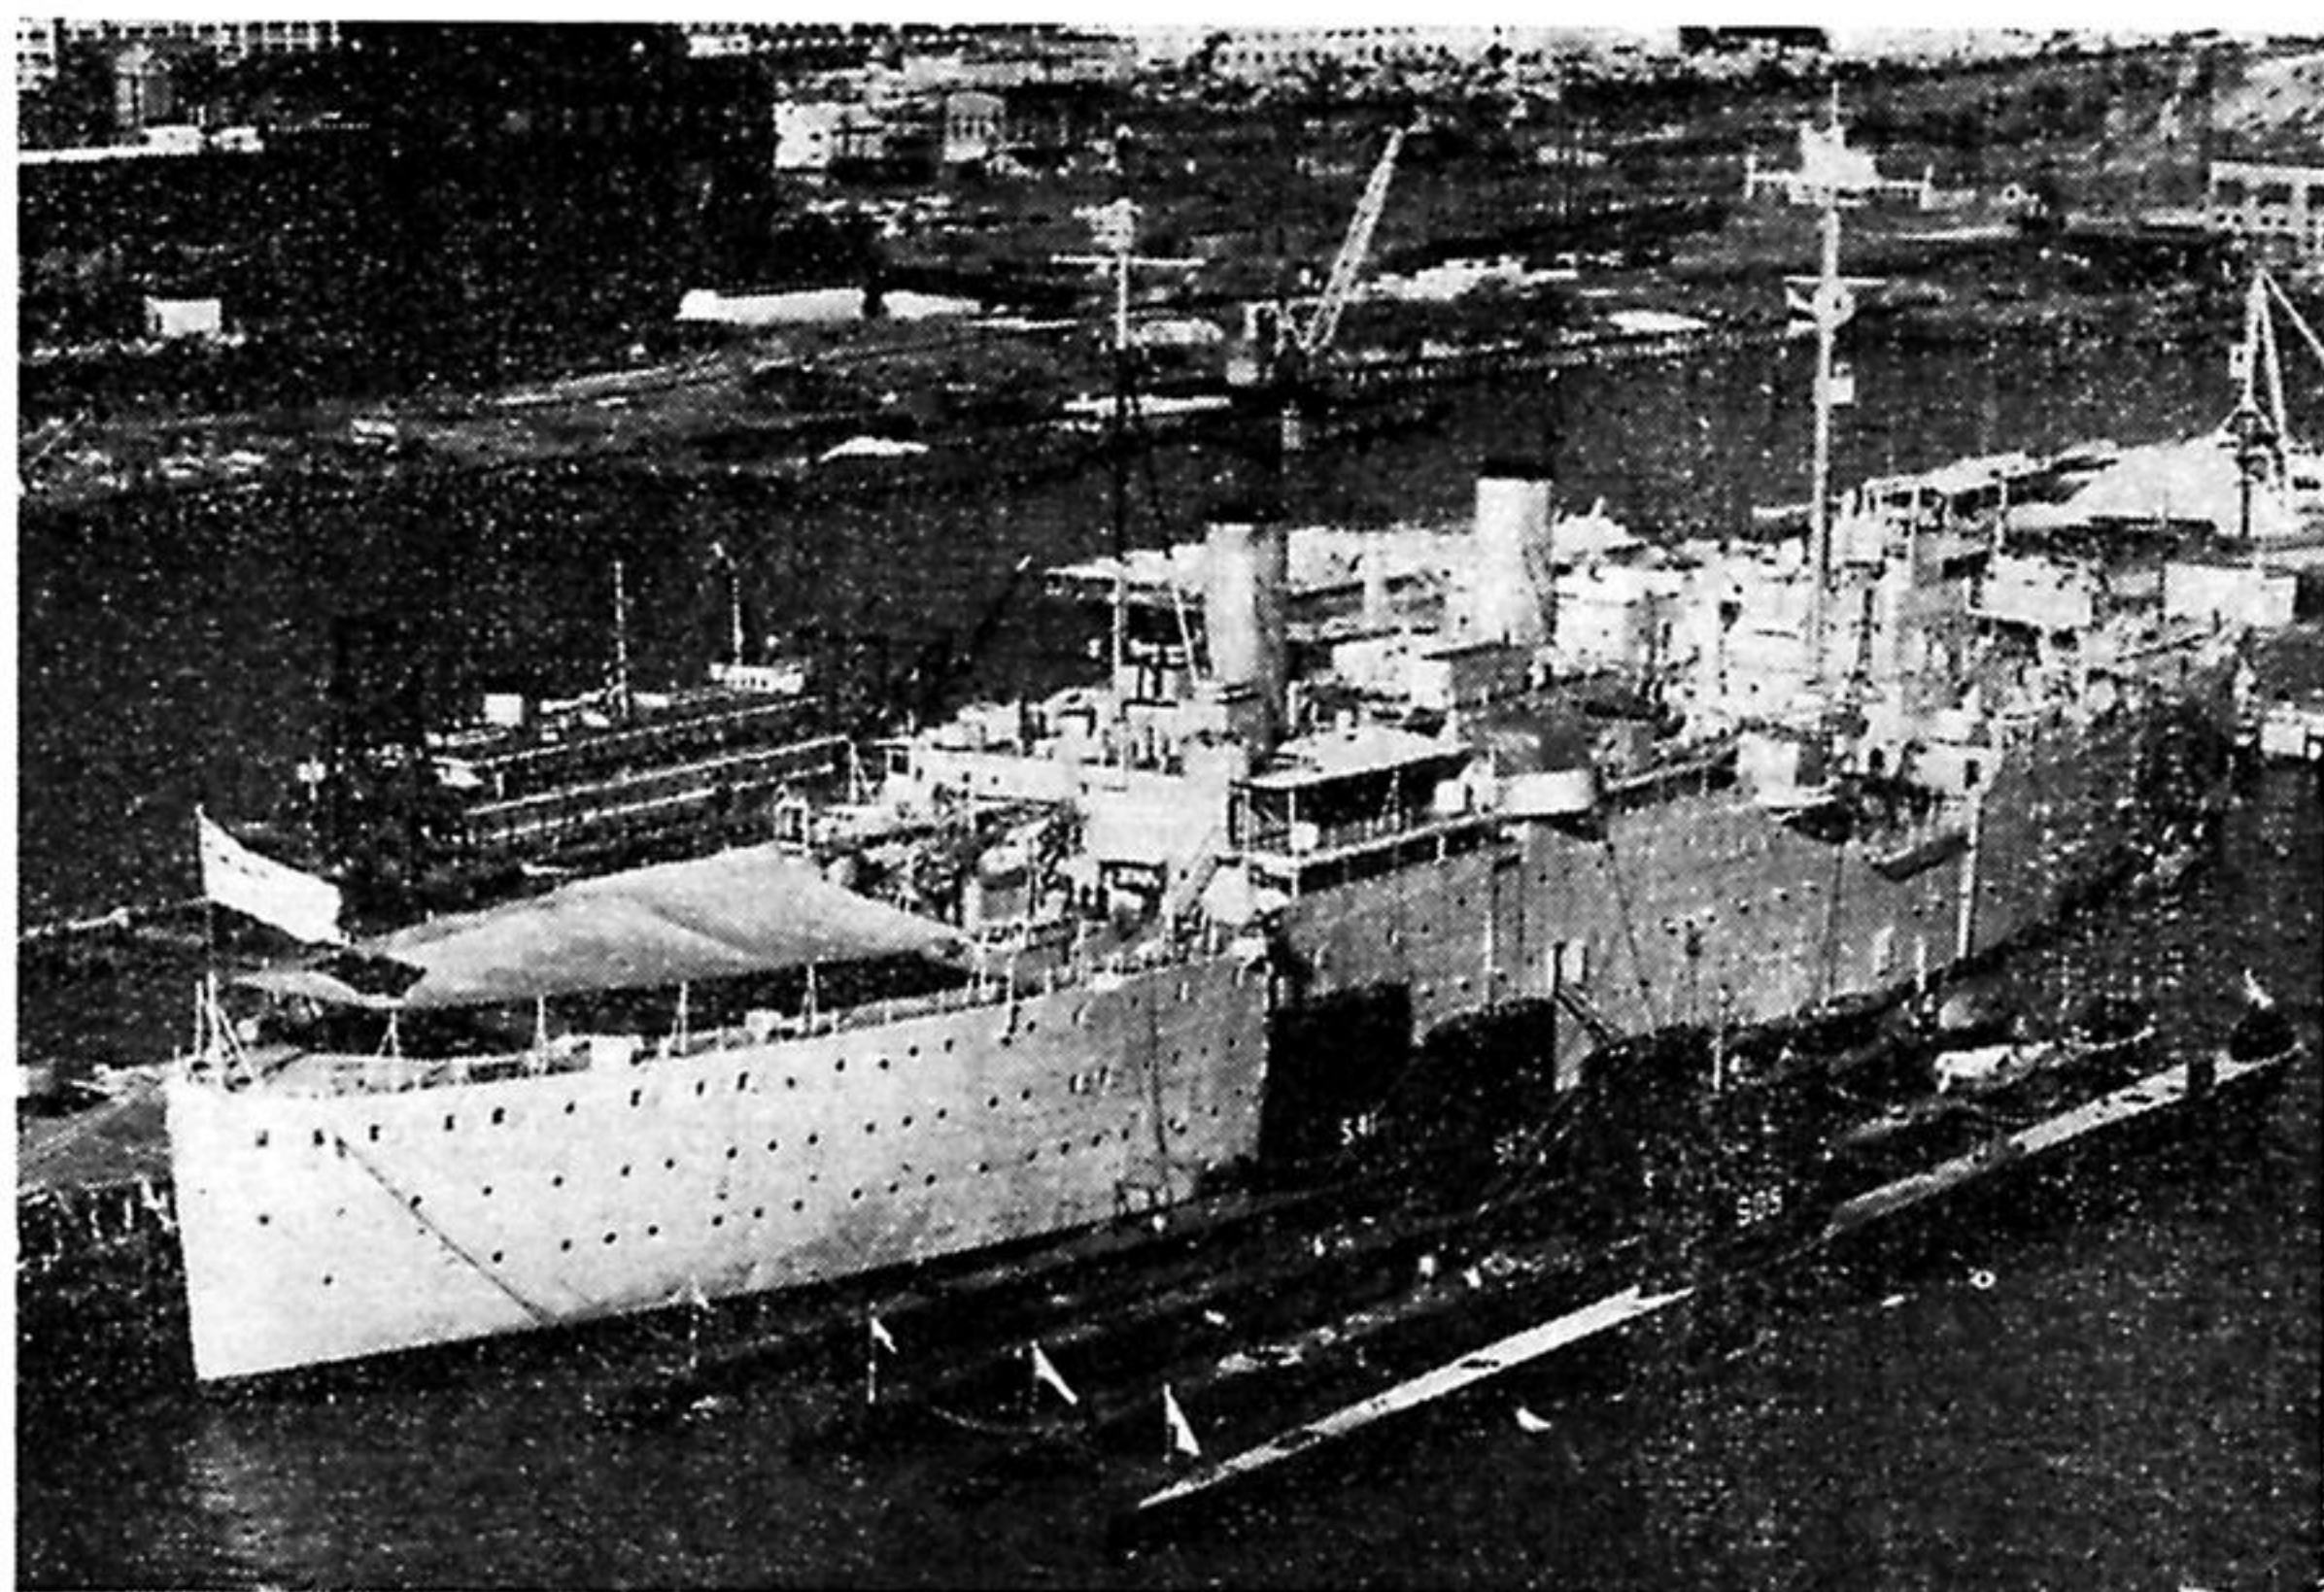

After the Freedom Scroll had been presented it was paraded through the town in a march past of the Ship's Company. The Provost of Arbroath took the salute before giving tea to guests inside the Town House. The participants of the parade were rewarded on its completion with a "pie and a pint" in the local Drill Hall.

LARGEST SOLAR HEATING PLANT

WORK has begun on the Solar heating plant at the swimming bath in H.M.S. Figsard.

The plant can be likened to a greenhouse in that both can trap the large amount of heat radiated by the sun. Instead of keeping plants warm, the solar unit will heat the bath water as it is pumped through the system, and an increase of temperature of five or six degrees is expected.

The Figsard plant, a prototype of which is being made in the establishment's factory, will be far the largest in the country, and possibly in Europe.

H.M.S. Forth, with four British submarines alongside at the Norfolk (Va) Naval Base

'MUM' GETS IN SOME SEA-TIME

Visits to France, Liverpool, Germany, Gosport, U.S.A.

A DEPOT SHIP conjures up visions of weeks and months spent alongside, or swinging round the buoy, but H.M.S. Forth, during her first year based at Devonport, can "cock a snoot" at all who regard her as always sitting on piles of gin bottles and corned beef tins.

October, 1960 saw her arrival back in the United Kingdom after having spent 12 years in the Mediterranean in continuous commission.

H.M.S. Forth recommissioned under the command of Captain M. L. C. Crawford, D.S.C., on November 1, 1960, and prepared to take under her wing the newly-formed Second Submarine Squadron, consisting of 7 fully operational submarines.

Apart from a short shake-down trip, Forth stayed in Devonport working-up the Squadron, and it was in March, 1961, when the old lady finally left the west country, for France. A week-end in Brest, exercise with the Fleet, and once more Forth arrived back in Devonport, to take up her new, all too familiar berth alongside the Coal Wharfs. This berth is possibly the most inconvenient for a Ship's Company the size of Forth's, plus additional submarines alongside, but it keeps the submarines unworried by gales and strong tides.

Although the Depot Ship remained tied-up alongside the Dockyard for long periods, the submarines came and went frequently, with exercises ranging from Simonstown to Nova Scotia. The local exercise areas included most of the water around the British Isles, and recently one of the Squadron submarines—H.M.S. Amphion—returned from trials under the Arctic ice.

However, in May "Mum," as she is affectionately known by all submariners, put to sea, this time wearing the flag of the Commander-in-Chief, Plymouth, for the Battle of the Atlantic Ceremony in Liverpool Cathedral.

Possibly the high spot of the year was the Squadron visit to Hamburg in June, Forth, together with H.M. Submarines Alcide and Amphion paid a courtesy visit to this world-famous port, and the long months of boredom tied up alongside Devonport Dockyard were suddenly ended, and it will be a long time before Forth forgets Hamburg. It will also be a long time before Hamburg forgets the Forth!

EYE OF A NEEDLE

In July, the Mayor of Gosport extended the Freedom of the Borough to the Submarine Branch of the Royal Navy, and the Flag Officer Submarines sailed Forth from Devonport to Portsmouth especially to take part in the celebrations. From the bridge of the Forth, the entrance to Haslar Creek looked a bit like the proverbial eye of a needle! However, it was made in one, and a pleasant week-end was spent at Fort Blockhouse enjoying the hospitality of the First Submarine Squadron.

In September and October of this year, the Second Submarine Squadron took part in an extensive Submarine Exercise with the United States Navy. This meant a two-way passage of the Atlantic for Forth and three of her submarines—Alliance, Alaric and Alcide. Whilst at Norfolk, Virginia, the Depot Ship flew the Flag of the newly-appointed Flag Officer Submarines—Rear-Admiral H. S. MacKenzie, D.S.O., D.S.C.

"Mum" can now look back on her last 12 months with satisfaction. She has done her work well, and the Second Submarine Squadron is on top of its job.

House purchase

A simple way to raise the initial deposit money required for buying your own house. Make out a monthly allotment for the purchase of TENTH ISSUE NATIONAL SAVINGS CERTIFICATES. Here are some examples of how your money grows by the purchase (by allotment) of 10th

ISSUE

NATIONAL SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

PURCHASE PRICE 15/-

If you allot per month		£2 5s	£3	£3 15s	£4 10s	£5 5s
IN 3 YEARS	You will have bought certificates which will now be worth about ...	£83	£110	£138	£166	£193
IN 5 YEARS	You will have bought certificates which will now be worth about ...	£142	£190	£237	£284	£332
IN 7 YEARS	You will have bought certificates which will now be worth about ...	£207	£276	£345	£414	£483

The interest earned on your Savings Certificates is free of Income Tax and does not have to be declared for Income Tax purposes. Savings Certificates are State guaranteed.

Issued by H.M. Forces Savings Committee, London S.W.7

SOUTHSEA'S Two MOST POPULAR BALLROOMS

SAVOY . . . SOUTH PARADE
KIMBELLS . . . OSBORNE RD. SOUTHSEA

AVAILABLE FOR ALL

Ships' Company Dances

whether a Submarine—Destroyer—Battleship or Aircraft Carrier
OVER 50 SHIPS' DANCES CATERED FOR LAST YEAR

Wire—Write—or Phone, Portsmouth 32275

Make your first "Port of Call" for Dancing:

The Savoy Ballroom Radio Band Every Friday

you'll enjoy living...

in a

Nicholls

home

from £2,845 freehold

at PURBROOK CHASE

(near Portsmouth and Southsea)

The perfect blend of town and country—near the sea. Fast road, rail and bus facilities at hand with excellent shops, schools and churches in the vicinity.

For complete information, please write or phone

JOHN C. NICHOLLS, LIMITED

Fitzherbert Road, Farlington, Portsmouth.

Tel: Cosham 70232

DEFENCE BOATS FOR GHANA NAVY

THE keels of two seaward defence boats for the Ghana Navy were laid on October 17 at the Scotstoun, Glasgow, shipyard of Yarrow & Company Limited. When they are eventually launched, the boats will be named the Komenda and Elmina.

The main propulsion machinery for each of these craft will comprise two 500 b.h.p. type 12 YHAXM supercharged diesel engines manufactured by Davey, Paxman and Company Limited and the auxiliary machinery will consist of one 100 b.h.p. Foden FD6 diesel manufactured by Fodens Ltd. of Sandbach, Cheshire.

Sunderland people are 'The Tops' WAKEFUL WARMLY GREETED

By RUDYARD OTTER

A HUMBLE north country town opened its fabulous heart to the frigate Wakeful for five unforgettable days. The town was Sunderland.

Never before have I seen such a staggering display of hospitality to members of the Royal Navy as I did on this occasion. As a roving reporter I have encountered much friendliness from people both at home and abroad, especially abroad. But it took a misty, freezing little town like Sunderland to bowl me over completely. The people there are absolutely tops, and the local girls deserve a huge bouquet for their charm, their bounding gaiety, their affectionate ways.

Hospitality? Members of the ship's company in uniform were permitted free travel on the omnibus services by kind courtesy of the Sunderland Corporation Transport Department.

British ships visit Kiel

H.M.S. Trafalgar (Capt. R. R. B. Mackenzie, M.V.O., M.B.E., Royal Navy) and H.M.S. Jutland (Cdr. J. Honywill, Royal Navy), ships of the Seventh Destroyer Squadron, paid an official visit to the German Naval Base at Kiel, from Thursday October 5 until Wednesday October 11.

The two ships were the guests of the German Navy who entertained them very well. Apart from the usual exchange of visits between messes, the ships companies were invited to a German Musical Comedy, and were also taken to the Naval Monument at Laboe, which is part museum and part monument set in beautiful grounds.

Sport featured frequently on the programme, both against the German Navy and local civilian teams. Sports fields were also made available for inter-ship and inter-mess games. The teams playing the German Navy and civilian clubs acquitted themselves very well. Whereas in soccer the honours were roughly shared, H.M. ships excelled at rugby, but the Germans were the better at hockey.

The ships were open to visitors on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. A great deal of interest was shown by both the local population and the German Navy. Also, 100 children were entertained to games, tea, and a film show on board during the final afternoon of the visit.

Free admission to all the town's cinemas to uniformed members of the ship's company by kind permission of the managements. Honorary members of the Wearside Golf Club (Coxgreen) and a round of golf, if good enough for our Prime Minister, is surely good enough for us as well? Then the Sunderland Y.M.C.A. Centre in Toward Road invited us to enjoy the facilities of their fine establishment. Officers were made honorary members of the Sunderland Club and the Sunderland Cricket and Rugby Football Club (Ashbrooke). The list included the Seamen's Institute in Tatham Street, the Newcastle Road Swimming Baths and High Street Swimming Baths, another miniature golf course at Seaburn (why doesn't former U.S. President Eisenhower spend a holiday here?), the Sunderland Police Recreation Club, the Sunderland Yacht Club club-house, the Royal Naval Association at Roker Avenue, all these institutions made it their business to ensure we would have the time of our lives, and how splendidly they succeeded!

TELEVISION

The ship berthed at Corporation Quay on September 26 and soon afterwards the Commanding Officer, Commander B. W. K. Hewson, R.N., called on the Mayor at Sunderland's Town Hall. An hour later the Mayor returned the call onboard, and the local television cameras popped out to record the event. In the evening the Officers held a cocktail party in the wardroom. The following day a party of 20 ratings visited the Wearmouth Colliery, a party of 25 thirsty men went on a brewery run, and in the afternoon the ship was open to the public.

STOP ROAMING

This was the fascinating pattern of our brief visit. Invitations here and there, drinks all round, much back-slapping and romancing, laughs aplenty, singing in the streets and eventually the appearance of many address books and pencils!

Who sang in the streets? Not us sailors, oh no! It was the local people, young and old, who exercised their vocal chords at every corner and often from across the road with their favourite number "Sailor, stop your roaming. . . ." We heard this one all the time.

When we paused and commented on their friendliness, telling them that such a wonderful state of affairs could not happen in the south, they merely shrugged and replied: "We know, down south they don't say nowt to anyone, do they? So ruddy stood up man!"

Sailor stop your roaming indeed! I should like these cheerful northerners to know that if ever I decide to stop roaming I would be glad to do it in Sunderland, for life here is lived as it should be lived, and what a mighty jolly business it seems to be!

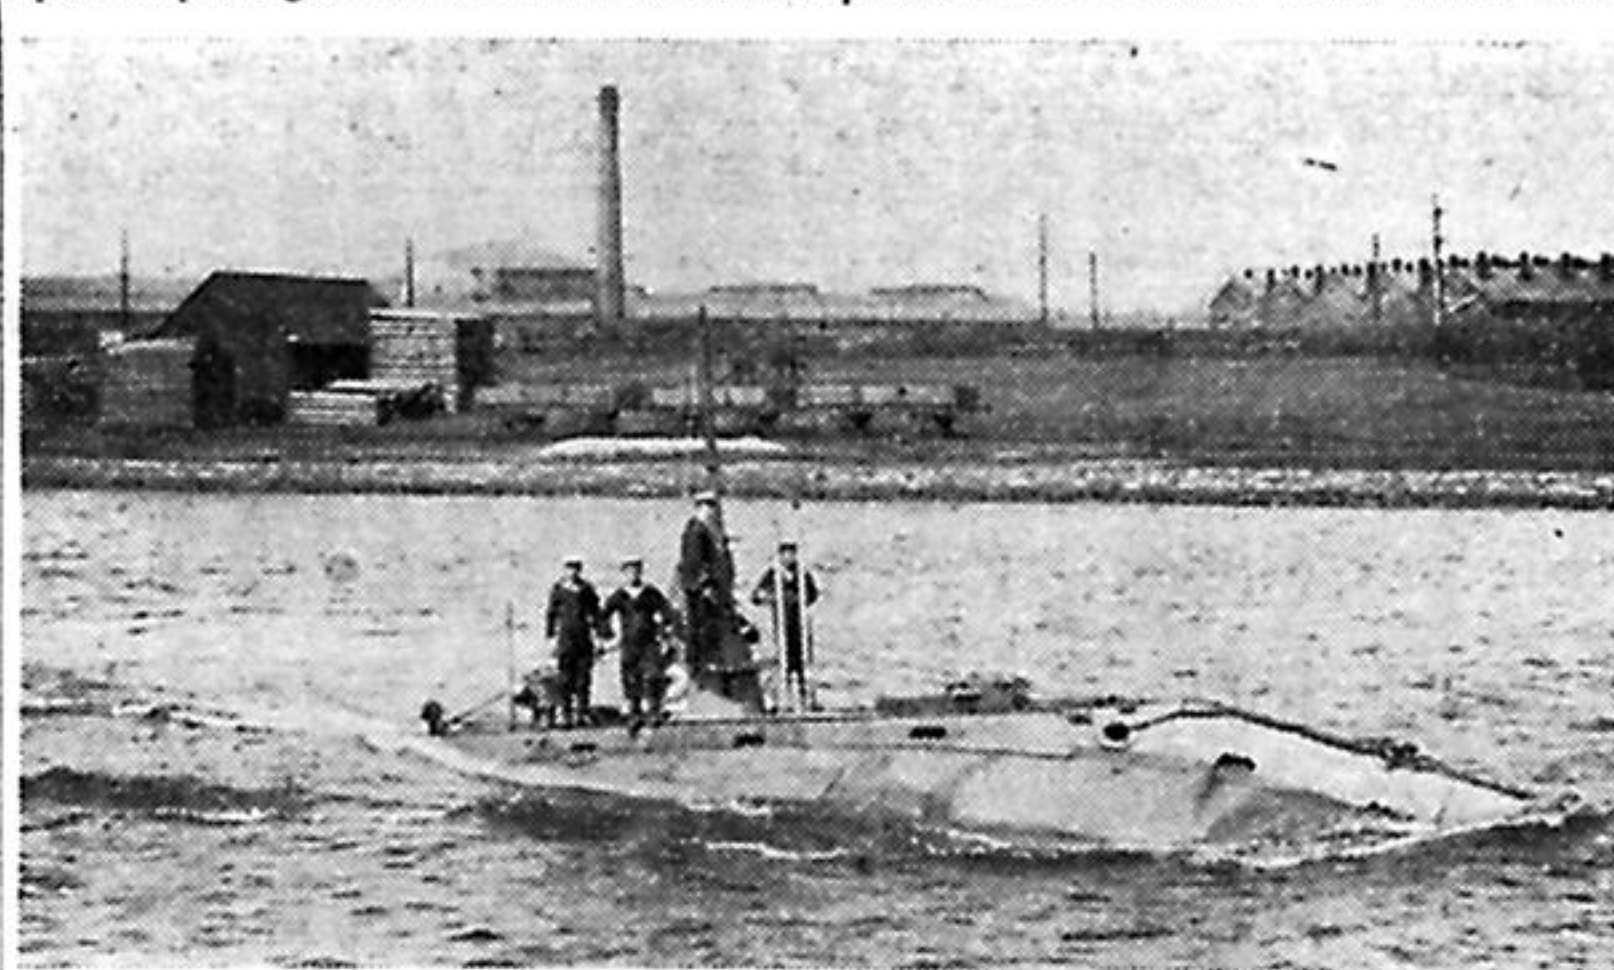

ADMIRAL 'JACKIE' FISHER RAN OUT OF ADJECTIVES 60th Anniversary of the Submarine service

IT was almost a hole-and-corner affair, when the first submarine built for the Royal Navy slid down Vickers' yard at Barrow-in-Furness on October 2, 1901. The launching ceremony was kept as private as possible and the new boat received neither a name nor a number. Built from an American design by Mr. Holland, she became known in the Service as "Holland No. 1."

An observer at the launch stated optimistically that "she showed great buoyancy." In dry dock after the launch, the little submarine—she was 63 ft. long with a beam of 11 feet 9 inches—was under the guard of H.M.S. Hazard, a torpedo gunboat commanded, most fittingly, by Captain R. Bacon, R.N., one of the most outspoken protagonists of the submarine.

the submarines will effect as offensive weapons of war. The italics are Fisher's.

At the same Barrow yard, now nearing completion is H.M.S. Dreadnought, the Navy's first nuclear submarine, with American propulsion machinery—so closely does history repeat itself. The 60 years that have passed, with its two world wars, have An early "Holland" submarine under way.

The original purpose behind the building of the five Holland craft at Barrow was to evaluate the capabilities of the submarine for coastal defence. Sir John Fisher saw at once their offensive role and worked unceasingly to gain its acceptance. "I have not disguised my opinion in season and out of season," he wrote to the Controller, "as to the essential, imperative, immediate, vital, pressing, urgent (I can't think of any more adjectives) necessity for more submarines at once, at the very least 25 in addition to those now ordered and building, and a hundred more as soon as practicable, or we shall be caught with our breeches down, just as the Russians have been [the Russo-Japanese war was then in progress]. . . . In all seriousness I don't think it is even faintly realised the immense impending revolutions which not merely witnessed the establishment of the submarine but almost its supreme importance in the field of naval warfare. The submarines possessed by others have twice threatened our very existence. Submarine and anti-submarine are uppermost in the thoughts of all naval strategists.

What we are now witnessing in the submarine world with its linking of the underwater capability to guided weapon development, may well prove to be the strategic Ace of the future.

H.M.S. Ulster visited Portsmouth during October, her first visit to the port on her present commission. Ulster commissioned in January, 1960, and spent a year in the West Indies before returning to this country in May of this year.

Lowestoft commissioned

H.M.S. LOWESTOFT, an anti-submarine frigate of the Rothesay class commissioned at the Glasgow shipyard of Alexander Stephen & Sons Ltd. on Wednesday, October 18, to join the 5th Frigate Squadron. Other ships of the squadron are the Berwick, Scarborough and Ursa.

After the religious service, conducted by the Squadron Padre, Rev. David Evans, the whole ship's company assembled on the fore-castle to toast the ship in champagne and to cut the commissioning cake.

The Mayor of Lowestoft was present to continue the association of the town with the ships of the name (the last ship, a sloop, was adopted by the town and also spent the early part of the last war near at hand escorting East-coast convoys, until badly damaged by a mine). This Lowestoft will continue her association with the town by a visit as soon as her intensive programme will allow.

The eighth of a line of small, fast ships of the same name (all have been frigates except for one light cruiser) the Lowestofts have served from 1695 to 1945 and have distinguished themselves in actions as far apart as Gaspé (1711 near Quebec) and Genoa (1795), Honduras (1779) and Heligoland (1914).

In the fourth Lowestoft, Nelson served for two years on first obtaining his commission as a lieutenant, distinguishing himself by leading a boarding party against an American privateer. His great friend Collingwood, who later became his second-in-command at Trafalgar, also served with him in the same ship.

The Commanding Officer, Commander R. D. Lygo, R.N., from Trottscliffe, Kent, is taking up his first sea command after 19 years of naval navigation as a pilot. He commanded 800 Squadron from September, 1954, to March, 1956, and has recently served on the staff of Flag Officer Aircraft Carriers.

H.M.S. Brighton Commissioned

H.M.S. Brighton, launched by Lady Reid, wife of Admiral Sir Peter Reid, on October 30, 1959, commissioned at Scotstoun, Glasgow, on September 28.

The third warship of her name, Brighton is an anti-submarine frigate of the Rothesay class.

How can I save?

Of course I try to. But my pay's not enough to save anything.

That's what I thought when I was your age until someone showed me the Progressive Savings Scheme. I only had to put aside £3 a month by Naval allotment but when I leave the Service next year I can collect £855.

Sounds too good to be true. Where's the catch?

No catch. And if I had died at any time my wife would have received the whole £855 immediately. You see, it's a Savings Scheme and Life Insurance rolled into one.

Supposing you hadn't signed on for 22 years' service?

When I had done my nine years, as I had paid premiums for 7 years, I could have drawn £234 to help set me up in Civvy Street. Now, after 22 years' service, I shall have the option of taking the £855, or if I don't need the cash immediately, a pension of £172* a year when I retire from civilian work at 65.

* For members of the W.R.N.S. the Pension is £149 a year.

Which will you take?

I'm going for the pension because there's another valuable right with it—I can get a cash advance for the full price of a new house. I'm all lined up for a job already, and with an extra pension to look forward to and the wife and family safe in our own home—well, it's the kind of security we all want.

How do you set about all this?

That's easy. Ask the Provident Life for details of the Progressive Savings Scheme.

Send this coupon to 246 Bishopsgate, London, E.C.2

Please send details of the Progressive Savings Scheme

Name

Address

Rating or Rank

Age next birthday

Turn thoughts off to REALITY ASHORE

DISTRIBUTORS FOR WOLSELEY,
AUSTIN, MORRIS, M.G., RILEY
VANDEN PLAS PRINCESS
BMC SALES & SERVICE

WHITES OF CAMBERLEY

Phone: Camberley 3443 (10 Lines)
ESTABLISHED 1908

Due to our long association with the services we can offer our expert advice on all motoring problems including our Home or Export delivery schemes.

Plan now to ensure that your car is at the Quayside when you dock. Arrangements made for delivery anywhere if you purchase your car from us.

NEPTUNE'S SCRAPBOOK

Admiral Sir Manley Power, K.C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O. and Bar, was placed on the Retired List to date October 25.

Rear-Admiral M. Le Fanu, C.B., D.S.C., was promoted to Vice-Admiral to date October 25.

Captain P. J. Hill-Norton, Royal Navy, is to be promoted to Rear-Admiral to date January 8, 1962, and to be Assistant Chief of Naval Staff in succession to Rear-Admiral A. B. Cole, D.S.C., the appointment to take effect in January, 1962. Captain Peter John Hill-Norton who was born in South Africa entered the Royal Navy as a Cadet in 1928. Qualifying as a Gunnery specialist he served in H.M.S. Cairo in the North Western Approaches at the beginning of the Second World War and in 1941 was appointed to the cruiser H.M.S. Cumberland and served in Russian convoys. He served in H.M.S. Eagle from 1951 until 1953 and, after promotion to Captain, became Naval Attache, Buenos Aires. He commanded the destroyer H.M.S. Decoy in 1956 and from 1957 until 1959 was Director of Tactical and Weapons Policy Division at the Admiralty. Captain Hill-Norton was in command of the aircraft carrier H.M.S. Ark Royal for the past two years.

Surgeon Captain (D) P. S. Turner, Q.H.D.S., L.D.S., R.N., is to be promoted to Surgeon Rear-Admiral (D) and appointed Deputy Director for Dental Services in succession to Surgeon Rear-Admiral (D) W. Holgate, O.B.E., Q.H.D.S., L.D.S., the appointment to take effect from November 20. Surgeon Captain Turner has been Command Dental Surgeon, Portsmouth, since September of last year when he was also appointed an Honorary Dental Surgeon to the Queen.

Captain M. A. McMullen, O.B.E., Royal Navy, is to be Flag Officer Admiralty Interview Boards, in the acting rank of Rear-Admiral, in succession to Rear-Admiral E. T. Larken, C.B., O.B.E., the appointment to take effect this month. Captain Morrice Alexander McMullen first went to sea as a Midshipman in H.M.S. Nelson in 1927 and is a Supply and Secretariat Specialist. He was promoted to Paymaster Commander in 1944 having been Secretary to Captain (D) in H.M.S. Somali from 1938 to 1941 and Secretary to the Chief of Staff to the Commander-in-Chief, Western Approaches from 1941 to 1943. In 1944 and 1945 he was Secretary to the Rear-Admiral Commanding 15th Cruiser Squadron and subsequent appointments have been Secretary to Assistant Chief of Naval Staff, Secretary to Flag Officer, Ceylon, Secretary to Flag Officer, Submarines, Executive Officer of H.M.S. Ceres and Supply Officer to H.M.S. Triumph. Captain McMullen was promoted to Captain in December 1953 whilst serving as Supply Officer of H.M.S. Vernon, and from 1955 to 1957 was Deputy Director of Manning at the Admiralty before serving for two years as Staff Supply Officer to Flag Officer, Submarines. Since June 1959 Captain McMullen has been Captain of the Fleet, Far East Station, the first Supply and Secretariat officer ever to hold such a position. He received the O.B.E. in the Birthday Honours list, 1945.

Captain the Right Honourable the Viscount Brookeborough, P.C., C.B.E.,

M.C., D.L., R.N.R., Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, has been appointed Vice-Admiral of the Province of Ulster in succession to the late Earl of Kilmorey.

Surgeon Captain W. J. F. Guild, M.D., F.R.C.S., R.N., has been appointed an Honorary physician to the Queen, to date October 23, in succession to Surgeon Captain J. H. Nicolson, M.B., Ch.B., D.P.H., R.N.

Admiral A. P. Vago, the Argentine Chief of Naval Operations was the guest of the Board of Admiralty from October 9 to 13. Admiral Vago had discussions in the Admiralty and visited ships of the Royal Navy at Portsmouth and Devonport.

Mr. R. R. Darroch succeeded Mr. D. C. Leathley, O.B.E., as Commodore Chief Engineer, Royal Fleet Auxiliary Service, on Mr. Leathley's retirement on September 28.

Change at Culdrose

Senior Nursing Sister Sheila Way, Q.A.R.N.N.S. (right), of Devizes, Wilts, is leaving the Royal Naval Air Station, Culdrose, to take another Royal Naval appointment overseas. Sister Way, who departs on November 11, is seen handing over the keys to her successor, Senior Nursing Sister Fay James, of Rottingdean, Sussex, at the sick bay of R.N.A.S. Culdrose

BLOWN UP FOUR TIMES IN WORLD WAR I

THE Harwich Naval Force Association held its 18th annual dinner in London on September 30. For various reasons the attendance was not so good as in some previous years, but this did not prevent the dinner being highly successful and memorable.

The most regrettable absentee was that of the Guest of Honour, Admiral of the Fleet Sir St. John R. Tyrwhitt, Bt., K.C.B., D.S.O., D.S.C., because of illness, and who has since died.

The usual greetings telegram was sent to H.M. The Queen and during the evening a telegram was received from Her Majesty expressing her deep appreciation of the Association's greetings.

The response to the toast of The Guests was given by Mr. A. Chambers, son of one of the members. Mr. Chambers served in the Royal Navy

Aviator as C-in-C Portsmouth

ADMIRAL Sir Alexander Bingley, A.K.C.B., O.B.E., former Commander-in-Chief, Mediterranean, hoisted his flag as Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth, and N.A.T.O. Commander-in-Chief, Channel, on October 17.

The formal turn-over between his predecessor, Admiral Sir Manley Power, K.C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O. and Bar, and Admiral Bingley, took place, according to custom, on board H.M.S. Victory.

Admiral Bingley is an aviator and was a former Chief of Staff to the Flag Officer Air (Home) at Lee-on-Solent, and he is not, therefore, a stranger to the Portsmouth area.

Thirteen dockyard workmen who should have been relieved from duty on the Nab Tower, six miles off the Isle of Wight, were stranded on the tower from October 23 to 28 because of rough weather in Spithead.

Why, Bernards of course!

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

SOUTHSEA'S NEWEST ESTABLISHMENT is now available for

SHIP'S COMPANY DANCES

Superb sprung Maple Dance Floor — Large Bars — Any type of Catering arranged
First-class bands by arrangement with Eric Winstone — Personal Callers are welcome to see the amenities at the most modern Catering and Entertainment Centre in the South

THE NEW PAVILION BALLROOM

CLARENCE PIER

Telephone Portsmouth 21455/6/7

ICELAND 'PROFESSIONALS' AT WORK

'Horse's neck' thaws Thor

By NAVY NEWS CORRESPONDENT

TOO often we have read tales of Fishery Protection Patrols by "Amateurs." Home Fleet or General Service ships who have spent a week or two off Iceland and never let you forget it. By way of contrast this is the true eyewitness account of an incident recently in the news, and comes from a veteran of many Icelandic Patrols—H.M.S. Malcolm.

On Saturday September 23, whilst on her way to Seydisfjord to land an injured trawlerman from the Lord Wavell, Malcolm was called up by the Hull trawler Kingston Amber.

Kingston Amber was fishing off Seydisfjord when she was buzzed by a Catalina of the Icelandic Coastguard Service, who had fixed her position by sextant angles and radar as inside the "line," and dropped green flares to indicate that an arrest was being made. The gunboat Thor, "Villain" of many fishing incidents in the past, then appeared on the scene, and boarded and arrested the trawler after firing several shots across her bows.

At this point it should be noted that the method of fixing used by the crew of the Catalina is known to be very accurate, and with this in mind Commander M. A. Tibby, Commanding Officer of Malcolm, advised the trawler skipper to comply with Thor's orders.

TWO BIRDS WITH ONE STONE

Killing two birds with one stone, Malcolm followed Thor and Kingston Amber into Seydisfjord, for apart from our original mission of landing the injured man, here was an excellent opportunity to watch Icelandic justice in action, and also to establish a social and operational liaison with the Thor. This latter was of particular importance as Thor has long been an unknown quantity on the other side of the fence.

The proceedings, which commenced on Sunday, were conducted in a small room adjoining the village Police Station. The Court consisted of a local judge who laboriously recorded all the evidence, in long hand, using a "Post Office" pen, in a large bound book. The judge was flanked by two impassive assistants, who were presumably assisting him to reach a verdict. The defence consisted of an Icelandic lawyer and two Icelandic agents of the trawler owners, with a local lawyer acting as an interpreter.

The first day was spent in collecting all the evidence for the prosecution. The whole business was quite informal and progressed to the noise of sweet papers, cigarette packets, striking matches, and the laborious breathing of the trawler skipper who made it painfully obvious that he would rather pay up and return to his fishing without wasting any more time.

HEAVY FINE

Late on Monday afternoon the whole process ground to a close and the Court's decision was announced. The trawler skipper was fined £2,150, and his catch and gear confiscated. Nothing daunted however, after lodging a required sum of money as surety pending an appeal, the Kingston Amber sailed to resume her fishing and make up for lost time.

The trawler's crew were made very welcome by Malcolm and came on-board for a film show and canned beer. The liaison with Thor worked very well too, and the Captain and Officers were entertained by the Wardroom. After a slightly formal start the atmosphere eased with an excellent cold buffet and a glass of wine. Two "Horse's Necks" later the "Doc" organised "La-de-dah," and the atmosphere became positively animated.

The ship's company were not slow in taking advantage of an unexpected week-end in harbour, so few in this ship. A football match was quickly organised, some fanatics climbed the 3,500 foot sides of the fjord, while others, less energetically inclined, poached fish over the ship's side and contemplated the rugged but beautiful scenery.

Of course we will be getting in some more sea time coping with our usual gales by the time you read this, but of course we're experienced.

Kingston Amber, under arrest, lying alongside the Icelandic Gunboat Thor

Fifty-thousand miles in eleven months ROCKET WAS RIGHTLY NAMED

ON the morning of October 28, 1960 H.M.S. Rocket was lying in her "coon-coated" crysalis in the Reserve Fleet moorings at Portsmouth, having been out of the active fleet for six years. Ten days later she was at sea, and one month later, on November 26, having worked up and stored for tropical service she sailed from Portsmouth for Service East of Suez with the 16th Frigate Squadron, into the teeth of a south-westerly gale.

On October 23, 1961 she returned to Portsmouth after steaming over 50,000 miles, or twice round the world in the last 11 months.

H.M.S. Rocket's ship's company originally commissioned H.M.S. Undine, another Type 15 Anti-submarine Frigate in April 1960. However, when in October 1960 it became impossible to reconcile her operational programme with the time required for docking and work on the ship, it was decided that they should transfer, complete, to H.M.S. Rocket. Thus at the same time it became possible both to meet operational commitments and to test the Reserve Fleet organisation.

On their return to the United Kingdom the ship's company had steamed over 76,000 miles, three times round the world, and with another six months of service ahead in the Home Fleet look like clocking-up 100,000 miles in their two year commission.

Their service in the two ships has ranged from North of the Arctic Circle to South of the Equator, and from the shores of Iceland to those of North Japan.

TYPHOON ALICE

The Far Eastern leg of the commission has been a very happy and successful one and it is difficult to pick out the highlights, although the visits to Hong Kong and Japan were greatly enjoyed by all. The prelude to the Japanese visit was anything but enjoyable. The ship arrived at Otaru, in the North of Japan, to find that Typhoon Alice had turned back from the Chinese mainland and was heading for the area. The welcoming festivities were rudely interrupted when Rocket had to put to sea in the middle of the night.

An unusual memory is the anti-piracy patrol off North Borneo. In fact this turned out very quietly as far as pirates were concerned but the local "friendly" smugglers certainly got a fright. The ship's football team, which has had a very successful season in the Far East played a match in Tawau, a town whose traders have suffered a great deal at the hands of the pirates. The pitch formed part of a perfect replica of an English village green and the standard of football was such that the spectators cheerfully paid both for the pleasure of watching the game and seeing their home team beaten.

First Sea Lord visits Ariel

OVER 400 aviators and other officers of the Home Air Command assembled at the Headquarters of the command at Lee-on-Solent on 18th October to hear an address by the First Sea Lord, Admiral Sir Caspar John, G.C.B.

Their aircraft packed H.M.S. Ariel's dispersals as they crowded into the wardroom to meet old friends. After lunch the officers gathered in Ariel's new Swann Theatre, which was built with the aid of Nuffield Trust Funds and opened in April.

The First Sea Lord, who had previously attended the funeral of the late Admiral Sir St. John Tyrwhitt, spoke of some of the problems currently engaging the minds of the Sea Lords and outlined future plans for the Navy. He was introduced by the Flag Officer Air (Home), Vice-Admiral D. P. Dreyer, C.B., C.B.E., D.S.C.

The new Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth (Admiral Sir Alexander Bingley) laid a wreath on the spot where Admiral Lord Nelson fell on Board H.M.S. Victory at the annual Trafalgar Day ceremony on October 21.

UNIFORM TRIALS

THE Admiralty is giving consideration to a new dress for every-day wear and minor ceremonial occasions for the Royal Marines and trials of the new uniform are taking place in selected units in Malta, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Poole and Deal.

Of a design similar to the present blue uniform of Royal Marine Officers, the dress is lovat in colour, with turned-down collar, and belted jacket. Three types of material are undergoing trial—worsted, terylene wool mixture and serge.

The aim of the trials is to see how the new designs and material stand up to service use. The new colour uniforms are NOT intended to replace the Royal Marines' world-famous blue uniform on ceremonial occasions.

The photograph shows the new uniform nearest to the camera being worn by Sergeant Raymond Baker of Upper Norwood; wearing a uniform dated 1861 is Colour Sergeant John Salisbury of Ewell and in the background is the 1761 uniform worn by Sergeant Tony Styles of Sidcup.

The proposed new uniform for Royal Marines which will not, however, replace the familiar blue for ceremonial occasions

Accident or enemy action?

EVER since man started going to sea, ships have been lost in mysterious circumstances, but with very few exceptions indeed, the reasons for the sinkings have been established. There have been fires, collisions, strandings and foundering but the reasons which caused the sinkings, with terrible loss of life of three great ships of the Royal Navy during the First World War, have never been satisfactorily explained.

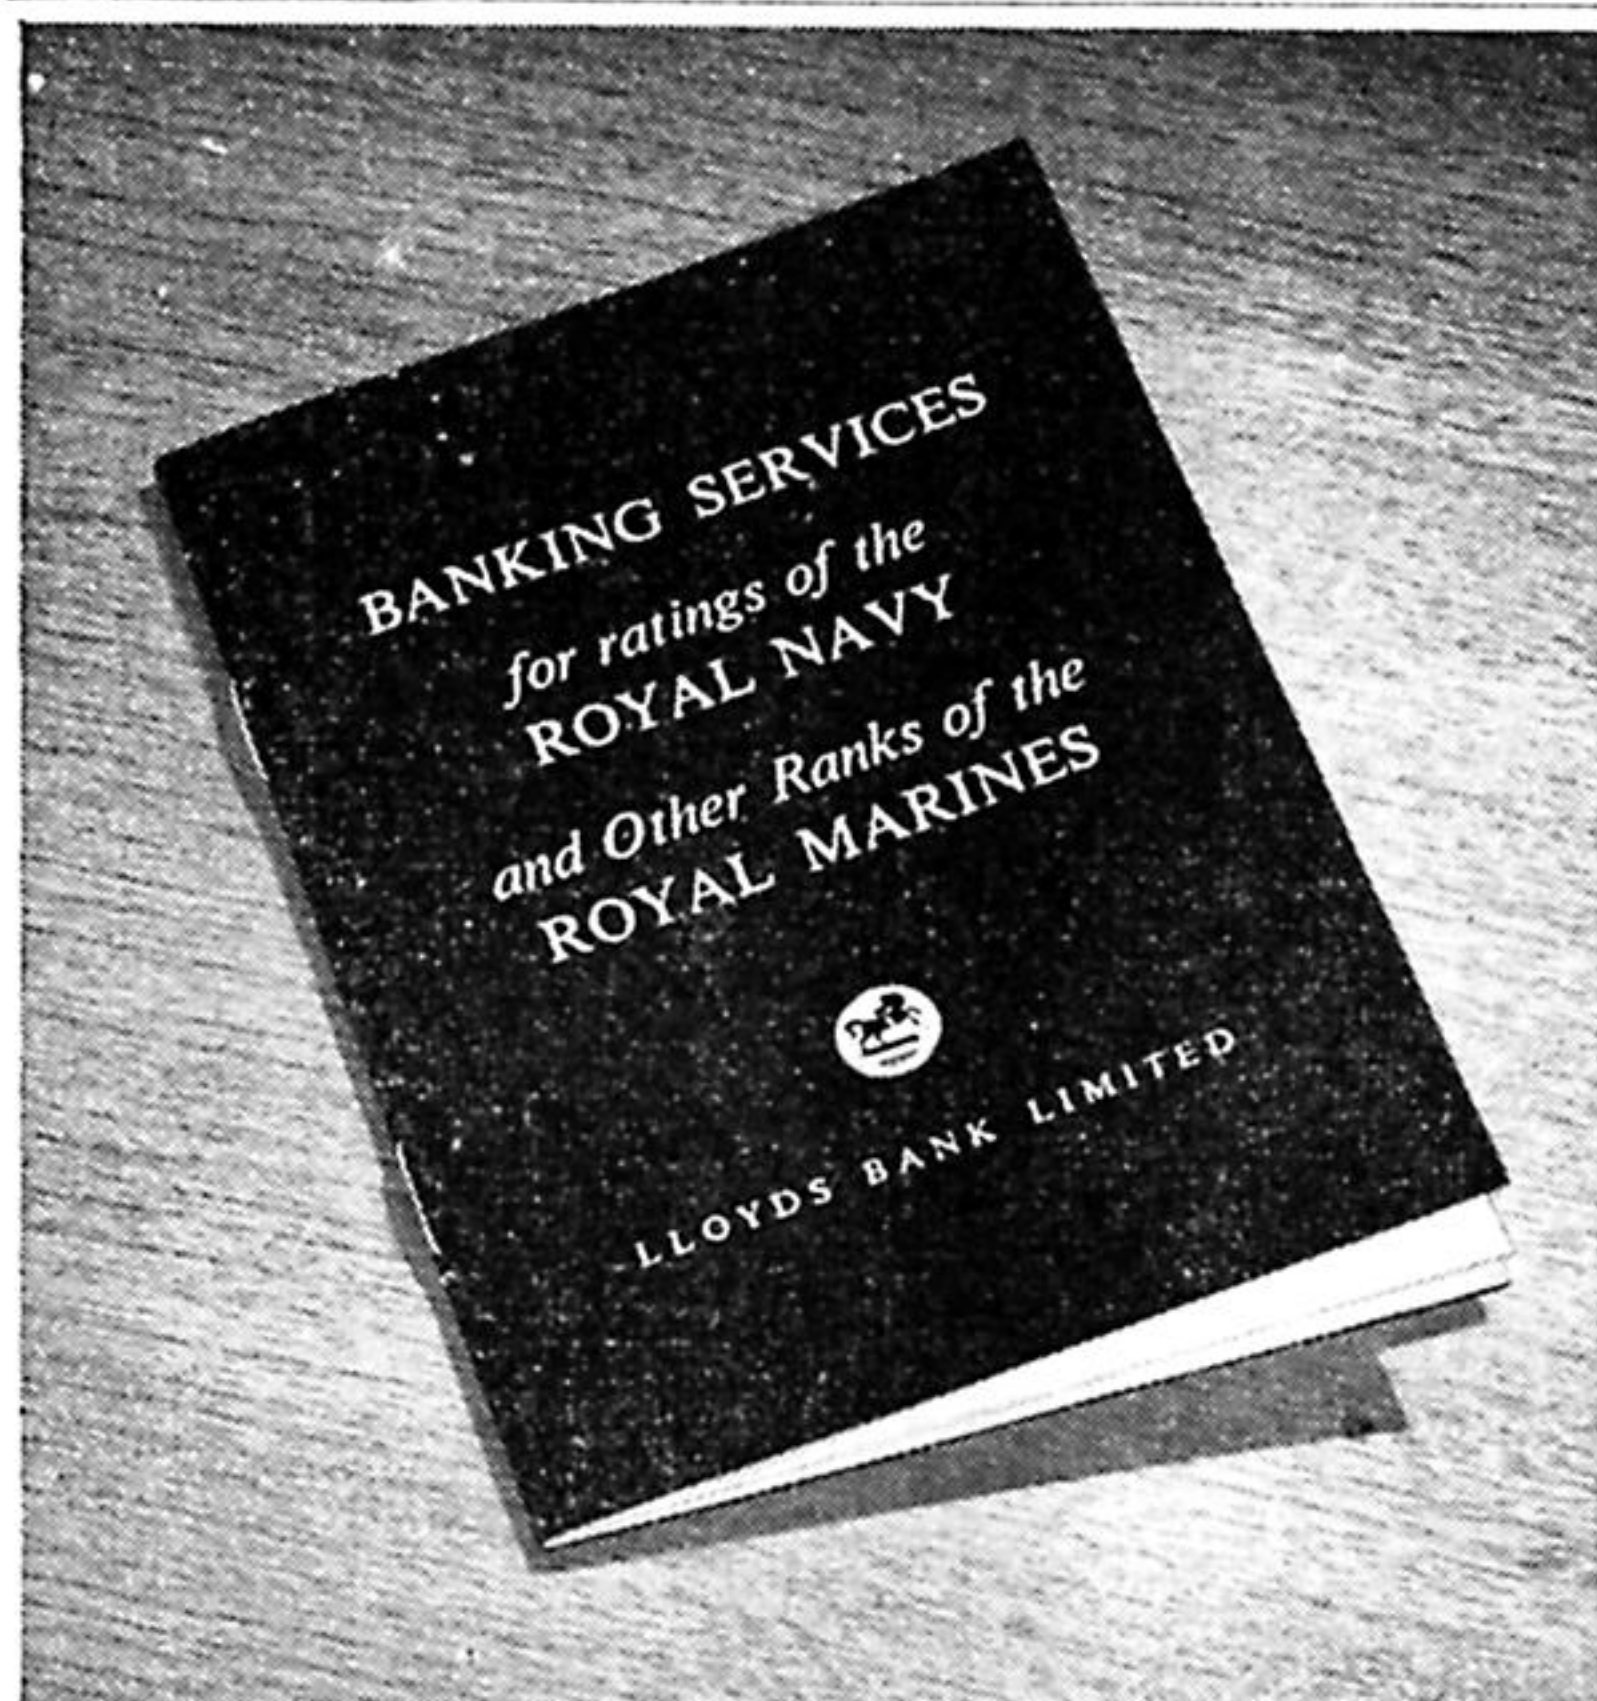

In an endeavour to solve the mysteries connected with the loss of the armoured cruiser Natal on December 30, 1915, the battleship Bulwark on November 26, 1914, and the battleship Vanguard on July 9, 1917, A. Cecil Hampshire, in his book, They Called It Accident (William Kimber, London, 25s.), consulted Admiralty records, findings of naval courts which investigated the tragedies, the documents of the civilian companies which attempted to salvage the wrecks, has spoken to survivors and eye-witnesses and has studied contemporary accounts.

Was the destruction of these ships the work of enemy agents? Was the "mysterious stranger with the military bearing" a journalistic "hare," or was he responsible for the sinking of the Bulwark? Was a dockyard chameleon, he had been on board two of the ships, responsible? Were the Germans able to place "lead cigars" on board?

In an absorbing story the author gives the results of his investigations. He tells of "an unparalleled happening in the Navy hurried into oblivion," the time naval courts spent chasing "hares," but leaves his readers to draw their own conclusions.

The result of Mr. Hampshire's researches is a dramatic reconstruction of some of the greatest unsolved mysteries in the annals of the Royal Navy

AYCHARBEE.

Lloyds Bank invites you to open an account

WHEN YOU BECOME A CUSTOMER of Lloyds Bank you will have a personal account which gives you a full banking service. You will be able to make allotments of pay direct to your account and you will have the full use of a cheque book. Furthermore a wide range of specialised services will be at your disposal when you need to use them.

Ask for a copy of this booklet - it has been written especially for you and it contains a form of application to open an account. Copies are available at our branches in the vicinity of Naval and Royal Marine Establishments or you may obtain a copy by writing to:

PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER, LLOYDS BANK LIMITED,
POST OFFICE COURT, 10 LOMBARD STREET, LONDON, E.C.3.

LLOYDS BANK LIMITED

'EVERYTHING FOR THE NURSERY— EXCEPT THE BABY'

AGENTS FOR

Silver Cross, Wilson, Royale, Marmet, Montford, Tansad, etc.

BUY YOUR PRAM AND NURSERY NEEDS BY NAVAL ALLOTMENT

SPECIAL CONCESSIONS OFFERED TO SENIOR SERVICE FAMILIES

BABY-LAND

303/5 Copner Road, Portsmouth
(Phone: Ports 64124)

BABY-WORLD

6 Grove Road South, Southsea
(Phone: Ports 26316)

WHEN YOU NEED PRAMS AND NURSERYWARE—YOU NEED US

Willowy blonde made up for the 'Lapskaus'

WITH NATO IN NORWAY

ONE of the most northerly Naval units in the Fleet is the R.N. Party at the N.A.T.O. Headquarters of the Commander-in-Chief North at Kolsås, Oslo. It consists of one Admiral, one Captain, 12 other officers, chiefs and petty officers, three juniors and eight WRENS.

Life in Norway is always thought to consist of ski-ing and admiring the scenery, both static and mobile. This is certainly true and the picture shows a happy party on the ski slopes.

September is, however, the exercise month and recently all members of the unit disappeared underground for a few days. It was like living in an aircraft carrier but with no flight deck and no scuttles.

There were one or two other differences, too: camp beds, cold shower or no shower at all, and the only wash basins were in the heads. On the other hand, there were no "crushers," no bugles and no divisions.

'LAPSKAUS'

Dinner on the first day was "Lapskaus," a sort of greasy stew made with shredded meat and spuds. Any "Pusser" who served this up would have been over the side in "one-one two." As compensation it was served by a willowy blonde who looked rather better than the average "Chef."

Life in Norway has its ups and downs but, by and large, the members form a happy team and anyone wanting a good "accompanied Foreign Draft" can do worse than put "NATO in Norway" on the Drafting preference card.

Enjoying the Norwegian snow. The one on the right doesn't look too happy, does he?

Strange cargo for H.M.S. Bastion

H.M.S. Bastion, an L.C.T. of the Amphibious Warfare Squadron, based at Bahrain, recently had the unusual task of taking to the Sheik of Abu Dhabi a lavish gift from the Ruler of Bahrain. This gift consisted of two Arab stallions, two mares, six hunting falcons and three large American cars, one of which was air conditioned.

After a series of visits from the Ruler's representative it was decided to beach the ship on Muharrag Hard to embark the load, and the embarkation went surprisingly well despite several setbacks. The Army were loading jeeps on to a "Z" lighter; a major traffic jam had built up outside the Hard and it was necessary to get the terrified horses on board before their bedding and food had arrived, and thirdly the luxurious cars had such soft springing that they could not travel from the ramp to the tank deck without grounding heavily.

HORIZONTAL JOCKEYS

Good weather was anticipated during the trip to Abu Dhabi. Already two strong shamals had blown during September but these were unseasonable and better things were expected. Calm conditions prevailed the evening before sailing, but unhappily by dawn it had started to blow. When the rolling began the four Arab jockeys became sick and remained horizontal throughout the voyage. The gleaming cars were soon covered in salt but well secured and suffered no harm. The hooded falcons lost their sense of balance and collapsed on the deck but the horses surprisingly stood up to it well and seemed in good heart and in no way frightened.

The ship arrived at Abu Dhabi after a passage time of 26 hours. A steep gradient beach was found which was suitable but unfortunately the beach exit was over soft sand. All three cars became helplessly bogged down on disembarkation but apparently this is always happening at Abu Dhabi and they have their own methods of dealing with the situation. The complete absence of roads complicates matters. The landing of the horses, falcons and jockeys went smoothly and the ship's company soon got rid of the stable.

The Sheik of Abu Dhabi was clearly delighted with his gift and insisted on entertaining a party of officers and chiefs and petty officers to an Arab luncheon which was an interesting experience. Meanwhile the ship's company enjoyed the excellent bathing and a rather more conventional meal.

Scene at the opening of the Submarine K.13 Memorial Park. The big crowd included about 400 to 500 in naval uniform

SUBMARINERS' MEMORIAL RECALLS 1917 DISASTER

Park overlooking Sydney Harbour is dedicated

IT is a far cry from the dark waters of the Gareloch to the sun-drenched beaches of Sydney, New South Wales and from a disastrous day, January 29, 1917, to Sunday, September 10, 1961, but the connecting link was a former submariner of the Royal Navy and the Royal Australian Navy—the late Charles Albert Harry Freestone.

On January 29, 1917, Leading Telegraphist Freestone was one of the fortunate survivors to escape from H.M. Submarine K.13, which was lost whilst undergoing trials in the Gareloch.

On September 10 this year, his widow, Mrs. C. A. Freestone, assisted by the United Kingdom High Commissioner, Lieutenant-General Sir William Oliver, K.C.B., O.B.E., unveiled a monument in a park overlooking Sydney and its harbour, donated by her husband.

After the loss of K.13 the late Charles Freestone transferred to the Royal Australian Navy, serving in J.2 and J.4 and subsequently "took his time" in Australia and became a successful business man and highly respected citizen of the City of Parramatta. When he died in 1958 he left a valuable piece of land overlooking Sydney Harbour for making into a Submarine Memorial Park in memory of his comrades in K.13 and of all submariners lost in British submarines.

The park was completed and opened on September 10. The entire ship's companies of the Fourth Submarine Division formed the parade, supplemented by their current visitors, H.M.S. Teredo, from Singapore.

There was present amongst many distinguished visitors, Rear-Admiral J. B. Frewen, C.B., Flag Officer Second-in-Command, Far East Station, with a large number of Australian ex-submariners, one of whom joined his first boat in 1906. The service was conducted by Rear-Admiral H. M. Showers, C.B.E. (retired), the senior Australian submariner alive and a shipmate of Mr. Freestone.

The ceremony took the form of the Armistice Day service, but with short speeches by Senator Gorton, Australia's Minister for the Navy, the United Kingdom High Commissioner and other distinguished local personalities. A huge block of local stone was unveiled in which had been set bronze plaques listing the submarines that have been lost since the inception of the submarine service. Two of the plaques, showing the First World War losses, are from the Thames Embankment Memorial which now has new plaques with all losses recorded together. A further plaque explaining the memorial was presented by the officers and men of the Fourth Submarine Division.

In silence, current submariners and people from all over New South Wales, remembered the 4,974 men who did not return.

Mr. J. Maguire, ex-Royal Navy and Royal Australian Navy, who knew the late Charles Freestone for over 40 years, says: "I am sure it is just what he visualised as a memorial, and great credit is due to Mrs. Freestone for her interpretation of her husband's wishes."

Quality and Service through Bernards

Over very many years Bernards have developed an unrivalled Service to the Royal Navy, both for quality and personal service.

Through Bernards a customer may obtain not only his Uniform and Civilian Clothing, but also practically every requirement of his family and self, including Footwear, Sports Goods and Wear, Television, Radio, Electrical Appliances, Fancy Goods, Toys and Games, Cycles, Cameras, Ladies' wear, Jewellery, Rings and Watches, Nursery Furniture, Clocks and a Chocolates, Biscuits and Floral Bouquet Service.

Where customers prefer not to pay cash a Credit Account may be opened for settlement by Admiralty Allotment, Bankers Order, or Post Office Savings Bank Account remittance, and full details of these facilities and of the Bernards Service will gladly be sent on request.

Bernards new Gift List has been sent to all customers and will be posted off to other interested persons on request or may be obtained at a branch or from a representative.

Remember—You Really do Buy Better from Bernards.

C. H. Bernard & Sons Ltd.

8 Queen Street
PORTSMOUTH

Telephone 23535

Other Branches at Chatham, Devonport, Deal, Dunfermline, Falmouth, Gibraltar, Helensburgh, Grimsby, Londonderry, Malta, Milford Haven, Portland, Skegness and Weymouth, also at Lossiemouth, Arbroath, Abbotsinch, Brawdy, Culdrose, Corsham, Gosport, Lymington and Worthy Down.

Officers' shops at Portsmouth, Plymouth and Southampton.
Head Office: Anglia House, Harwich, Essex. Telephone No. Harwich 880

Endowment Assurance?

TERMS ARE OUTSTANDING

No shareholders; all profits belong to policyholders. Quotations from:

W. Dudley Steyn
374, London Rd., Portsmouth Tel. 60551

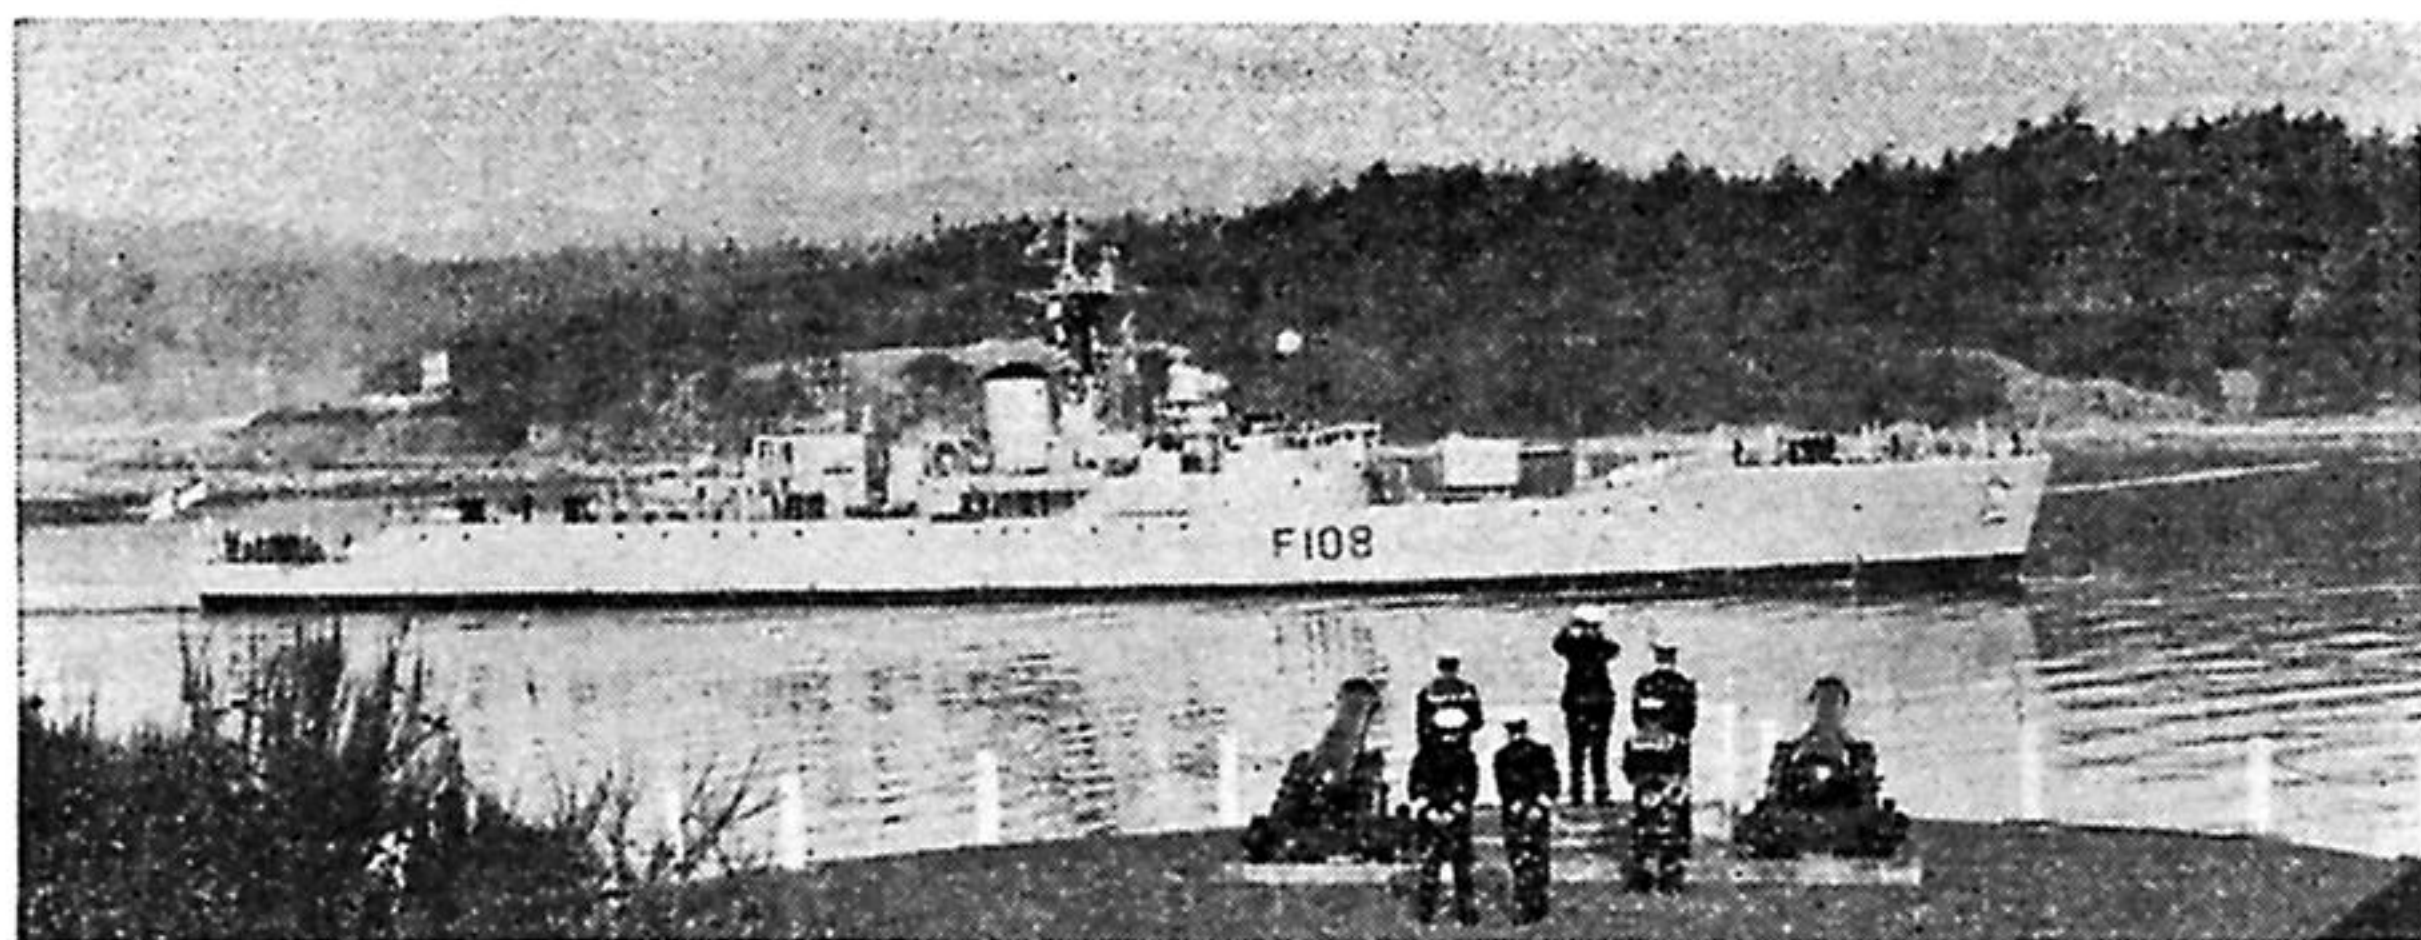

AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY

73-76 King William Street, London, E.C.4
Assets £400,000,000

Telephone MANsion House 2431
Established 1847

Food for thought

IN the October issue of NAVY NEWS Reference was made to a book, "Food For Thought," written by Instructor Lieutenant-Commander S. G. Clark on gratuities, retired pay, etc. The Editor is informed that the publishers, Messrs. C. H. Bernard & Sons Ltd., are providing a copy of the book, gratis, to every naval officer, wherever serving.

H.M.S. Londonderry arriving at Esquimalt, British Columbia

ONLY NUMBER ONE DID NOT LIKE ACAPULCO

Londonderry has good fun on north west coast of America

IT'S quite some time since a ship of the Royal Navy has been for a cruise along the west coast of North America. When we discovered that H.M.S. Londonderry was going all the way to Vancouver we were naturally delighted. "Bags of jungle ritual," said the Captain, "but it's all good fun." So we set off from Bermuda with high hopes and ready for anything.

We have not been disappointed. The first thing was the trip through the Panama Canal, where electric "mules" warp you through the locks, and you can wash down with fresh water from the huge artificial lake. Everyone took photographs and the Chief Boat-swain's Mate said he saw an alligator.

We stopped for a few days at the U.S.N. base at the western end of the canal, where the U.S.N. were very hospitable and gave us the run of their clubs and canteens. Panama City is only a few miles away, and there the bright lights were shining and a good time was had by all.

NO GREEK SWEAR-WORD

Our next visit was to Acapulco, which sounds like a Greek swear-word but is actually a splendid holiday resort in Mexico. The First Lieutenant didn't like Acapulco because there were so many beautiful girls water-skiing round the ship that work on the upper deck almost came to a standstill. But I think he was the only one.

There were night clubs and water carnivals and bars and fishing and water-skiing. Pepsi-Cola laid on a superb party with all sorts of native dancing, food and drink, including their own brand of atomic warfare. Tequila—later to become known as Tekiller. In fact Acapulco seems to be made for a good run ashore.

Then we sailed a long way north, changed into blues, and found ourselves in Esquimalt, the Canadian west coast naval base. Here we were quite overwhelmed by the kindness and hospitality of the R.C.N. and the local people, who invited everybody out and entertained us magnificently. Esquimalt has beautiful scenery, the best salmon fishing in the world, and lots of nice girls. What more could you want?

Vancouver is just a few miles away from Esquimalt, and was our next port of call. And although it's a fine city, a fair proportion of the ship's company seemed to be catching the ferry back to Esquimalt, but whether to review the scenery, refight the fish, or rejoin the nice girls was never asked. We don't ask silly questions.

May we say a heart-felt thank you to the Royal Canadian Navy and all our Canadian friends? You gave us a marvellous time.

COWGIRLS IN MONTEREY

Next came Monterey, California, in the heart of the cowboy country, where we went to say thank you to the local people for giving H.M.S. Puma a live puma. A lot of sea-lions on the end of the pier greeted us loudly but without much enthusiasm as we arrived, and in fact made noisy and critical remarks throughout our stay. But in spite of that we had a fine time, western-style. We went to a steer-roping contest, and two members of the ship's company were seen with two cowgirls firmly pinioned with lassos. No information is available whether they ever got away.

Some of us went riding. A sailor on horseback is even sillier than it sounds, and stability problems and steering-gear failures worried us all. However, only one of us had to abandon ship when his mount ran away in auto.

Our next stop was Los Angeles, the home of the American film industry, and one of the largest cities in the world. We saw film studios, radio shows, television shows, performing dolphins, jumping whales, and the fantastic world of Walt Disney at his famous "Disneyland." It's a remarkable place, and the traffic has to be seen to be believed.

ENERGETIC EXERCISES

Then we discovered it was not all beer and skittles, and some energetic exercises with the U.S. Navy brushed up seamanship and away cobwebs. After a few days in the huge naval base at San Diego we set off again, realising with regret that we had seen the last of California.

We put in at a place called Corinto in Nicaragua, a one-horse place with no roads, no shops, no food, no water, no spikka-da-English, but funnily enough not a bad run ashore, the natives being friendly and the bars numerous—which makes up for a lot!

We were very sorry to leave the Pacific, after having such a good time and making so many friends. We passed through the Panama Canal uneventfully except that everyone took more photographs and the Chief Boat-swain's Mate said he saw another alligator. It's been a great cruise.

PRESENTATION TO H.M.S. BRIGHTON

The Mayor of Brighton (Councillor G. B. Baldwin) presented, on behalf of the town, H.M.S. Brighton with a soft-drinks machine and a tape recorder at a ceremony at Portsmouth on October 23. The Commanding Officer, Cdr. R. L. Garnons Williams, R.N., presented the Mayor with a plaque of the ship.

Protector off again

H.M.S. Protector, the only ice-patrol ship in the Navy and the ship with the highest percentage of volunteers in the Fleet, left Portsmouth on October 19 for her seventh successive season in the Antarctic.

Her new Captain, Captain R. H. Graham, M.V.O., D.S.C., R.N., together with half the ship's company, will be visiting Antarctica for the first time, but for the remainder it will be at least their second trip to the icy, southern waters, having volunteered for what is often described as the Navy's most unusual commission.

During the summer months, H.M.S. Protector has undergone an extensive refit at Cowes, including the fitting of a new bow. She will be away from this country until next summer, and most of the ship's company have already done their Christmas shopping.

On December 30, when H.M.S. Protector is deep into Antarctica, she will celebrate the 25th anniversary of her commissioning.

On her way to the Antarctic the ship will call at several South American ports and once in the Antarctic the ship's company will have the opportunity for riding, shooting, fishing and climbing in between an extensive programme of work which will include probing uncharted waters in a series of seismic tests. To assist her in all this work, H.M.S. Protector operates a helicopter from a special platform and hangar on her stern.

Able Seaman Terence Green, of Northampton, takes more than a passing interest in a couple of turkeys held by Petty Officer Cook (S.) Ivor Ralph, of Ipswich, during embarkation of stores

IF YOU'RE THIRSTING FOR

British Beer

TRY A

FARSONS

It's brewed in the good old British way!

ALL THE BEST FROM
FARSONS

Brewers of BLUE LABEL, HOP LEAF, CISK LAGER, LACTO, FARSONS STOUT. These fine beers, all available in Malta, are also exported to N. Africa

They can be enjoyed throughout the Mediterranean area

Passing through the Panama Canal

'STRINGBAGS' TO HELICOPTERS

Number 819 back in Service

ALTHOUGH 719 Squadron went into honourable retirement on October 5 and a familiar squadron number known to many, particularly the Pilots and Observers who were trained in anti-submarine warfare at R.N. Air Station, Eglinton, will disappear from the Fleet Air Arm, its place has been taken by a number equally well known in naval aviation, No. 819.

Until recently the 719 squadron was equipped with three Westland Whirlwind Mark 7 helicopters, but these are now being exchanged for four Westland Wessex Mark 1's.

Recommissioned as 819 Squadron, the task will be the same, but with helicopters of a more advanced design. Owing to the nature of the task as envisaged for the future, and the fact that the squadron may be embarked in aircraft-carriers from time to time, the title has been changed from 719 to 819, as this number designates a front-line as opposed to a second-line squadron.

The commissioning ceremony on October 5 was conducted by the Reverend B. M. Kennedy, Chaplain of H.M.S. Sea Eagle, and was attended by the Flag Officer Air (Home), Vice-Admiral D. P. Dreyer, C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O., and the Senior Naval Officer, Northern Ireland, Capt. E. N. Sinclair, D.S.C., Royal Navy. Families of the officers and men of the squadron also witnessed the ceremony.

"STRINGBAGS" AT TARANTO

The squadron was first formed in 1940, at R.N. Air Station, Ford, and was equipped with the famous Swordfish Bombers. The squadron saw service in the carriers Ark Royal, Glorious and Illustrious attacking the Italian Fleet at sea in the Mediterranean in September, 1940. It was also one of the squadrons to take part in the epic Naval Air Victory at Taranto on November 6, 1940.

In January, 1941, however, most of the squadron aircraft were destroyed by German dive bombers when they attacked and severely damaged Illustrious and, in consequence, the squadron was paid off.

The squadron was re-born again on October 1, 1941, at R.N. Air Station, Lee-on-Solent and again the aircraft were the faithful "Stringbags," and saw service in co-operation with Coastal Command.

At the height of the Battle of the Atlantic (1943) the squadron embarked in the Escort Carriers Archer and Activity in support of the hard-pressed Atlantic convoys. It was during this critical period that the squadron embarked in Activity accounted for five enemy aircraft destroyed and one U-Boat in one day—March 25, 1944.

From April, 1944, until March, 1945, 819 Squadron operated from shore bases in England, France and the Low Countries. It helped cover the D Day landings of Normandy and was finally paid off in March, 1945.

The present Commanding Officer of the squadron is Lieut.-Cdr. J. R. T. Bluett, Royal Navy.

Vice-Admiral D. P. Dreyer, accompanied by Lieut.-Cdr. J. R. T. Bluett, R.N., is introduced to the officers of the Squadron

DUE FOR LEAVE SOON?
FLY IN OR OUT
MALTA AND GIBRALTAR

through

B.A.S. (MALTA) LIMITED

CASSAR & COOPER

12 SOUTH STREET VALETTA, MALTA
Telephone C.24226 (5 Lines) Cable "Shipassure" Malta

Agents for B.E.A. and all independent Companies

Try our Easy Payment Plan

Kuwait incident prevented Blackpool taking 'rabbits' from Australia

48,452 MILES IN NINE MONTHS

THE second half of H.M.S. Blackpool's General Service Commission, which started on January 4, 1961, has been full of interest and, from that date until the end of September, the ship steamed 48,452 miles and was at sea for a total of 134 days. Her duties took her from Icelandic waters to Japan with a period of 21 days on patrol in the Persian Gulf during the Kuwait affair.

The ship's first trip was a fortnight on Fishery Protection duties and then, after landing arctic clothing at Devonport, Blackpool sailed for Singapore via Capetown and Aden joining H.M.S.

the first H.M. Ship to visit the port since 1924.

From Miyasu the ship went to Muroran, which is an industrial city in Hokkaido, the northern island of Japan and is well known for the huge Fuji iron and steel works.

The last call in Japan was Yokohama. Being conveniently situated to Tokyo many of the ship's company travelled by train to visit the capital. Whilst at Yokohama an intrepid Outward Bound party travelled to Mount Fujiyama and succeeded in climbing to the snow-capped summit.

AUSTRALIAN VISIT OFF

On the way back to Singapore the ship took part in fleet exercises and were looking forward to a visit to Australia in August. Unfortunately the Kuwait crisis caused an alteration to the programme and H.M.S. Blackpool sailed from Singapore for the Persian Gulf on July 17. The ship eventually returned to Singapore on September 15 having spent 21 days on patrol in the Persian Gulf.

A ten-day visit to Mombasa followed, some members visiting Nairobi as guests of the 19th Infantry Brigade Group, while others visited the Tsavo Royal National Game Park where they saw a large variety of game.

H.M.S. Blackpool sailed from Singapore on October 24.

H.M.S. Blackpool

Victorious at Gibraltar as her plane guard.

SHOP WINDOW AT CAPE TOWN

The visit to Cape Town will be remembered by all the ship's company for a long time. The visit started with a "Shop Window" display given by Victorious, Lynx and Blackpool and the South African Ship Vrystaat. Ten days were spent in Cape Town during which time all the ship's company were most generously entertained.

On the way north to Aden, H.M.S. Blackpool paid a very brief visit to Mombasa to collect stores. The Aden visit lasted three days and nearly everyone took advantage of the duty free prices to buy cameras, watches and radios. Despite the low prices, £1,380 was spent by the ship during the three days.

The ship arrived at Singapore on March 27 having taken part in a short exercise with Victorious and Hermes en route.

BEST SHOPPING CENTRE

H.M.S. Blackpool remained in Singapore until May 3, when she sailed for Hong Kong. Captain (F) inspected the ship during the first week in Hong Kong and when that was over the officers and men took full advantage of all the island has to offer. Hong Kong, as all sailors know, is without a doubt one of the best shopping centres in the world and the ship soon became filled with "rabbits." Nearly £5,000 worth of goods was bought before the ship sailed.

The first typhoon of the season, Typhoon Alice, hit Hong Kong while the ship was there and although the remainder of the fleet put to sea, H.M.S. Blackpool, suffering from a boiler room defect, weathered the storm secured to a buoy in the harbour.

The Japanese cruise was the next item on the itinerary and, leaving Hong Kong on March 27, very rough weather was encountered by Typhoon Betty which swept the Formosa Strait and caused severe damage in Red China.

The first stop after leaving Hong Kong was Nagasaki to fuel from H.M.S. Belfast. It was difficult to realise, when looking at the flourishing shipyards, that Nagasaki had been devastated by an atomic bomb only 16 years ago.

FIRST VISIT SINCE 1924

Miyasu, a popular Japanese holiday resort set amidst most picturesque country, was the next port of call. The place, youngest and smallest city in Japan, is almost untouched by Western influence, and H.M.S. Blackpool was

HOW ABOUT A NEW OVERCOAT NOW

TAILORED FOR YOU
IN LONDON?

Overcoats, suits, leisure clothes, shoes, shirts, and, of course, uniforms; Willerbys provide all these and first-class service to go with the quality of the tailoring . . . and you can pay by allotment if you wish.

Our Naval Managers visit your ship or shore station regularly — or if you're a native, they'd be glad to call and see you at home. If you'd like to know more about Willerbys, see either Mr. Dunkin, Mr. Guttridge or Mr. Coughlan when they're next on board. Alternatively, drop us a line or call in at any of our branches. We shall be pleased to let you have a folder giving details of Willerbys special service for men in the Service.

you get the best clothes of all at

WILLERBYS

and pay by allotment if you wish

28-30 Oxford Street · London W1

82 Royal Parade, Plymouth
111 Commercial Road, Portsmouth
5 London Road, North End, Portsmouth
228 High Street, Chatham
20 Above Bar, Southampton

41 Gordon Street, Glasgow
12 North Bridge, Edinburgh
52 Commercial Street, Dundee
20 High Street, Belfast
253 Main Street, Gibraltar

AND BRANCHES THROUGHOUT BRITAIN

THE ROYAL NAVAL ASSOCIATION

INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER

Patron: H.M. The Queen

A reunion to be remembered SALUTE TO MERCHANT NAVY

Vice-patron given gold watch

(BY AYCHARBEE)

"SPLENDID" — "First Class" — "Smashing" — these were some of the verdicts as members of the Royal Naval Association and their friends left the Festival Hall on Saturday, October 14. From first to last the whole evening had been an unqualified success.

The Royal Naval Association Reunion Day is really composed of three parts. Firstly there is the Cenotaph Parade and Service in the afternoon, and in the evening there is a reunion—held for some years past in the Festival Hall—the first part of which is first class entertainment to suit all tastes and the second part is an endeavour to recreate some particular naval event.

It seemed to me that the Cenotaph Parade and Service does not get the support it deserves. This year we seemed to be a bit thin on the parade. Overlooking that point — and there are many reasons why attendance is not outstanding — it was felt by many of us that the afternoon event was more successful than in some previous years. The bands of the Royal Marines and the Sea Cadet Band of H.M.S. Steadfast soon had the men on parade marching briskly.

The Service at the Cenotaph was a poignant reminder of two World Wars when the Royal Navy suffered such terrible losses. Was my mind far away from Whitehall or was the Reveille forgotten?

Vice-Admiral Sir Royston Wright took the Salute at the March Past and he referred to the occasion as a great one, demonstrating the loyalty of the Royal Naval Association members. He said that the Admiralty appreciates the help of the ex-Royal Navy man to the Navy of today. Admiral Wright mentioned that last year Admiral Sir St. John Tyrwhitt whose early death had so recently occurred, mentioned that recruiting was not so good, but this past year things had got much better and for this he felt that the Royal Naval Association could claim a certain amount of credit.

BATTLESHIPS A LIABILITY

Speaking of the Navy of to-day Admiral Wright said it was a modern Navy of small ships. Battleships and battle-cruisers, in these days, were a liability, but aircraft carriers, destroyers and frigates were the ships needed. In this connection he said that some frigates were not so small after all, being like light cruisers, versatile and powerful.

Admiral Wright concluded by saying there was nothing wrong with the ships of today and nothing wrong with the men of the Royal Navy either. He congratulated the organisers for a splendid turn out and said it was an honour to take the salute.

Reference should be made to the good work of the Parade Marshal, Shipmate "Bob" Pearn of the Portsmouth branch and his assistants. Theirs is not an easy task but they did it with the minimum amount of fuss and with considerable efficiency.

To come to the Reunion itself. Some 3,000 were present in the Festival Hall and from the first moments, with Charles Smart at the organ to the Dedication and Sunset at the end, the attention of all present was held.

For the first time, instead of the massed bands, we had the massed orchestras of the Royal Marines and right worthily did they conduct themselves. Under the skilful direction of Lieut.-Colonel F. Vivian Dunn, C.V.O., O.B.E., F.R.A.M., Royal Marines, Principal Director of Music, the orchestras of the Portsmouth Group, Royal Marines the Royal Marines School of Music, and of H.M.S. St. Vincent, together with the Memorial Silver Trumpets, some 110 instrumentalists all told, almost "stole the show." I say "almost" because there was such a wealth of talent, appealing to all tastes, that it would be invidious to single out just one item for special mention. All were excellent.

ROUSING OPENING

"Hearts of Oak," "A Life on the Ocean Wave" and "Rule, Britannia," what a stirring and rousing opening. Such tunes, splendidly rendered, set the scene for the Mazurka and Waltz from the Ballet "Coppelia." Too high-brow for those present? Not a bit of it. The attention of the audience showed how it appreciated the good stuff. A march from the Karelia Suite by Sibelius followed, a march well known as a signature tune — a television programme, I felt — the massed orchestral rendering rivalled the rendering by the symphony orchestra used in that programme.

Those old favourites the Welwyn Garden City Male Voice Choir took us to Ireland, Scotland, Wales and back to England with four songs and finishing with the song "Give" written by the late Glyn Jones and dedicated to the Royal Naval Association.

Then came Leslie Hutchinson — "Hutch," with his friendly smile, charm and talent. He remarked that his one small voice was following a splendid choir, but his act, nostalgic to some, new to some of the younger ones in the audience, captured everyone. He had them "eating out of his hand."

Vic Oliver followed. What can one say about him? Gems such as: A man who takes money from a woman is no man—he's a genius, possibly heard before but put across in his best style, had his appreciative listeners wanting more. Then, from the ridiculous to the sublime. He conducts the massed orchestras, with masterly skill, in Valse Triste. Perhaps one or two in the audience thought he was funning when he started to conduct but almost immediately their amusement was turned to hushed attention.

SINGER CHANGES MOOD

A Canadian singer, Doreen Hume, changed the scene and the mood. Those in the hall loved her. Her singing captivated them. Let us hope that we shall hear more of her at future Reunions. Her singing, unaccompanied, of haunting Canadian folk song was perfect.

The massed orchestras, which had previously given us Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2—needless to say—in impeccable style, then played the Scherzo from Liszt's Concerto Symphonique. The soloist was Kathleen O'Hagan, who, for years has accompanied singers at the Reunions, and she gave a sparkling performance which was much appreciated.

Greensleeves and the rousing Prelude to Act III of Lohengrin followed.

I referred earlier on to the three parts of the Reunion and we now came to the serious side of the evening. The President of the Association, Admiral Sir Alexander C. G. Madden, K.C.B., C.B.E., addressed the shipmates, first reading a telegram sent to Her Majesty and the reply. He then referred to the absence through illness of the Association's first vice-Patron, Admiral of

(Continued in column 4)

Questions and Answers period at Cheam VISIT BY SECRETARY TO THE COUNCIL

ONE way of keeping members of a Royal Naval Association branch interested in Association affairs is to have a really good social programme, and, judging by the heavy programme for the following months envisaged by the Cheam and Worcester Park branch, that branch's members should be well in the picture.

Apart from the meetings, which can, of course, be quite a social gathering (after the business of the evening is over), there are dances and socials arranged right up to the end of April.

The ladies' section has its annual theatre and dinner on November 11, there is a dance on the last Saturday in each month except December, and on December 2 there is the annual Presentation Night when the cups and medallions go to the winners of the various indoor tournaments. This night is a social occasion when, as always, branches are invited to attend.

H.M.S. WAKEFUL LOOKED AFTER THE CHILDREN

MANY and varied were the visitors to the 2,100-ton anti-submarine frigate Wakeful when she paid a five-day courtesy visit to the Wear as she lay at her berth at Corporation Quay, Sunderland recently.

They included parties of school-children, parents with children and teenage boys and girls. One group of children from Sunderland Corporation children's homes found that the crew had provided roundabouts, a conjuror, a film show and a special tea. They were also given the run of the ship.

SICKNESS

A number of shipmates of the Wear branch have had rather a trying time this summer due to ill health. The latest of these, Shipmate Charlie Pullen, who, with Shipmate Ernie Harrison, was always to be found in visiting their less fortunate associates, is now out of hospital and back home. It is hoped that Shipmate "Charlie" and Shipmate Hindmarsh, Lincoln, Dobye, Halliday, Flack and the rest, are now on the way to complete recovery.

(Continued from column 3)

the Fleet Sir John H. D. Cunningham, G.C.B., M.V.O.

It had been the intention to present Sir John with a gold watch during the evening, but in view of his sickness, Sir Alexander had given it to him in hospital. The vice-Patron was delighted and sent his warmest thanks to the Association.

Referring to the principal guests, Admiral Madden drew attention to the presence of Admirals of the Fleet The Earl of Cork and Orrery, G.C.B., G.C.V.O. and Lord Fraser of North Cape, G.C.B., K.B.E., both of whom were given a great round of applause. Sir Alexander also referred to the wit, beauty, elegance and wonderful melody seen and heard during the evening.

AVERAGE AGE TOO HIGH

Admiral Madden appealed to all the shipmates not to treat the Association too lightly. The Reunion itself was a unique gathering typifying the spirit of the Royal Navy itself, but the average age of its members was fairly high and each year that age gets higher. More young men were needed in the Association and he asked the members to devise methods by which they could be obtained.

The last part of the Reunion took the form of a salute to the Merchant Navy. Those present were taken back to the dark ominous days of 1942 and the ordeal of Malta. The continuous air raids on the Island, the decimation of convoys and the impending fall of the Island fortress unless oil and food could be taken in.

While the orchestras portrayed, musically, the dive bombing, the almost continuous action as Convoy WS 21 S fought its way through the Western Mediterranean, Robert Easton and Reginald Johnson told the graphic story of the tanker Ohio, Master Captain Dudley William Mason, G.C.

The Military authorities in Malta estimated that unless help was received the Island would have to capitulate to the enemy during the first week in September. A final bid to save the island was made and a large convoy, supported by battleships, aircraft carriers and destroyers was attacked

Plans are being made for the children's party on January 4.

A farewell party was held recently to say good-bye to the branch padre who is going to a parish in Western Australia. The Cheam and Worcester Park shipmates presented him with a tobacco jar incorporating the R.N.A. crest, and a pipe, and his wife was presented with a brooch from the ladies.

In thanking the members the Reverend Denis Bryant said that the move was a great challenge to him and his wife.

The Reverend George Wood, ex-R.A.F., who is a South African, has consented to succeed the Reverend Denis Bryant.

The Secretary to the General Council, Shipmate Leslie Maskell, visited the branch recently and gave the members an outline of what the National Council hoped to achieve in the future.

A question and answers period followed his remarks. The questions asked covered a wide range of subjects, and the Secretary was able, in most cases, to enlighten the members. About 25 questions were fired at him by the shipmates and a couple of suggestions were made which were considered to be worthy of following up and are being forwarded in writing to the Headquarters.

Branch members enjoyed a day out attending the Aldershot Standard dedication and followed this up with the Annual Reunion and Parade, October has been such a hectic month that the members are fighting valiantly to get their second wind.

The branch is still maintaining a good bill of health, although the branch "baby," 84-year-old Shipmate Jack Young, who has been so sprightly for so many years, cannot get used to the idea of getting old, and is not so good as he was. The branch Welfare Officer, however, is seeing that he is being looked after.

After 17 years with the branch, and seeing many changes and many new faces, Shipmate "George" Burden is leaving the district for Camberley. The members wish him well in his new residence and hope that, as he is not giving up his membership, that he will visit Cheam and Worcester Park occasionally.

nearly all the way from Gibraltar to Malta. Grievous damage was done, ships sunk and many brave men lost their lives, but the island was saved.

OHIO WAS MAIN TARGET

One ship, the S.S. Ohio was the main target for the enemy but, to quote the official report, "The violence of the enemy could not deter the Master from his purpose. Throughout he showed skill and courage of the highest order and it was due to his determination that, in spite of the most persistent enemy opposition, the vessel, with her valuable cargo, eventually reached Malta and was safely berthed."

The poor old Ohio, though, almost as soon as the last drop of oil was taken from her, sank.

The gallant Master was present at the Reunion and in a shy, hesitant voice, expressed his thanks to the Association, hoping that circumstances would allow him to continue to grow his roses, one of which is named Peace, in his Hampshire garden.

Chaplain of the Fleet, the Very Reverend Thomas Crick, assisted by the Reverend Gordon Budd, in the presence of the Standards of the branches of the Association, lead the prayers and conducted the dedication.

Dancing and the renewal of old friendships continued until just before midnight and to "See you again next year" we went our separate ways, convinced as always that the Royal Navy was the best of all Services and that, God willing, we would meet again to recapture the friendship and comradeship so apparent among servicemen.

SHOP WINDOW

It had been a fine evening—a fine day in fact—one of which the Association could be proud, but why, oh why, could not parts of it have been televised? Such an occasion could be our "shop window" and I am convinced that thousands of serving and ex-serving men who could not be with us, as well as the hundreds of thousands who love the Royal Navy, would have appreciated the opportunity to have laughed with us, to be saddened with us, and to have enjoyed such a splendid Reunion.

SERVICE

for Service people

When you bank with the Westminster, you get service all along the line. First, the Westminster has a special Navy Branch at 26 Haymarket, London. This has been open since 1772 and is, in consequence, well acquainted with the kind of financial problems you meet with in the Navy. Next, the Bank has branches at Portsmouth and Plymouth which are always at your service (as also are over 1,200 branches in other towns throughout England and Wales). Finally, the Westminster Bank operates abroad through a world-wide system of agents and correspondents. If you would like to know more about our service to the Senior Service, write for the booklet

'Westminster Bank to Her Majesty's Ships'

WESTMINSTER BANK
LIMITED

Navy Branch: 26 Haymarket, London, S.W.1

Head Office: 41 Lothbury, London, E.C.2

The day the Navy went to the Home of the British Army

MILE LONG PARADE FOR ALDERSHOT CEREMONY

Over a thousand attend Standard Dedication

NOT only was the dedication of Aldershot's Standard the biggest Naval occasion that Aldershot has ever seen, it was also the best-supported Royal Naval Association parade ever staged, certainly in the South of England, and possibly in the whole country. There were over 84 Standards on parade, of which 66 were from R.N. Association branches, Submarine Old Comrades' Associations, Royal Marine Associations and the Women's Royal Naval Service Association.

The standards made a grand, fine sight, and, to quote the proud words of one who took part, "It shook the people of Aldershot rigid."

Over a thousand took part in the parade which was headed by four mounted Military Policemen, the Royal Marine Band of the Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth, followed by the Queen's Colour of the United Services, Bedford and the new Standard of the Aldershot branch. The Parade was over a mile long and was very ably managed by the Parade Marshal, Shipmate H. Fry.

The new Standard of the Aldershot branch after the dedication ceremony. (Photo: National Fotos, Aldershot.)

The Dedication service was held in the Royal Garrison Church of All Saints and conducted by the Rev. Kenneth J. Till, the branch chaplain. There was not an empty seat in the church which holds 1,200 and the congregation sang the sailors' hymn "For those in peril on the sea," they

NEW BRANCH FOR DERBY

At a meeting of ex-Naval and ex-A.W.R.N.S. personnel on September 23, it was proposed and agreed to form a Derby branch of the Royal Naval Association.

The six founder-members are Cdr. G. N. Rolfe, O.B.E., D.S.C. and Bar, R.N., Mr. A. Mann, Mr. H. Knowles, Mr. G. M. Cole, Mr. W. Wesson and Mrs. D. M. Arnott. The chairman is Cdr. Rolfe, the secretary Mr. A. Mann and the treasurer Mr. Knowles.

The inaugural meeting took place on October 27 and this was followed by a social.

The Navy League's annual ceremony—Salute to Nelson—at the foot of Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square was broadcast in the Home Service of the B.B.C. on Saturday, October 21. The address was given by Vice-Admiral R. A. Ewing, C.B., D.S.C., and the service was conducted by the Rev. Austen Williams, Vicar of St. Martin-in-the-Fields. The band of the Junior Wing, Royal Marines School of Music, was under the direction of Capt. E. S. Ough, M.B.E.

remembered in solemn ceremony their fallen comrades and they dedicated their new Standard as a sign of duty towards Queen and country in the sight of God.

SPIRIT OF SERVICE

The padre told the shipmates "By deciding to have a Standard in the Aldershot branch you have committed yourselves always to continue your duty to your Queen and country in the sight of God; to keep alive that spirit of service which all of you first appreciated when you joined the Royal Navy."

"But always remember that over and above being members of your excellent association you are sons of God and sons of Britain. There is a fine and deep friendship in all that the term shipmate means. The efficiency of your ship depended on you as individuals, and never has this country needed as much as she does today, this selfsame quality of loyalty, discipline, self respect and leadership."

The Standard was handed after the dedication ceremony to the branch chairman, Shipmate James Ridgeon, who in turn gave it to the Standard Bearer, Shipmate R. J. Watts, escorted by Shipmates W. M. Dawson, D.S.M., G. Grieve, T. H. Eden and E. Morris.

COLOURFUL PARADE

There can seldom have been so colourful a parade along Wellington Avenue, Aldershot. The escort of Military Police, the Royal Marines Band, the many coloured Standards, the Bluejacket Band of H.M.S. Collingwood, the naval men of the future, the Sea Cadets of the Training Ship Swiftsure, and those who have occupied their business in great waters in two world wars.

The salute was taken by Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Hughes-Hallett, supported by Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Raw, President of the Submarine Old Comrades' Association, Major-General D. S. S. O'Connor, the General Officer Commanding, Aldershot District, Rear-Admiral W. L. G. Adams, the Mayor and Mayoress of Aldershot, Councillor and Mrs. F. H. Brown, Captain E. J. Cartwright, R.N., President of the Aldershot branch and leading officials of the Association.

After the parade the Royal Marines Band "Beat Retreat" on Maida Parade, an unprecedented event for Aldershot.

The visitors were the guests of the Aldershot branch and over a thousand teas were served in the Maida Gymnasium. The tea was organised by Shipmate Hutchins who was assisted by the wives of the members.

After tea the branch President and branch Chairman spoke and then followed a very enjoyable evening.

The members of the Aldershot branch are very grateful to all the branches which supported them. Naturally they are elated with the success of the occasion and as time goes on they hope to show that thanks by appearing, as often as possible, at similar affairs.

TOP STANDARD BEARER

Another feather for their cap came Aldershot's way on Saturday, October 14, when at the Annual Reunion, the branch Standard Bearer, Shipmate R. J. Watts, had the great honour of winning the Standard Bearers' Contest.

The Molesey branch visited Aldershot for the dedication of the Aldershot standard and congratulate the branch on the wonderful show. Molesey shipmates also enjoyed the reunion which, even a foggy journey home could not spoil.

The sheathed Aldershot Standard being carried to the Royal Garrison Church of All Saints for the dedication ceremony. The photograph gives an idea of the fine array of Standards present. (Photo: National Fotos, Aldershot.)

TWO HUNDRED AT WORCESTER TRAFALGAR DINNER

DINNER COMMITTEE

The Dinner Committee, which received high praise, was composed of Shipmate D. R. Lewis, Shipmate J. H. Griswold and Shipmate J. E. Buxton under the direction of Lieut.-Cdr. J. McA. F. Cassidy. Shipmate Cassidy says that without the hard work and co-operation of their associates, the dinner would not have been the success it undoubtedly was.

The star prize in a competition held in aid of branch welfare funds was won by Mrs. K. Spillsbury, and was "An Admiral's Breakfast." A turkey was won by Cdr. Caswell. Other winners were Mrs. D. J. Adams, Mrs. Millward, Chief Petty Officer Ward, Cdr. J. N. Hulse, Shipmate John Duffield, Mrs. Warne of Cheltenham, Mrs. Bourne, Cdr. Atkinson, General Sir Richard Gale and Capt. P. Beard, R.A. (T.A.).

The Worcestershire Wrens Association, the Burma Star Association and the Bromsgrove and the Cheltenham branches of the Royal Naval Association were represented at the dinner.

The present officials of the Worcester branch are: Branch patron, Admiral Sir William Tennant; president, Capt. H. M. Spreckley, R.N.; chairman, W. C. Badger, ex C.P.O.; secretary, J. H. Griswold, ex P.O.; treasurer, J. J. Gibson (ex P.O.), Cdr. the Hon. H. Pakington, O.B.E., D.L., is a life member.

'THANKS, ALDERSHOT'

THE following letter is a fair sample of letters received concerning the Aldershot Standard dedication. All the letters praised the branch for putting on such a brave show and thanked the Aldershot shipmates for the hospitality received.—Editor.

"I would like to write a few lines through the medium of the 'Navy News' thanking and congratulating the Aldershot branch of the Royal Naval Association for a magnificent and well-organised event on Sunday, October 8, when the old Standard was laid up in the Aldershot Military Church and the new Standard dedicated.

"I met a few shipmates of other branches that I knew and they all agreed it was a wonderful event and must have entailed a considerable amount of hard work.

"The weather was perfect and so were the two bands on parade with us, the Royal Marines of Portsmouth and the seaman band of H.M.S. Collingwood. They were a treat to see and hear.

"Yes, Sir, the Royal Navy certainly took over the Home of the British Army that day.

"The Drum-Major of the Royal Marines band informed me that it was the biggest R.N.A. parade he had ever attended. I think there were 96 standards flying that day.

"Unfortunately we had to leave rather early in order to get back to Bedford at a reasonable hour, but in wishing Aldershot the best of luck for the future I would like, once again, to thank them for a very enjoyable and impressive day."—C. RICHARDSON, Bedford.

"I DO believe that the Navy is very slowly on the upgrade, but if we are to survive as a nation we have got to have a lot more ships and always have them ready," said the Lord Lieutenant of Worcestershire, Admiral Sir William Tennant, in proposing the toast of Admiral Lord Nelson at the Trafalgar Day Dinner organised by the Worcester branch of the Royal Naval Association at the Guildhall, Worcester, on October 19.

The attendance at the dinner was a record—nearly 200 being present.

The guest of honour at this most successful function was General Sir Richard N. Gale, K.C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O., M.C., formerly Deputy Supreme Commander Allied Powers Europe, and other official guests of the Worcester branch were the Mayor of Worcester (Councillor John Weaver), Colonel Derek N. Cronin, O.B.E., T.D., Supt. J. R. Davidson, Deputy Chief Constable of Worcester, Brigadier C. P. G. Wills, O.B.E., D.L., and F./Lieut. A. J. Biltcliffe, R.A.F.

Following a splendid dinner the loyal toast was proposed by Shipmate W. C. Badger, the branch chairman, and the Queen's message was read by Lieut.-Cdr. J. McA. F. Cassidy, R.N.R., chairman of the Dinner Committee.

Nelson's prayer was read by the Rev. N. M. Denlegh-Maxwell, Chaplain, Royal Navy, Rector of St. Swithun's, Worcester.

EMULATE THE ADMIRAL

General Gale proposed the toast to the Royal Navy and the Royal Naval Association and spoke of the genius of Lord Nelson. "In this country of ours today, we ought to be aware of what Nelson and his people did in their day and it is up to us—and we are perfectly capable of it—to emulate the admiral," he said.

Describing himself as "a very old man who retired from the Navy 42 years ago," Cdr. the Hon. Humphrey Pakington, O.B.E., D.L., responded to the toast so ably given by General Gale and said he always remembered General Gale as the man who dropped into Normandy early on "D" Day—armed with a walking stick.

The toast to the guests was proposed by Brigadier B. W. Leicester, D.S.O., D.L., R.M., who said he had served under Sir Richard in France and found him a fearless leader. He added, "It's wonderful what you can do on a high morale and with a Gale behind you."

The reply to the toast of the guests was given by Colonel Derek N. Cronin, O.B.E., T.D., who stated: "How often have we wished that the spirit of the Services could be carried into daily life? I am sure that if it were, then many of our present troubles would disappear overnight."

SERVED ALL WORLD WAR I IN THUNDERER

THE death of Shipmate J. J. Mullins, at 73, is a great loss to the Sherborne branch of the Royal Naval Association. Since the branch's formation in 1951, when he joined the Main Committee, he has worked hard on assisting with social and fund raising efforts, collections of subscriptions and the like.

Being in semi-retirement he was able to visit and keep contact with all members from the President downwards, such liaison keeping the branch together and maintaining the interest and support which is so vital to its existence.

Teetotal and a non-smoker throughout over 40 years of service with the Royal Navy, Shipmate Mullins joined

W.R.N.S. OFFICER IN TWO WARS

THE first Christmas and New Year greetings to all branches comes from a branch whose activities have not appeared very frequently in Navy News. The greetings came from Stratford-upon-Avon.

This branch was inaugurated in November, 1956, and one of the earliest members was Shipmate (or should it be Shipmaid) E. Arnold, S./M. Arnold, who was vice-president, served as a W.R.N.S. officer in both the First and Second World Wars and was a mainstay of the branch with her organising ability and support.

She has now left "Shakespeare's land" for Surrey and the members wish her well in her new abode.

the Royal Navy as a boy at the Training Ship, Queenstown, H.M.S. Emerald, on September 29, 1904.

After service in Impregnable, St. George, and the cruiser Doris, he transferred to the Stoker branch and joined the Hibernia on January 2, 1907, serving four years in her. His first ship as a Stoker i/e was the destroyer Orwell and then, after a period in the Mechanical Training School, he joined the Thunderer as a Leading Stoker. He joined this ship on June 15, 1912, and left her on March 17, 1920, nearly eight years—the whole of the First World War. He was rated Stoker Petty Officer in the ship.

Periods in Devonport barracks and Marlborough followed the war and during a second period in the barracks he served with Admiral of the Fleet, The Earl of Cork and Orrery, the Commodore of the barracks. Service in Volunteer, Diligence, Sandhurst and Benbow followed, being rated Chief Stoker in April, 1924.

Whilst serving in Benbow he was one of a party of 20 officers and 307 ratings which made a pilgrimage to Rome, Bethlehem and Jerusalem, attending Mass at the Vatican, meeting the Pope and receiving his blessing.

Shipmate Mullins was discharged to pension on May 20, 1928, after serving in Ramillies and Adventure. Ten years in the Royal Fleet Reserve followed and on March 10, 1941, he again donned naval uniform being attached to H.M.S. Eaglet, the destroyer depot at Liverpool, where he served as Chief of Boiler and Repair Parties at Gladstone Dock. He returned to civilian life on October 11, 1945.

'Loneliest isle in world' is evacuated

Leopard completes salvage

WHATEVER may have been the true state of affairs most of us have always regarded Tristan da Cunha as a Robinson Crusoe kind of island—a speck on the map half way between South Africa and South America—the "loneliest island in the world." It had a sort of glamour which excited the explorer's blood which runs through the veins of most of us.

The forces of nature, however, have compelled the "Crusoes" to leave their homeland, and to join the big outside world.

The frigate H.M.S. Leopard (Commander Peter Hicks-Beach, R.N.) was sent at speed for salvage and evacuation work and arrived at Tristan on Friday, October 13. The ship's company worked against the clock to salvage valuable equipment and personal possessions.

When Leopard left the Island on October 15 the British Union Flag had been hoisted by the ship's company on all flagstaffs, all drains in the Island had been disinfected, and buildings secured. Although all valuable stores have been embarked, foodstuffs have been left for the benefit of fishing craft who may in the future visit the now uninhabited island.

As he left Tristan for Capetown with tons of equipment and stores on board, Commander Hicks-Beach reported that he had walked round the settlement before departure and said: "It is a sad sight. Spring flowers grow in gardens in front of small stone cottages with brightly painted doors. Inside there is evidence of swift but orderly departure. In children's rooms soft toys remain in vacant cots. The contents of most of the Islanders' cottages are pitifully small, but most have a picture of the Queen and Prince Philip.

"All is being left as neat and tidy as time allows. Church, school rooms, village hall, hospital and store—all now deserted—add poignancy to the scene and emphasise the enormity of loss of the Islanders and the full tragedy of their situation.

"Parties from Leopard have systematically searched each cottage, packed, labelled and embarked personal belongings and a further check made to ensure nothing of value has been missed."

H.M.S. Leopard took the hospital equipment and all linen, blankets and clothing she could find for distribution to the Islanders of Tristan da Cunha at Capetown.

The ship reported as she left that on the island the volcano was growing slowly and it might not be long before boulders started reaching the island's factory and settlement. She reported that the volcano was a weird sight at night with red hot lava streaming down its sides. Apart from the main eruption, which caused Islanders to find refuge on the near-by Nightingale Island, H.M.S. Leopard reports that there was a second eruption in a bog just behind the village but this had petered out.

CATTLE LEFT

The only living things left behind by Leopard were the 450 head of cattle, sheep and donkeys, and the Island's population of cats. There is adequate grass and water for the animals, which have never received supplementary feeding, and the cats will help to keep down numbers of rats.

The ship's most unpleasant task during her work at Tristan was the destruction of the Islanders' dogs, which had to be taken to Nightingale Island and shot. Only two were kept. They are puppies adopted by H.M.S. Leopard—christened Tristan and Cunha, and now firm favourites on board.

If the Island is ever lived in again a future generation will have one feature to remember H.M.S. Leopard's sad duties. With the agreement of the Administrator, the former Little Beach has been re-named Hicks Beach in honour of Commander Peter Hicks-Beach, R.N., the Captain of the frigate.

The Ace Water Polo Team, back row: Naval Airman Byrne, Air Artificer Hughes, Chief Petty Officer Pollock, Master at Arms Chennell. Front row: Regulating Petty Officer Bailey, Leading Cook Muscat, Leading Air Mechanic Glendenning

Falcon takes Med. fleet water-polo cups

H.M.S. Falcon won the Mediterranean Fleet Knock-Out Cup and the Mediterranean Fleet League, the latter without losing a match. It is the first time that these cups have been won by Falcon.

THE 1961 season has been a very successful one for the H.M.S. Falcon water-polo side. In 20 matches they have won 18 and lost 2, scoring 200 goals and conceding only 61.

In friendly matches against Maltese and other Service sides, Falcon has been the losing side only twice and in recent inter-service tournaments, five of the side represented the Royal Navy.

BELFAST VISITS SYDNEY

H.M.S. Belfast has just returned to Singapore after a 5-day visit to Melbourne and a 10-day visit to Sydney. Before arriving in Australia she had steamed down through the Great Barrier Reef and taken part with ships of the Royal Australian Navy and the Royal New Zealand Navy in a large-scale Commonwealth Naval exercise called "Tucker Box" held in the Coral Sea.

Australian hospitality was as excellent as ever throughout the visit. Some of the Ship's Company visited sheep stations, others were received into the homes of their hosts and not a few renewed acquaintances and friendships made during loan service.

GIRL FRIENDS

The highlight of the Sydney visit was without doubt the Ship's Company Dance at the magnificent Trocadero Ballroom. Splendid organisation by the local Flag Officer provided some 400 charming partners. The dance was on the second day in port so H.M.S. Belfast's Ship's Company did not lack girl friends for the rest of the stay.

Although, as it was very early spring, the famous beaches of Sydney were too cold for swimming, many officers and men went on trips into the surrounding countryside, including the world-famous Blue Mountains.

Both on the trip down and back the Ship's Company were hard at work. Gunnery practices as soon as the ship emerged from Sydney Heads ensured that all cobwebs were well and truly blown away.

'Publicise the R.N.B.T.'

AT the annual meeting of the Portsmouth Local Committee of the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust on September 25, the then Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth, Admiral Sir Manley Power, said that there was considerable ignorance on the lower deck about what the R.N.B.T. stands for and urged that those interested in the work of the Trust should publicise the Trust in their messes.

When ships pay off it has always been customary for welfare funds to devote most, if not all, their surpluses to charity. Many deserving causes are helped, but he felt that the Trust, which has helped the serving and ex-serving man and his family over many years, could be given more from these funds.

The annual report showed that £36,216 was made available to the local committee, benefiting 2,761 individuals.

FILM RELEASES

The Secret Partner, Stewart Granter, Haya Harareet, Bernard Lee, Two Rode Together, James Stewart, Richard Widmark, Shirley Jones, The Guns of Navarone (CinemaScope), Gregory Peck, David Niven, Gia Scala, Don't Bother to Knock (CinemaScope), Richard Todd, Nicole Maurey, June Thorburn, Dentist on the Job, Bob Monkhouse, Kenneth Connor, Shirley Eaton, The Absent Minded Professor, Fred McMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn, Elmer Gantry (CinemaScope), Lancaster, Jean Simmons, Dean Jagger, Flaming Star (CinemaScope), Elvis Presley, Barbara Eden, Steve Forrest, Romanoff and Juliet, Peter Ustinov, Sandra Dee, John Gavin, On the Double (CinemaScope), Danny Kaye, Dana Winter, Wilfrid Hyde White, Mr. Topaze (CinemaScope), Peter Sellers, Nadia Gray, Herbert Lom.

The first of two 95 ft. fast patrol boats to be built by Vosper's Ltd., the Pfeil, for the Federal German Government was launched at Portchester on October 26

Keel laid for another Euryalus

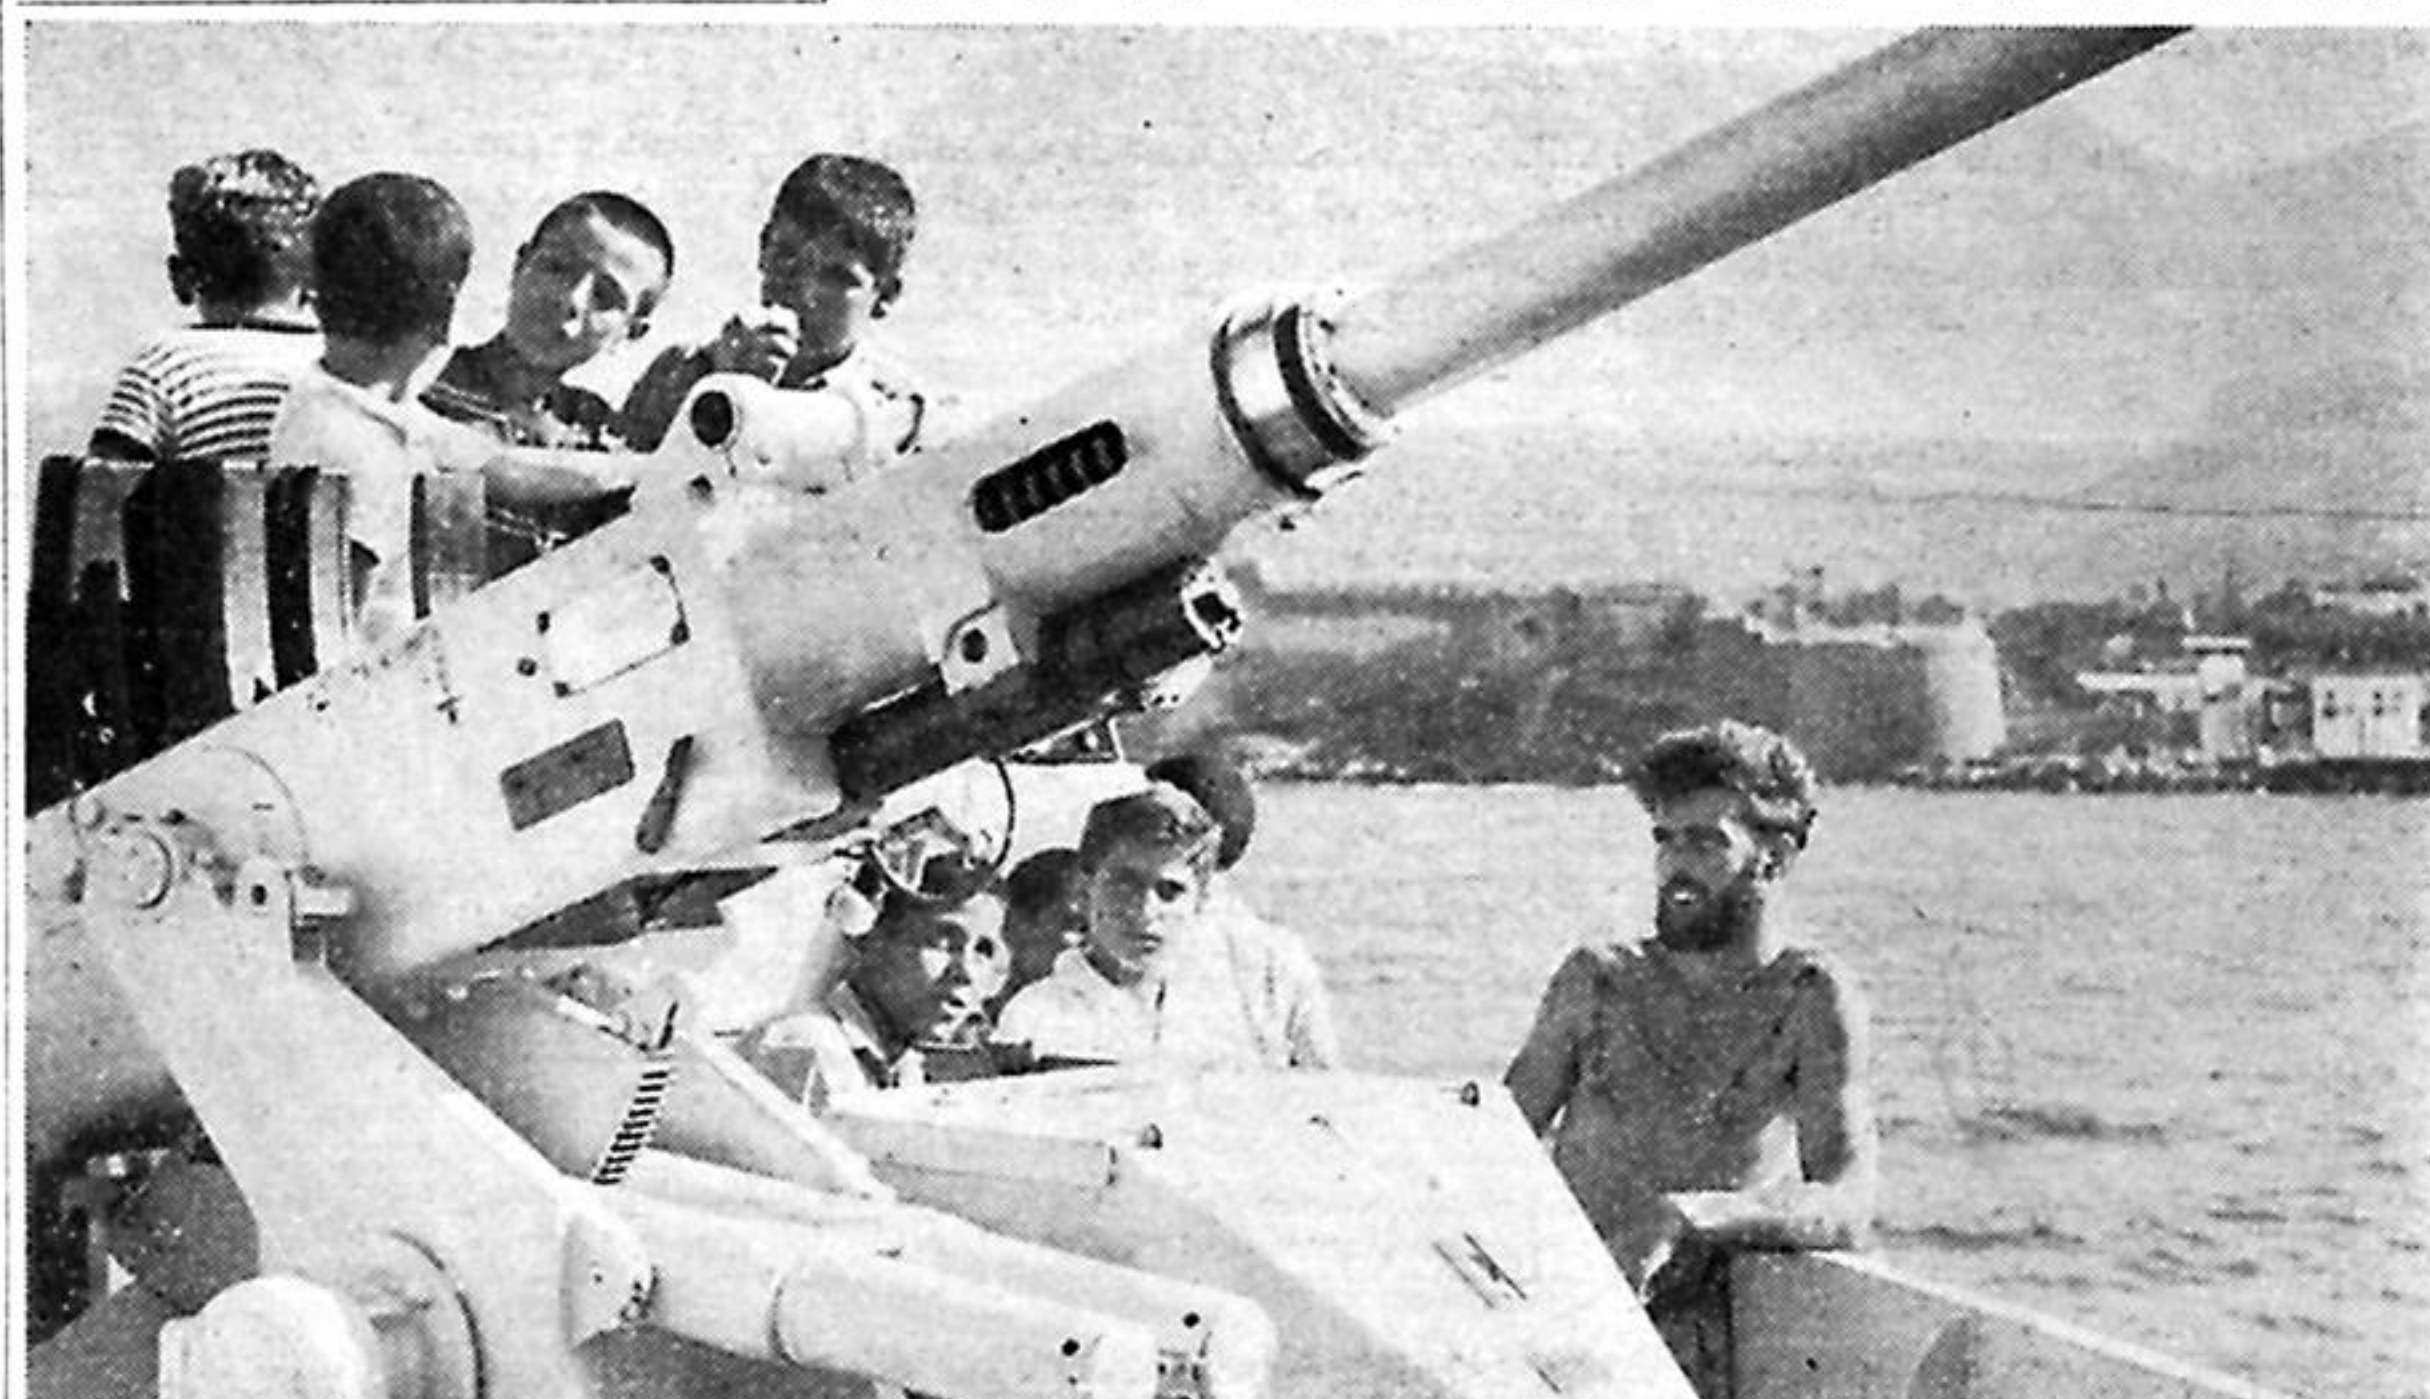

THE Euryalus, sixth of the Leander class frigates, was laid down at the Greenock shipyard of Scott's Shipbuilding & Engineering Company Limited, on October 3.

The Leanders are general purpose frigates with a displacement of about 2,000 tons and each will carry a helicopter for anti-submarine warfare.

The steam turbines for the Euryalus will be built by Messrs. Scott's and the gearing by the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Company Limited.

Other ships of this class at present building are the Leander, Ajax, Dido, Penelope and Aurora.

The last Euryalus, a 5,450 tons cruiser of the Dido Class, saw much service in the last war, having Battle Honours for Malta convoys 1941-42, Mediterranean 1941-43, Sirte 1942, Sicily 1943, Salerno 1943 and Okinawa 1945. She was broken up in 1958.

With Kyrenia Castle in the background, a happy group of Cypriot children swarm over one of the guns of H.M.S. Duchess when the ship recently visited Cyprus. The ship's company gave a party for 50 local children, mostly orphans, and after tea the youngsters were given the run of the upper deck. Most of the crew were in fancy dress

IN THE RIG OF THE DAY?

Wherever the sailor goes, the children will find him. Here is a group of happy youngsters at Dhekelia, Cyprus, with Able Seaman Cheshire, of H.M.S. Submarine Tiptoe. The rightful owners of the headgear were playing soccer against a Royal Army Service Corps team during the visit of Tiptoe to Cyprus

At your service . . .

CURTISS
& SONS LTD

REMOVALS and WAREHOUSING

PACKING FOR SHIPMENT

13 Clarendon Road, Southsea Telephone 21515

'Debbie' could not stop the Adamant and 41 Commando LANDING ON NORWEGIAN COAST

ON the day that the tail-end of Hurricane Debbie hit Northern Ireland and West Scotland, September 16, H.M.S. Adamant, Depot Ship of the Third Submarine Squadron (Capt. J. C. Y. Roxburgh, D.S.O., D.S.C.*) sailed for an unusual exercise for this type of ship. Over 400 Royal Marines were embarked from 41 Commando, Royal Marines (Lieut.-Colonel J. C. Waters, R.M.) and on leaving the Gareloch the fierce Force 11 gust drove the spume horizontally up the loch and the sea was smoking. Yachts and cabin cruisers drifted helplessly ashore, but Adamant steamed, in the words of the local newspaper, "proudly and scornfully" to Brodick Bay.

The next day the weather allowed a practice landing to take place using the ship's boats and Gemini from the J.S.A.W.C. Poole, although the sea was still rough. A further landing took place that night on the Island of Isley, on passage for Norway, and a whisky distillery captured. Although the raiders were bona fide travellers, no whisky was liberated!

"BLUE-NOSE" CERTIFICATES

From Monday to Friday, the ship steamed purposefully towards the Lofoten Islands. On crossing the Arctic Circle "Bluenose" Certificates were part in the exercise were three Norwegian Infantry Companies and to help in the difficult terrain were 20 pack horses and grooms in charge of 41 Commando, Royal Marines Unit Education Officer (appointment title—Bronco).

NEVER KNEW WHAT HIT THEM

The Naval platoon, on landing, despatched a patrol to Sanstrand and before a startled enemy patrol knew what had hit them, the stokers had captured them complete with vehicle, maps with dispositions and codes for made for a feature near Bogen by another very difficult cross-country march through bogs. During this period the senior dental surgeon's socks were eaten by a goat. The exercise was cancelled some 12 hours earlier than expected and all participants were back aboard Adamant at Narvik early the next morning.

Meanwhile H.M.S. Adamant has steamed right round the Lofoten Islands, through the Maelstrom to Narvik, where a cocktail party was held.

On the Monday, Capt. J. C. Y. Roxburgh, D.S.O., D.S.C., laid wreaths on the naval graves in Narvik, including

H.M. Ships Adamant and Rampart at Tovik, where the landing was made awarded by Neptune Rex and Aurora Borealis. The Royal Marines assisted in working the ship and circuits of the shelter deck, well deck and quarter deck were found to be exactly 220 yards. Thus it was easy to plan five-mile route marches with full equipment although the Boatswain from time to time converted these into obstacle courses with gangways and hawsers! Further energy was expended in interpart and inter-troop tug-of-war and this culminated in an R.M. team defeating an R.N. team in the final. The Royal Marines also manned a sea boat during the passage.

It was during this period that the Naval platoon began to make its presence felt. This platoon was drawn from volunteers from the whole ship's company. Slops could not cope with the order for blue berets so caps, Arctic, submarine were issued instead. The actual landing was made at Tovik, on the north side of the peninsula covering the approaches to Narvik. The landing took place at 0300 and the weather was kind. Covering fire was provided by the Royal Norwegian Navy and H.M.S. Rampart rendezvoused at Tovik with Land-Rovers and DUKW's. Also taking the day. The platoon then moved down the coast to Kvitness escorting the transport for 41 Commando.

The main body of the Commando pushed inland from Tovik by a difficult cross-country march whilst one troop re-embarked in Rampart and steamed round to Bogen, where a successful raid was made and the bridge on the only road into the peninsula was blown—the troop rejoining Rampart and landing again at Kvitness.

The Naval platoon, together with the troop which carried out the raid on Bogen, and two Norwegian companies, continued to advance down the coast road to Skaaland. Further progress was very slow owing to heavy gunfire, so the Naval platoon was embarked in DUKW's in an effort to trim the enemy's left flank. Both DUKW's grounded in seven feet of water and simultaneously two light tanks appeared. The umpires declared the platoon wiped out but both tanks destroyed.

MARCH THROUGH BOGS

After a somewhat damp night, the platoon withdrew the next day to Skaaland, whilst the Commando that of Capt. Warburton-Less, V.C., who was killed in action in April, 1940, during the first Battle of Narvik. The wreck of H.M.S. Hardy is still visible where she went aground during this battle.

HECTIC SOCIAL PROGRAMME

The ship sailed from the Iron Ore Jetty on Tuesday, September 26, for Bergen, arriving there on Friday, 29th, for a two-day visit. Bus tours were laid on and the trip up the Floien mountain was very popular. Visits were paid to the Norwegian Naval Establishments and a pretty hectic social programme was fulfilled.

The Gareloch was in a much quieter mood when H.M.S. Adamant arrived back on October 4 by way of the Sound of Raasay and Kyle of Lochalsh. The Commando left on foot for Garelochhead Station, where a special train awaited to transport them back to Bickleigh. The pipe band of R.N.A.S. Abbotsinch had welcomed them at the beginning of the exercise and, very appropriately, marched with the Commando to the station and played them "on board."

ORACLE LAUNCHED

THE seventh of the Oberon class submarines was launched and named Oracle at the Birkenhead shipyard of Cammell Laird & Co. (Shipbuilders & Engineers) Ltd., on September 26.

The naming ceremony was performed by Lady Lambe, widow of the late First Sea Lord, Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Charles E. Lambe, G.C.B., C.V.O.

ELECTRONIC TEST ASSISTANTS are required for Electronic Test Department. This department is concerned with the measurement of the electrical performance of a variety of prototype equipment designed in the laboratories. Applications from the Forces should be Ex-Naval R.E.A.'s. Men from industry should have experience of test or maintenance of radar or similar electronic equipment.

Apply in writing, stating age and experience, to the Staff Manager, G.E.C. APPLIED ELECTRONIC LABORATORIES STANMORE, MIDDLESEX

Classified advertisements

SITUATIONS VACANT

CLERICAL STAFF REQUIRED. Periodically Bernard's have vacancies at their Head Office for staff, and such attractions would particularly suit those in the Supply and Secretariat branches. Bernard's work a five-day week and provide a staff superannuation scheme for employees. Applicants are invited to write giving details of age and experience to the Chief Accountant, C. H. Bernard & Sons Ltd., Angia House, Harwich, Essex.

VACANCIES for Constables exist in the Admiralty Constabulary. Initial appointment will be on a temporary basis with prospects of transfer to permanent and pensionable service. Commencing pay of entrants is £555 per annum, with nine annual increments of £25, making a total of £775. After 17 years' service a further increment of £25 is awarded, making a final total of £800 per annum. Uniform and boots are issued free of charge. There are good prospects of promotion. Candidates must be between 21 and 48 years of age at least 5 ft. 7 in. in height (in bare feet), of British nationality and of exemplary character. They will be required to pass a medical and educational examination prior to appointment. Educational examinations are held quarterly at H.M. Dockyards, Portsmouth, Devonport and Rosyth, and at the R.N.M.Y., Londonderry, Northern Ireland. Further information and application forms can be obtained from the Chief Constable, Admiralty Constabulary, Queen Anne's Mansions, St. James's Park, London, S.W.1. Serving personnel wishing to make application should do so through their Commanding Officer, in accordance with Admiralty Fleet Order 2060/60.

SKILLED, SEMI-SKILLED AND UNSKILLED ASSEMBLERS

A variety of interesting work in the assembly of high-quality scientific instruments is available to those skilled or semi-skilled in this field. Training will be given to suitable unskilled candidates. Working conditions in a new factory are ideal, and canteen and Social Club facilities are available. Apply by letter or in person to the Personnel Manager, UNICAM INSTRUMENTS LTD., York Street, Phone: Cambridge 55227.

APPLICATIONS are invited from non-commissioned officers to manage Off Licences in the southern half of the country. Applicants should be married and preferably under 41 and in possession of a current driving licence. Applicants will be given an initial training period and will be required on certain occasions to do period of relief duties, and, when promoted to the status of a manager will be provided with a good commencing salary plus commission and pension. Free living accommodation will be provided together with cash allowance for electricity, gas, coal and coke—Application should be made to The Galleon Wine Co. Ltd., Trinity Chambers, 32 Trinity Square, London, E.C.3.

E.R.A.S. required as Engineer Officers with the REGENT PETROLEUM TANKSHIP CO. LTD. for service on modern tankers trading mainly U.K.-West Indies. Excellent rates of pay, leave at approximately 81 days per month. Wives of all officers allowed to visit ship and remain on board in U.K. waters. Wives of senior officers allowed to accompany them on occasional voyages. Pension scheme and excellent prospects of promotion—Apply Marine Superintendent, 29/30 Old Burlington Street, London, W.1.

VACANCY will shortly arise for Clerk in the Estate Office of the Earl of Iveagh. Starting salary about £600. Rent free modernised cottage standing in half-acre with garage. Duties mainly accounting and ideally suited to ex-C.P.O. Writer. Further details from Lieut.-Col. A. Nicholson, R.N., Estate Manager, Lady Place Cottage, Church Hill, Pyrford, near Woking, Surrey.

It pays to advertise in the columns of NAVY NEWS

MISCELLANEOUS

C. H. BERNARD & SONS LTD. are always happy to consider purchasing second-hand swords with or without scabbards, and any Officers wishing to sell should write in the first instance to Angia House, Harwich, Essex, or at the Naval Ports to contact the local branch.

HOUSE PURCHASE. An ideal scheme for those looking ahead 100% advance after three years at low rate of interest. Mortgages repaid in the event of death—Write for leaflet, "The House Assured," to the Provident Life Association of London Ltd. 246 Bishopsgate, London, E.C.2.

HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS AND BAGGAGE stored, moved and packed and shipped—White & Co. Ltd. 126 London Road, North End Junction, Portsmouth. Phone 63221.

COLLINS ROYAL AND MERCHANT NAVAL DIARY

A pocket reference book for men of the Royal and Merchant Navies and for everyone interested in seafaring. Available in many bindings from 5s. 3d to 7s. 9d. from all stationers.

FORRES SELF-DRIVE HIRE. Cars delivered alongside of ships' return to the United Kingdom at no extra charge. New Mo is 1000s—comprehensive insurance. Special low rates. Apply to White Rose Engineering Company, Liss, Hants. Phone Liss 2121.

AXAX radio controlled taxis, 24-hour service. Tel: Portsmouth 35333/4 (two lines).

ACE DRIVING SCHOOL — "The School to get you Through." High percentage first-time passes with our high-grade teaching methods. Dual-controlled A3 and Hillman cars. Reasonable terms. Easy payment scheme available. Pupils met at barracks or other convenient place. Lady Instructor available if preferred for W.R.N.S. and naval wives.—103 Ca. diff. Road, North End, Portsmouth, Tel: 62752.

ACCOMMODATION

TO LET. Bed-sitting-room and kitchenette. Furnished. Gas fire, slot meter. No linen or cutlery. No children. 50s. per week including electric light.—Mrs. Tilcock, 21 Malvern Road, Southsea.

ELLIOTT

Excellent prospects for these

TECHNICAL ASSISTANTS

We are looking for a number of young men to assist in carrying out functional tests on a wide variety of electronic equipment. They will be given full training together with every encouragement to progress to Engineering grades. A good starting salary will be paid to men with either a basic knowledge and experience of electronic circuits or education to O.N.C. or G.C.E. 'A' level in Maths/Physics. There are excellent staff benefits in operation.

Please write in detail to:

The Personnel Manager
ELLIOTT BROTHERS
(LONDON) LIMITED
Elstree Way, Borehamwood, Herts.

G.E.C. APPLIED ELECTRONICS LABORATORIES STANMORE, MIDDLESEX

Prototype Test Engineers

Vacancies exist for competent engineers to work on the electrical proving of a variety of prototype electronic equipment developed in the laboratories.

A sound knowledge of circuit fundamentals is essential and experience in making measurements to specification in industry or the Services is highly desirable.

Applicants should possess a Higher National Certificate in Electrical Engineering, but other applicants with considerable experience are invited to apply.

Please write to the Staff Manager, stating age, experience, and qualifications, quoting Ref. NN/JT.

POSTS FOR MEN IN H.M. PRISON SERVICE PRISONS AND BORSTALS

AGE 21 to 42 (or 44½ for men with long service in the armed forces) minimum height 5' 6"

PAY £10.16s.6d. a week rising to £15.3s.0d. a week.

PLUS

Free quarters or an allowance of up to £2.5s.0d. a week.

Free uniform

Three weeks' holiday with pay, plus 9 public holidays

Full pay during training.

Pensionable appointments with promotion prospects.

Additional allowances for officers who qualify in certain building trades, electricians, heating and hot water fitters, cooks, physical education instructors and hospital officers.

Send for illustrated booklet and application form to:

Establishment Officer (LA 41), Prison Commission Horseferry House, Dean Ryle Street, London S.W.1

Members of the Royal Marine Commando landing at Tovik

THE LONDON AMBULANCE SERVICE

requires
MEN AND WOMEN as
DRIVER/ATTENDANTS

Basic pay £12 ls. (42-hour week) including first-aid and running repairs allowances. Shift workers' pay ranges £13 8s. to £14 9s. Initial training with pay. Uniform provided. Paid holidays. Pension scheme on permanent appointment. Applicants, aged 21-45, must be experienced drivers in good health.

Apply to the Officer-in-Charge (LAS. 1/N/2502/11),

LONDON AMBULANCE SERVICE
150 Waterloo Road, S.E.1

Members of the H.M.S. Terror Rifle Club with some of their trophies. Front row: P.O. M.(E.) R. Conisbee, Writer Bloy. Sitting: Chief O.A. D. Neave, Mrs. B. Thorpe, Capt. G. O. Roberts, R.N., Chief P.O. W. Rudman, Shipwright R. Squires. Standing: A. N. Other, L./Writer C. Thurston, A. N. Other and Lieut. R. R. Hepple, R.N.

H.M.S. Terror has crack rifle team WINS SEVEN OUT OF TEN TROPHIES

At the Singapore Small Bore Rifle Association Open Meeting at Bukit Timah Rifle Range, H.M.S. Terror won seven of the ten trophies competed for, including the Team Championship.

Petty Officer Mechanic (E) Raymond Conisbee won the Major Individual Award — the Singapore State Championship.

Mrs. B. Thorpe, wife of Lieutenant F. R. Thorpe, R.N., an officer on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, Far East Station, started 22 shooting whilst serving in the W.R.N.S. 1948-1950, won the Ladies' Open Championship, making her the Ladies' Indoor and Outdoor Champion Shot.

In the Services League, organised and run by H.M.S. Terror Rifle Club, A and B Teams are in 1st and 2nd places in Division One, and the C Team is at the top of Division Two.

The Club Captain is Chief Petty Officer Walter Rudman who started shooting in 1936. His past representations include H.M.S. Excellent, H.M.S. Victory, H.M.S. Mercury, Portsmouth Commando R.M., Royal Navy, Portsmouth District, and Singapore State. His trophy collection is about 40 cups and medals.

HINCKLEY STANDARD DEDICATED

WHEN the standard of the Hinckley Branch of the Royal Naval Association was dedicated at the Parish Church on September 24, representatives of branches, with their standards, from Leicester, Coventry, Nuneaton, Bloxwich, Leamington, Warwick, Smethwick, Lichfield and Central Birmingham attended.

In addition the local Branches of the Old Contemptibles, British Legion, and Royal Air Forces Association were at the parade.

Shipmate A. Orton was the Parade Marshal and there were over one hundred in the parade to the Parish Church where the Vicar of Hinckley, the Reverend E. W. Platt conducted the service of dedication.

The Branch President, Councillor K. Wileman, the National Council Member, Mr. George Young, and the Branch Vice-President, Doctor Wood, were in the Church together with the Area President Shipmate J. Wark and the Area Chairman and Vice-Chairman Shipmates N. Stubbs and J. Middleton.

The Hinckley standard bearer was Shipmate V. Kirby and the escorts were Shipmates A. Thomas and R. Kay.

After the ceremony the guests were entertained to tea by the wives and daughters of the branch members.

ALDERMASTON FOUNDER MEMBER DIES

THE Aldermaston branch of the Royal Naval Association has lost another founder member by the death of Shipmate William Hood, at the age of 68.

Shipmate Hood was an ex-Gunnery Instructor who served in both World Wars and was the landlord of the Butt Inn, the branch headquarters when the Aldermaston branch was formed in 1949, and he will long be remembered for the interest he always took in the branch and in the Association.

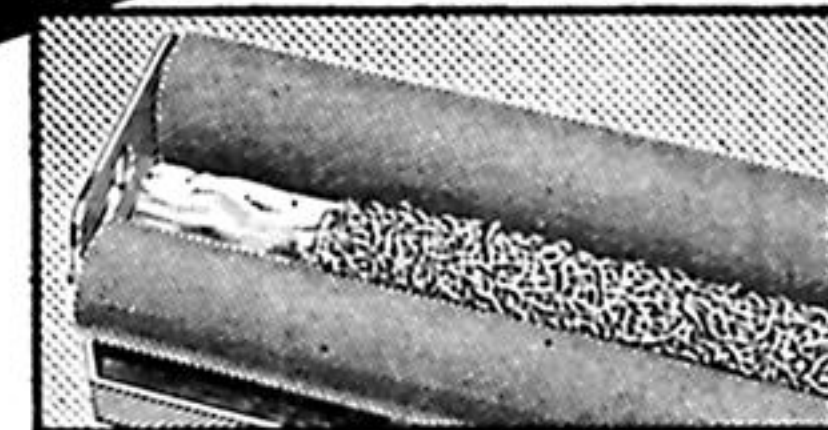

Aldermaston shipmates attended a memorial service in Aldermaston Church on October 22.

R.N.A. remembers

OVER 40 branches of the Royal Naval Association will be sending representatives to a short service to be conducted by the Very Rev. Thomas Crick on November 9 when crosses will be planted in the Garden of Remembrance.

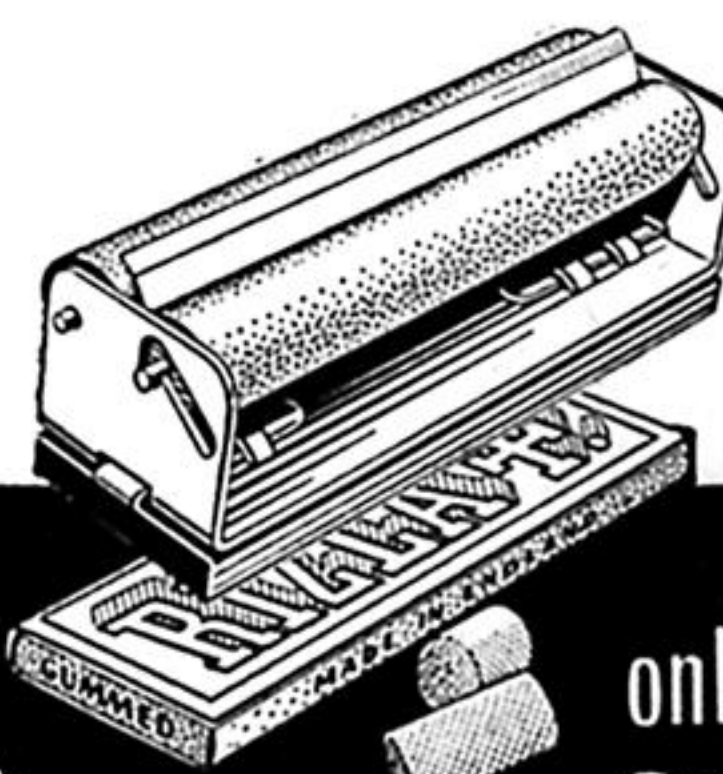

12 cigarettes for 3d

If you roll your own cigarettes, here's how to get 12 extra cigarettes from a 3d. packet of RIZLA Cigarette papers. Crumple a cigarette paper and place on machine as shown, it will save enough tobacco to make 12 extra cigarettes at a cost of 3d!

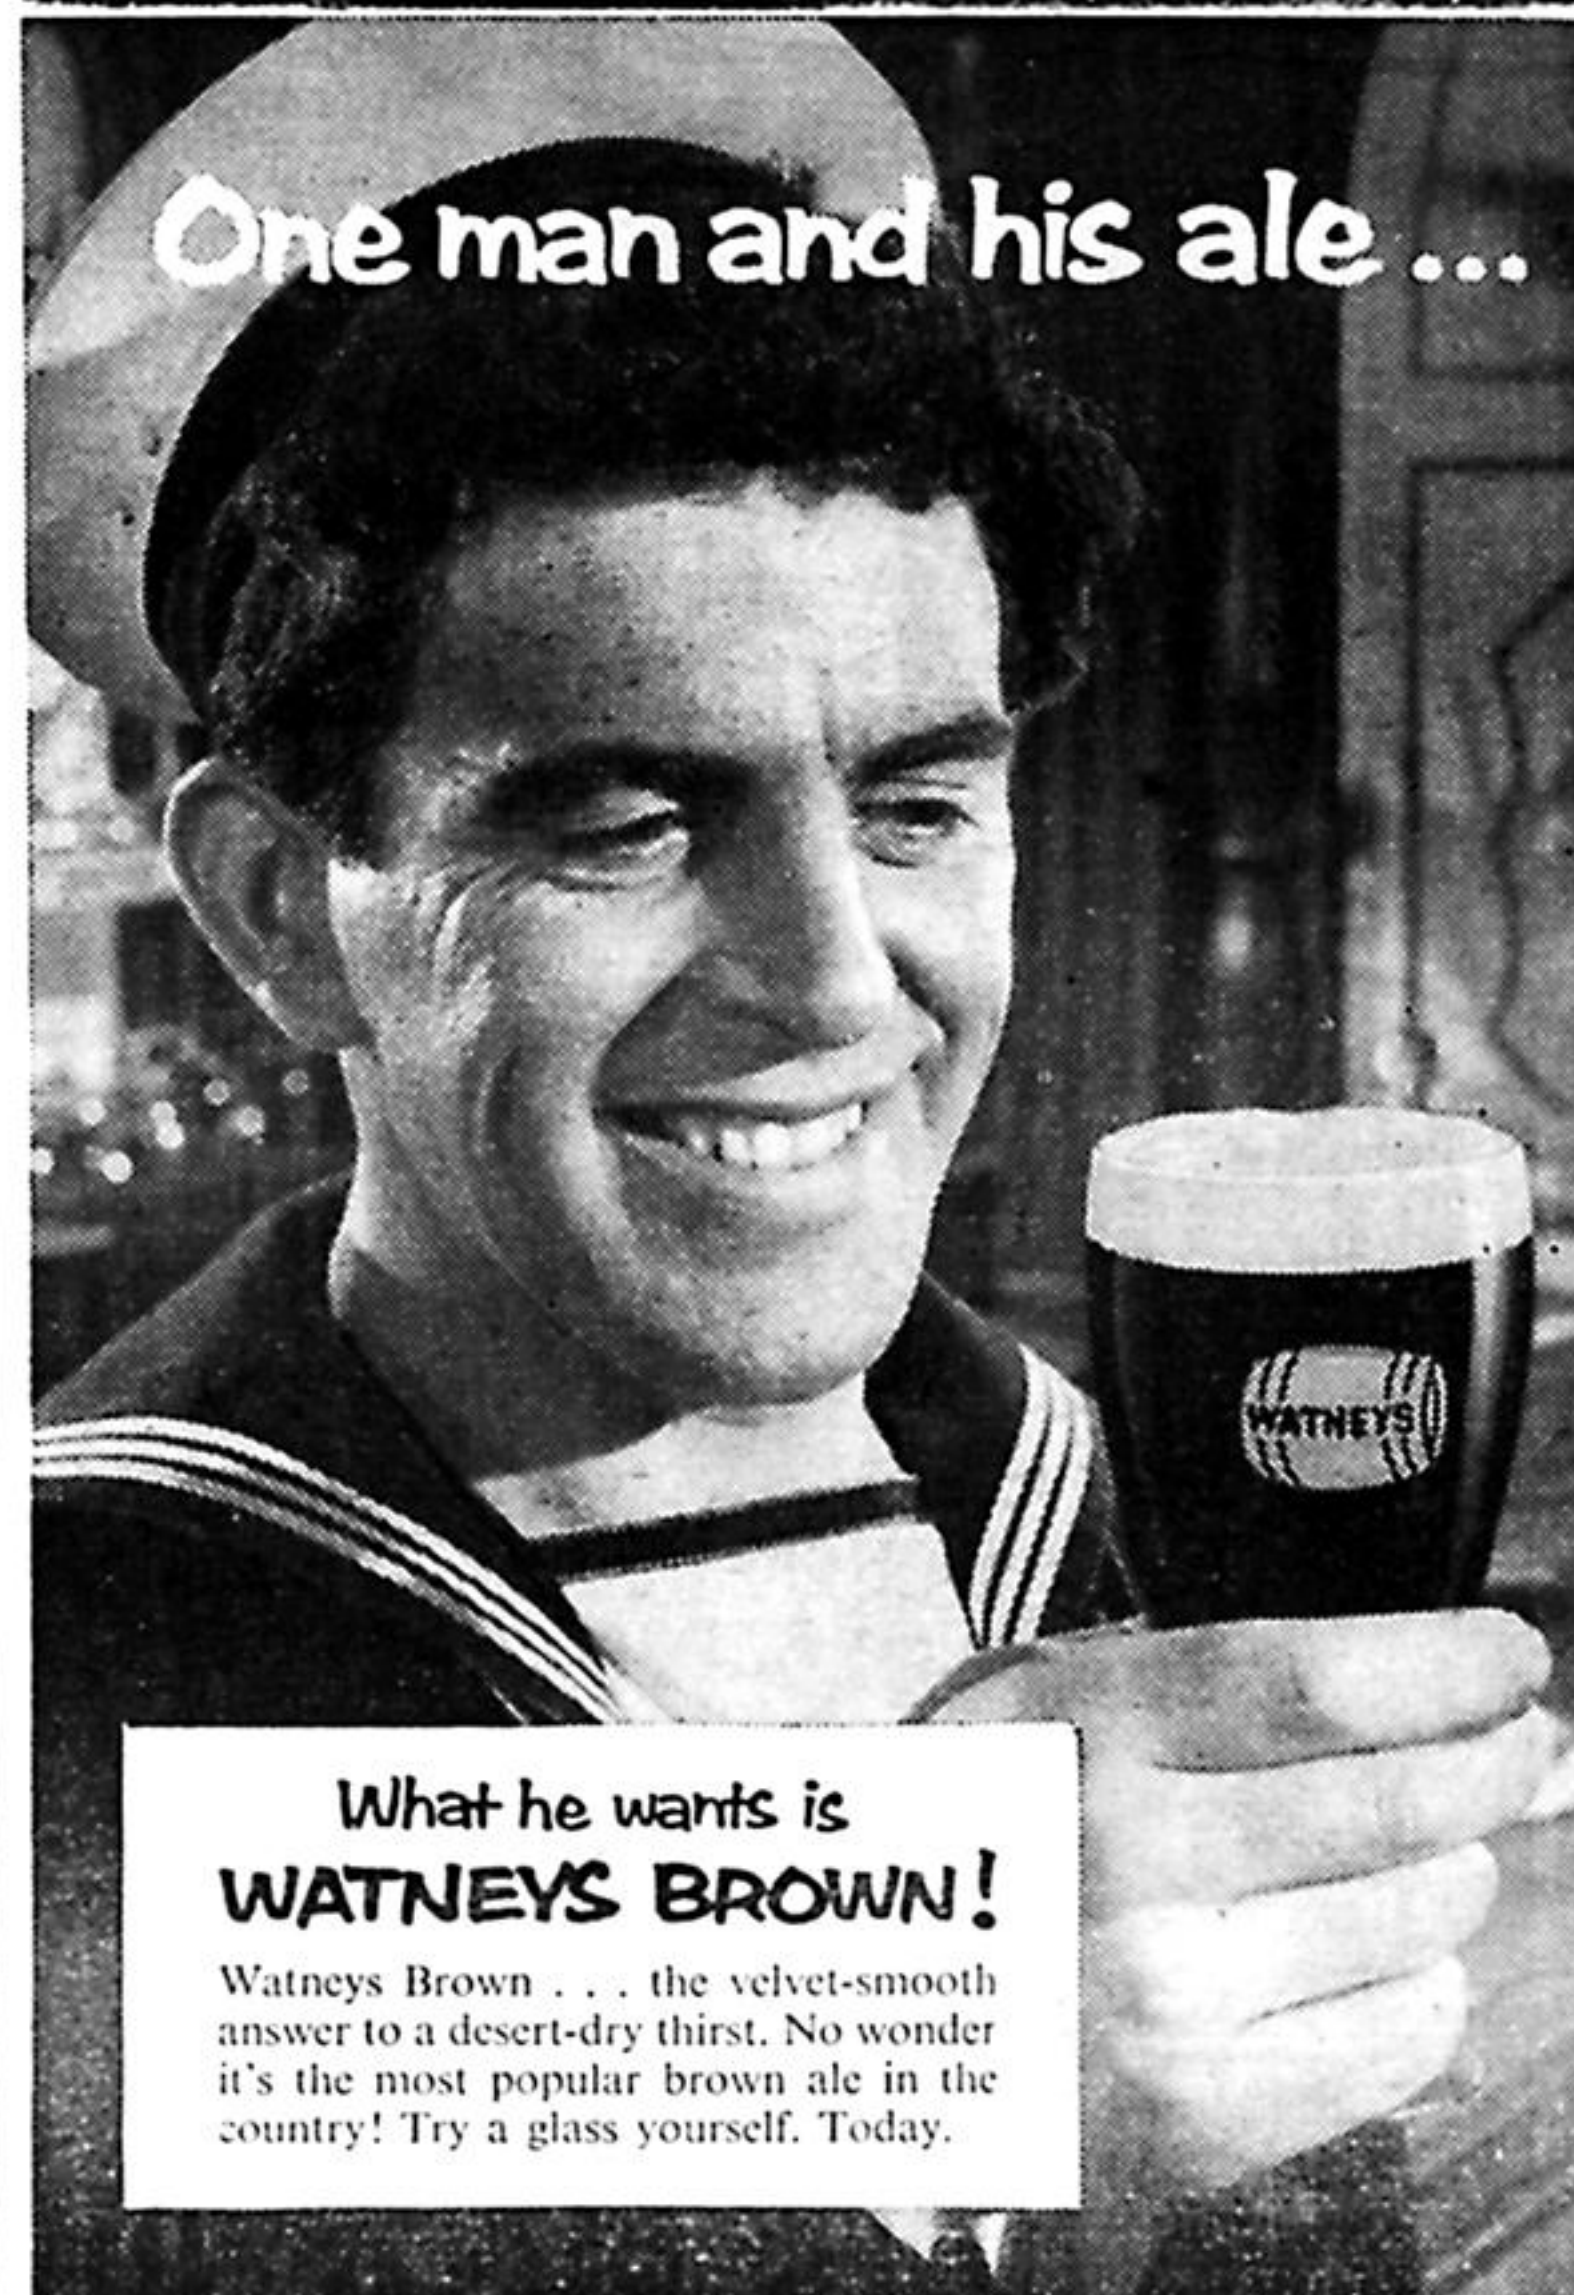

20 cigarettes for 8d

By using RIZLA Filter Tips, you not only save enough tobacco to make 20 extra cigarettes with every 8d box of 100 tips, but you also trap a large percentage of nicotine, tobacco tars, etc., and can smoke more in consequence. Note: for a cooler smoke always tap cigarette (TIP DOWNWARDS) before smoking.

Get a RIZLA
outfit today from your tobacconist only 9½d

One man and his ale ...

What he wants is WATNEYS BROWN!

Watneys Brown . . . the velvet-smooth answer to a desert-dry thirst. No wonder it's the most popular brown ale in the country! Try a glass yourself. Today.

What we want is WATNEYS

BROWN ALE : PALE ALE : HAMMERTON STOUT : DAIRYMAID STOUT

Suppliers to the Admiralty, M.O.S. & G.P.O.

SPECIAL ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT

INCLUDING
AUTOMATIC VOLTAGE
REGULATORS
CARBON PILE & TRANSISTOR
TYPES
ROTARY TRANSFORMERS
MOTOR GENERATORS

NEWTON BROTHERS (DERBY) LTD.

ALFRETON ROAD, DERBY

Order or Renewal Form

(Delete as appropriate)

'NAVY NEWS' OFFICE, ROYAL NAVAL BARRACKS, PORTSMOUTH

Please post a copy of each issue of "Navy News" to

NAME

ADDRESS

I enclose herewith money order/postal order/cheque value 8/-, being a subscription for 12 issues, including postage.

Commence..... (Month)

If member of R.N. Association, please state Branch